11 Top Reds Found Guilty And Medina Jails Counsel

New York, Oct. 14 (AP).—The Nation's 11 top Communist leaders were convicted today of plotting to advocate violent revolution in the United States.

Handcuffed, they were hustled into a prison van and whisked off to jail within an hour to await sentencing next Friday. They face maximum sentences of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine each.

With the verdict in, Federal Judge Harold R. Medina turned on the five defense attorneys and the top defendant, Eugene Dennis, and sentenced them to jail for contempt during the nine-month trial.

A Smashing Blow

The jury's verdict and the court's action were a smashing one-two blow to the Communist Party in America.

Defense Attorney Harry Sacher said the jury's verdict and Judge Medina's contempt sentences will be appealed to the Supreme Court.

The defendants were ready with a statement—prepared in advance of the verdict.

They blamed it on President Truman, Wall Street, the Republican Party and war profiteers.

They said the Communist Party would continue despite "the infamous verdict of this Hitler-like trial."

In Washington, Congressmen applauded when the verdict was announced on the House floor.

Case Started by Clark

Attorney General Tom Clark, now a Supreme Court justice, started the case in 1948 to try for a clear-cut court ruling that the Communist Party of America was a revolutionary band.

Representative Quinn (D., N. Y.) said the verdict establishes just that.

Attorney General McGrath called the outcome of the trial "gratifying."

Whether the verdict would enable the Government virtually to outlaw the party remained to be seen.

For the first two months of the trial, perhaps the longest Federal criminal case in history, the defense argued that the cards were stacked against it. Negroes and other minorities had little chance to get on the jury, they said.

Negro Pronounces Verdict

Today it was a Negro, Mrs. Thelma Dial, who pronounced the verdict.

She led the jury into the crowded, tense courtroom at 11:27 a. m. (EST) after seven hours of deliberations. The case went to the eight women and four men at 3:53 p. m. yesterday.

"Madame Foreman, have you reached a verdict?" asked Court Clerk William Borman.

"Yes," said Mrs. Dial in a low voice.

"How do you find?"

"We find each and every one of

Alcoa Wage Talks Halt; Strike Set For Sunday Night

Pittsburgh, Oct. 14 (AP) — The Aluminum Co. of America and the CIO United Steelworkers tonight broke off wage contract negotiations. A strike is set for 12:01 a. m. (EST) Monday.

The strike will affect 20,000 Alcoa workers in nine plants in nine States.

The steelworkers sought an undisclosed wage increase and a company-paid pension and insurance program. The pension and insurance demand was similar to the one which has closed down the Nation's steel industry.

M. M. Anderson, Alcoa vice president in charge of industrial relations, said the union "flatly rejected the principle that private pension plans should be affected by future changes in social security laws."

Fahy, 2 Others Seem Certain To Be Named to Court Posts

Kirkland | Washington | Fahy

Bazelon | Bastian | McLaughlin

It appeared almost a certainty yesterday that Charles Fahy, David L. Bazelon and George T. Washington will be White House nominees for three new places on the United States Court of Appeals bench here.

This was confirmed yesterday by The Washington Post as President Truman again delayed filling 27 Federal judgeship vacancies.

Fahy was Solicitor General in the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations; Bazelon is Assistant Attorney General in charge of alien property, and Washington is Assistant Solicitor General.

At the same time it was learned that Mr. Truman intends to nominate Walter M. Bastian and James R. Kirkland, prominent attorneys in the District, and Charles F. McLaughlin, former Congressman from Nebraska, to fill three new District Court judgeships just created by Congress.

These are six of the 27-judgeship appointments (the others are scattered throughout the Nation) to be made very shortly by the Chief Executive.

Charles G. Ross, presidential press secretary, would not say if the nominations would be announced today.

However, President Truman yesterday indicated he hoped to send up most of the nominations before Congress adjourns. He went over final recommendations yesterday with Attorney General McGrath and Democratic National Chairman William Boyle.

This is the political complexion of the six men expected to be elevated to judgeships here:

Fahy, Bazelon, Washington and McLaughlin are Democrats, and Bastian and Kirkland are Republicans.

Senate District Group to Ask Full 7-Member Staff to Quit

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

The full seven-member staff of the Senate District Committee will be asked today to resign within 30 days.

The move was ordered late yesterday by unanimous vote of four Democratic and four Republican members of the Senate District Committee, meeting behind closed doors at the call of Chairman Matthew M. Neely (D., W. Va.).

Wheeler | Stewart

Chairman Neely announced that the full committee had set up a three-member subcommittee headed by Senator Olin D. Johnston (D., S. C.). The subcommittee will notify the staff today.

One startling result of the decision is to put Neely, Administration supporter, in the position of paving the way for the resignation of A. L. Wheeler from his $10,000-a-year job as chief clerk of Neely's committee. Wheeler is chairman of the District Democratic Central Committee.

Wheeler is one of two staff members hired since the Democrats took over the Eighty-first Congress. He was brought in under the chairmanship of former Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.), now Attorney General, to succeed J. George Stewart, former Republican Congressman from Delaware. Stewart has continued on the staff as clerk to the minority.

The second staff member appointed when McGrath was chairman is Mrs. Anna Monat, one of three secretaries.

Senator Neely paid warm tribute to James R. Kirkland, committee counsel, who is slated for nomination as judge of District Court here. If it were not for the impending judgeship, Neely said he had no doubt that every member of the committee would join in wanting to keep Kirkland on the staff as counsel.

Neely described the housecleaning maneuver as a matter of general committee policy. He said that most of the committee staff represented patronage for one State, Delaware.

Stewart, Kirkland, Mrs. Edna Ward and Mrs. Ruth Bryant were appointed by former chairman C. Douglas Buck (R., Del.) in the last Congress. A fifth staff member, Thomas Henderson, was assigned to the staff at the request of Senator Harry P. Cain (R., Wash.) when he was a member of the committee in the last Congress. Henderson has been assistant counsel assigned to work primarily on fiscal matters. Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Bryant are secretaries.

Senator Neely said that all the present staff members, after they submit their resignations, will be at liberty to apply for reappointment. Committee members indicated their belief that Wheeler will not be rehired, and that Stewart may be rehired at the request of the minority.

Senate Fails To Set Date For DP Vote

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Three roadblocks to adjournment continued unbroken last night.

Farm and armed service conferees still were deadlocked and the Senate failed even to set a date for a displaced persons vote.

Legislators unpacked for a stopover next week amid these developments:

1. DPs. A proposed unanimous consent agreement to vote today on a motion to recommit legislation liberalizing the displaced persons law, and an indefinite talkathon seemed in prospect.

Behind Closed Doors

2. Farm. House and Senate conferees held two closed-door sessions but got nowhere. Senate conferees rejected a suggested House "compromise" extending 90 percent of parity props under basic commodities for the next three years.

3. Armed services. By a standing vote of 109 to 4, the House rejected the Senate's move to continue stop-gap appropriations for national defense until January 15, 1950. It proposed next Tuesday as a new deadline for permanent appropriations. The fundamental stalemate between the House-approved 58-group Air Force and the Senate-approved 48 groups continued.

A bitter leadership clash marked last night's attempt to bring the displaced persons bill to an early test, and once again the charge of "filibuster" was hurled at the opposition.

After a series of interparty conferences, Senate Majority Leader Lucas (D., Ill.) proposed a vote at 6 o'clock tonight on the opposition's DP recommittal motion. Senator Langer (R., N. Dak.) objected. Lucas then proposed a vote at 6 p. m. Monday. Langer blocked that, too.

Langer said he would not object to a vote last night and Republican Leader Wherry (Nebr.), who had been conferring with opponents of the bill in both parties all day, took Langer's suggestion.

Denies "Holding Gun"

Senator Knowland (R., Calif.), a friend of the bill, finally proposed the Senate vote last midnight. Senate Democratic Whip Myers (Pa.) blocked that, saying it would be "unfair" to Senators who left early.

Both Lucas and Myers opened fire at Wherry. Lucas said Wherry had agreed "to bring in an agreement" to vote Saturday. Myers accused Wherry of taking a "take this or you'll get nothing" stand.

Myers charged that opponents "counted noses" and found enough friends of the bill were absent to recommit it last night.

Wherry said he had agreed merely to try to work out a voting agreement and had done his best to reach one. He denied "holding a gun at anybody's head."

Party Lines Broken

Lucas then served notice of a Saturday session of the Senate. (The House had quit until noon Monday.) Lucas told the Senate he hoped for a vote today anyway, but Langer told newsmen there wasn't a chance. Quorum difficulties, which held up the Senate several times yesterday, may plague it again today, and some expected an early recess until Monday.

Both Republican and Democratic ranks meanwhile split wide open on the displaced persons issue and the vote on the motion to recommit

Gen. Collins Called Home In Navy Row

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, last night was called home from Japan to answer Navy charges that Army and Air Force chiefs have ganged up on the Navy.

Acting Secretary of the Army Tracy Voorhees announced he had asked Collins to cut short a Far Eastern inspection trip "because of hearings before Congress vitally affecting unification of the armed services."

He is expected to present the Army's side of the great row raging over military strategy before the House Armed Services Committee next week. Admiral Louis Denfeld, Chief of Naval Operations and Collins' colleague on the Joint Chiefs of Staff, charged Thursday that he is outvoted consistently in the JCS on questions that should be the Navy's business with the result that the fleet is losing its effectiveness.

The unprecedented controversy simmered during the weekend recess of the hearings, but is expected to burst forth again Monday. Then two top Marines—Gen. Clifton B. Cates and Gen. A. A. Vandegrift—will be heard, followed by the "rebuttal" witnesses.

Air Force Secretary W. Stuart Symington and Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, USAF chief of staff, are scheduled next, followed probably by at least one or two other Air Force witnesses. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Gen. Omar Bradley and Collins will follow, with Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson being heard last, under present plans.

Many members of the House committee conceded yesterday that the Navy had made a prima facie case for at least some points of its indictment of current Pentagon policies, procedures and war strategy.

They wanted, however, to "hear the other side" before forming any definite conclusions. And more, most of the committeemen were opposed to trying to settle any of the issues now. Several favored referring the whole controversy to a special high-level presidential board.

Most of them felt the group should adjourn until January after hearing Johnson, the Army and Air Force, and "let public sentiment jell a bit." Committeemen consider the issues raised by the Navy too technical for them to handle, and they hope others can be worked out at the Pentagon.

The proposal to submit the whole dispute to a civilian board named by President Truman came from Representatives Overton Brooks (D., La.) and Mel Price (D., Ill.), wo of the strongest Air Force supporters on the committee.

Navy backers on the committee cited this as an indication that a sizable majority had been won over tentatively by the Navy's

World Bank Unlikely To Issue Bonds in '49

Eugene Black, president of the World Bank, yesterday said the 48-nation institution does not expect to issue new bonds during 1949, and probably won't for some time beyond that.

The bank, he explained to reporters, has about 315 million dollars in loose funds on hand now, and that should be enough for any lending the bank is likely to do until well into 1950, at least.

PROSPECT HOUSE, home of the late James V. Forrestal, former Secretary of Defense, has been leased by the State Department as a guest house for distinguished foreign visitors. The 12-room Georgetown mansion is at 3508 Prospect st. nw. Blair House, on Pennsylvania ave., intended for visiting notables, is a residence now for President Truman while the White House is being repaired. The house was leased from Mrs. Forrestal on October 12 for a period ending June 30, 1950, with privilege of renewal. ## House Passes $1.3 Billion Arms Aid Bill

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

After a State Department warning that the United States would be "the ultimate target" for the Soviet Union's "aggressions," the House yesterday overwhelmingly approved a $1,314,010,000 foreign arms appropriation.

The arms measure, providing the actual cash to finance the new global anti-Communist defense program, now goes to the Senate, where swift approval is expected.

One billion dollars is to finance shipment of United States arms and equipment to Atlantic Pact nations. The remainder is earmarked for military aid to Greece, Turkey, Iran, Korea, the Philippines and the China area.

House approval of the money closely followed Appropriations Committee clearance.

The committee made public some of the secret testimony it received from high Government officials, including Undersecretary of State James E. Webb.

Webb said the Soviet Union had demonstrated its intention to pick off one by one the countries of western Europe.

"Specious professions of a love for peace no longer deceive the civilized world," Webb said. "Actions speak louder than words. The hard facts of international life today, for us, for the nations of western Europe, and even for such of the Soviet Union's more recent allies as Yugoslavia, stand forth in stark reality from the record of USSR broken promises, threatened aggression, and subversive fifth-column activities on every continent and in every country."

The American people, Webb continued, have no doubt the fear of

Hiss Loses Bid For Trial Shift To Vermont

New York, Oct. 14 (AP) Alger Hiss today lost his bid to have the scene of his second perjury trial shifted from New York to Vermont.

Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe ruled there was no basis in the former high State Department official's contention that the publicity given the first trial so affected public sentiment that a fair hearing in New York now would be impossible.

Hiss is scheduled to go on trial for a second time November 1. His first trial ended July 8 in a jury disagreement, eight for conviction and four for acquittal.

The former top-drawer lieutenant of the Roosevelt Administration is accused of lying when he denied to a Federal grand jury that he passed State Department secrets to Whittaker Chambers for transfer to a prewar Soviet spy ring. A second count charged him with lying when he said he did not see Chambers after 1937.

Chambers is a former senior editor of Time magazine and now runs a farm in Maryland. He has admitted he once was a Communist courier and has testified Hiss gave him official secrets.

Hershey Hints Of Draft Call In Near Future

Boston, Oct. 14 (U.P.).—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, today said there was reason for thinking there would be another draft call "in the near future."

Hershey, here on a visit to State Selective Service headquarters, estimated that the armed forces now are about 25,000 men below strength.

"When we stopped drafting we were 25,000 over strength" he said. There have been no draft calls since the first of the year.

Hershey said he had not received any orders for a new call, but said the manpower shortage was "grounds for thinking" there would be one soon.

Conferees Fix Average Increase of $140 Yearly

Final Action Slated Today on Classified Salary Measure by House-Senate Group

By Jerry Kluttz
Post Reporter

More than 180,000 Federal and District Government workers in Greater Washington would get an average pay boost of $140 a year in an agreement reached yesterday by the Senate and House conferees on the classified pay bill. Final action on the report is slated for today.

The pay boosts in the report range from a minimum of $93.50 to a maximum of $216. The bill would cost an estimated 130 million dollars a year and it would benefit an estimated 885,000 Federal and District workers whose salaries are fixed by the Classification Act.

Meantime, the Senate approved and sent to the White House the conference report on the executive pay bill—a measure the President has repeatedly asked Congress to approve. Mr. Truman is expected to sign it into law early next week. The bill provides salaries ranging from a minimum of $14,000 for the heads of several small agencies to a top of $22,500 for Cabinet members.

One Question Unsettled

The conferees yesterday agreed to a classified schedule with a minimum of $2200 and a tentative top of $11,000. The one big unsettled question is whether to add one or two more grades and boost the ceiling to either $12,500 or $14,000. The Administration has suggested the $14,000 ceiling. The original House bill provided a $15,000 top; the Senate bill $12,500. These decisions were made by the conferees:

1. To retain the present efficiency rating system, but to direct the Civil Service Commission to recommend its revision in six months.

2. Rejected an Administration plan to bring the 17,000 doctors, nurses and dentists of the Veterans Administration under the classified bill.

3. Adopted a rider to prevent pay cuts for the clerical-mechanical employes of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing when they are transferred from the Classification Act to the Treasury wage board. The National Federation of Federal Employes proposed the rider.

4. Approved the plan of Senator Long (D., La.) to require each Federal agency to set up a committee to award employes and supervisors alike for outstanding work.

Loafing Inquiry Ordered

5. Adopted the House pay scale for the crafts, protective and custodial service (CPC) that would boost the average pay of these 100,000 employes by $125 each.

On the House side, its Civil Service Committee ordered an inquiry into overstaffing and loafing in Government. Chairman Murray appointed a subcommittee headed by Representative John

Downey May Sue Ickes for Remark About 'Perjury'

By The Associated Press

Senator Downey (D., Calif.) threatened yesterday to start court action against former Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes who accused him of "unabashed perjury."

"There certainly will be civil suits," the Californian declared.

Downey made this remark at a meeting of the Senate Interior Committee before which Ickes had leveled charges Thursday. The committee is investigating operations of the Reclamation Bureau directed by Michael Straus.

In his testimony Ickes told the committee that Downey stated falsely under oath that the bureau's former Commissioner Harry W. Bashore had resigned because he could not endure political pressure applied by Straus and his associates.

Missing Student Is Found Shot To Death, Gun Cradled in Arm

ROBERT SULLIVAN

A 15-year-old Wilson High School sophomore, missing from his home here since October 1, was found yesterday shot through the head.

Although a pearl-handled Luger pistol which he was known to carry was found cradled in his left elbow, his mother immediately expressed belief he may have been shot by another person. Morgue officials said that a bullet passed through the right side of his head.

The boy was Robert R. Sullivan, son of Mrs. Edith C. Maxey, with whom he lived at 4831 36th st. nw., and Harold R. Sullivan, her divorced husband, a deputy United States marshal, of Boston, Mass.

An autopsy will be performed at the District Morgue at noon today.

The body was found in a deep, heavily-wooded ravine in an area known as Soapstone Valley Parkway, to the rear of the Chevy Chase Ice Palace, near Connecticut ave. and Albemarle st. nw. It was about a block east of Connecticut ave. and two blocks south of Albemarle st., nearly a mile from the boy's home.

Robert was the third missing boy found dead in the Washington area within a week. The others were Harrison McKinley Walker, 8, of 2454 Snow's ct. nw., found murdered last Sunday in lower Rock Creek Park, and Otis Mason, 6, found drowned Thursday a mile from his home on Notley rd., near Colesville, Md.

First report that Robert was missing came to police October 6, when his father came here from Boston to help search for the boy. The father quoted Robert's

Ex-Internal Revenue Expert Admits Evading $4818 in Tax

Baltimore, Oct. 14 (Spl.).—Kinsey H. Dillon, 55, who was an expert accountant in the Bureau of Internal Revenue in Washington, today was sentenced to six months in jail and fined $5000 after he pleaded guilty in Federal Court to attempted evasion of $4818 in income taxes.

Dillon was employed by the bureau as an accountant and auditor for about 30 years. Judge W. Calvin Chesnut was told by Norman P. Ramsey, assistant United States attorney for Maryland.

The defendant, who is married and has two grown sons, lives at 4602 24th ave., in the Prince Georges County community of Lewisdale, just east of Takoma Park.

Ramsey disclosed that Dillon in recent years had served as a post-audit reviewer of the work of revenue agents, and that he handled the most difficult problems of partnership and corporation returns.

Dillon reported net earnings of $3574 for 1945 and paid a tax of $728 when he actually had a net income of $5938 for that year and owed $1377, Ramsey asserted.

For the next year, the prosecutor continued, Dillon reported a net income of $4334 and paid $763 in taxes, but his real net earnings were $16,485 and the tax $4933.

Judge Chesnut was told that Dillon purchased second trust notes at a discount, but failed to report interest received on the notes or profit on them when the notes finally were paid.

The prosecutor said Dillon claimed a loss on two of the notes

Darden Scolds Fraternities At Va. U. for Social 'Front'

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 14 (Spl.).—President Colgate W. Darden, jr., of the University of Virginia, today scolded fraternities and societies "dedicated to the outward and visible signs of social distinction."

He suggested they might help themselves and the university by setting scholastic standards for prospective members.

"The university has suffered too often in the past" from this group, he declared.

"The enervating hand of this social combination must be lifted from the student body . . ."

Although some of these organizations include "many students of genuine intellectual capacity and real public spirit," the president said, they have "failed signally as organizations to share the legitimate interests of a university community."

Darden, who proposed in 1942 as Governor of Virginia that sororities and fraternities be forbidden to maintain chapter houses, made his comments in a report for the fiscal year ended June 30.

"The university has suffered too often in the past from activities of a group of fraternities and societies dedicated to the outward and visible signs of social distinction," he said.

"A telling combination, and one which in the long run would be greatly in their own interest, could be made if they were to require certain scholastic proficiency as a prerequisite of membership."

Darden further suggested:

1. That the university provide help for students entering school

Lewis Urges Fund To Aid Steel Union

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

John L. Lewis, master of the unexpected, yesterday asked the big AFL unions to join the United Mine Workers in a $2,500,000-a-week assistance fund for the striking CIO Steelworkers.

The proposal, if taken seriously, could be the spark for initiating an eventual consolidation of the American Federation of Labor, Congress of Industrial Organizations and the unaffiliated United Mine Workers.

Unofficial comment at AFL headquarters here, however, indicated that Lewis' offer would be received with some suspicion and a lot of cynicism.

Lewis suggested in a letter to AFL President William Green that nine of the strongest AFL affiliates join the UMW in putting up $250,000 a week each for the duration of the steel strike, which began October 1.

"This Must Not Happen"

"One of the great segments of organized labor is engaged in vital economic conflict," Lewis wrote Green. "I refer to the United Steel Workers.

"Its adversaries are entrenched, of limitless financial credit, and powerful beyond compare. Allied with the basic steel companies in this vast and barbaric attack upon the Steel Workers are the major units of several industries, the investing insurance companies and the Du Pont and Mellon financial empires.

"These formidable allies are out to crush the power and destroy the structure of the Steel Workers Union. This must not happen. It need not happen."

Lewis announced his sensational offer at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., where he has been discussing a new contract for some 400,000 soft coal miners, on strike since September 19, with representatives of the mine owners.

In Washington, AFL head Green said he had not yet received the letter and would withhold comment until he did so

In his letter, Lewis, without naming names, said there were "at least" nine international unions of substantial cash resources in the AFL, capable of paying out $250,000 a week for an indefinite period "without strain, inconvenience, or burden to their membership.

"AFL officials here scratched their heads in wonder at Lewis' statement. They estimated that of the 100-odd AFL unions, only the teamsters, carpenters, bricklayers, and ladies' garment workers were well enough heeled to bear such a financial strain.

The UMW boss expressed the hope in his letter the AFL leaders "will agree to subordinate every other consideration and rise to meet in this fashion the giant adversaries which would decimate one by one the major units of organized labor."

Coal Tieup Unmentioned

The Lewis letter made no mention of the soft coal strike, but indicated the UMW was powerful enough to carry on without aid. The UMW is believed to have a reserve kitty of some 15 million dollars.

There was no immediate comment from the CIO or the Steelworkers. Labor observers here looked askance at Lewis' offer to help Philip Murray, president of both the CIO and the Steelworkers, his onetime aide and close friend. They have been bitter enemies since 1942, when Lewis turned his back on the CIO which he, more than any one man, had helped launch.

Lewis and the UMW withdrew from the AFL in 1936 to set up the CIO; withdrew from the CIO six years later; returned to the AFL in 1946; pulled out for a second time in 1947.

At various times the brimstone-tongued UMW boss has heaped scorn and ridicule on both Murray and Green. As recently as last week the UMW Journal denounced the "scared" leadership of Murray.

Murray and Green, for their part, have had some equally barbed words to say about Lewis and about each other.

Aid In Past Recalled

AFL officials here observed that action on Lewis' proposal would have to come from individual AFL unions. They pointed out that the steelworkers have not yet asked for financial assistance from any one. If the steelworkers should seek outside aid, they said, it was likely several AFL unions would extend a helping hand, even as the AFL International Ladies Garment Workers did in the 1946 strike of the CIO United Auto Workers against General Motors.

Meanwhile, the Northern and Western coal operators said yesterday they would prefer Government seizure of the mines to permitting Lewis to "cut our own throats" by yielding to his demands for new benefits to cost 30 to 35 cents a ton. Lewis would take the extra cost from what he says are the high profits of the operators.

Quiet continued on the steel front; little if any progress was reported toward peace in the strike of 500,000 steelworkers for non-contributory pensions and welfare benefits.

Top Federal mediators, who met with Bethlehem Steel representatives in New York Wednesday, were to return to Washington today. Exploratory peace talks with other steel companies will be held here next week.

CIO Files Brief In Opposition to Race Segregation

The CIO yesterday joined in a legal fight aimed at abolishing segregated dining car regulations on the Southern Railway.

Arthur J. Goldberg, CIO general counsel, filed a brief with the Supreme Court supporting the stand taken by Elmer W. Henderson in a suit against the railway and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Henderson contended the railway's segregated dining facilities are discriminatory and violate the Fourteenth Amendment.

Goldberg said in his "friend of the court" brief that "the CIO has a real and genuine interest in the elimination of discrimination based on color from every phase of American life."

Former Senator Back in Harness

SENATOR DWORSHAK

Boise, Idaho, Oct. 14 (AP).—Henry C. Dworshak, former Republican Senator and Representative, was appointed today to the United States Senate seat vacated by the death of Senator Bert H. Miller (D., Idaho).

Dworshak was named by Republican Gov. C. A. Robins. His selection reduces the Senate's Democratic majority to 52-44.

The new Senator is an aggressive champion of conservation, reclamation and Government economy and a bitter critic of the reciprocal trade agreement program.

He voted against the Marshall Plan, favored strict neutrality for America prior to Pearl Harbor, and is a foe of the proposed Columbia Valley Authority.

Dworshak was defeated by Miller last November in his first bid for election to a full Senate term. He had previously served four terms as Representative from Idaho's Second District, before he was appointed in 1946 to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator John Thomas.

His new appointment is until the general election in November, 1950. Then voters will make their choice for two Senators—one to serve the remainder of the term to which Miller was elected and one for the seat now held by Senator Glen H. Taylor (D., Idaho).

Recess Called Until Monday In TV Hearing

The Federal Communications Commission yesterday called a recess until Monday in its color television hearing.

The intermission was announced amid new indications that the FCC is nowhere near a decision on the question of authorizing color for commercial video. It appeared probable that testimony on the subject will go forward until near the end of this year, with the freeze on new television station grants remaining in effect.

The commission announced that, after hearing further testimony, it will require a competitive showing of rival color broadcasting systems proposed by Radio Corporation of America and Columbia Broadcasting System. These have already been viewed separately. The comparative demonstrations were ordered for the week of November 14.

Thereafter, the commission will go to California to view a third color system developed by Color Television, Inc., of San Francisco. This system will be demonstrated on the West Coast during the week of November 28.

Testimony in the color hearings here will be resumed on December 5.

Doctors Meet In London, Hit State Medicine

London, Oct. 14 (AP).—Physicians of many lands spoke out against socialized medicine schemes today before the World Medical Association.

But nearly all agreed that some form of subsidized medical service should be made to work.

The association elected Dr. Elmer Lee Henderson of Louisville, Ky., president for 1949-50. Henderson also is president-elect of the American Medical Association, one of WMA's 24 affiliated national groups.

Dr. Guy Dain, for the British Medical Association, said the BMA regarded itself as the grandfather of Britain's scheme but still didn't like the way it was working because it was introduced all at once, instead of piecemeal, swamping medical facilities.

He said the BMA is determined to see that it becomes the best state service possible.

Dr. Paul Cibrie of Paris urged physicians "to fight for your liberties." Dr. Paul Glorieux of Brussels said the health insurance scheme of Belgium is very costly and dominated by bureaucrats.

Look at Books Sought

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 14 (AP).—An NLRB examiner today recommended today that a Chattanooga leather company be ordered to open its books for inspection by a union in a labor dispute.

Regional NLRB Director Paul Styles said that if the recommendation is upheld by the full board, it could set a precedent.

Styles said the union-management issue of whether a company should be forced to open its financial records was first raised by the CIO'S Walter Reuther in bargaining with General Motors in 1946.

The recommendation today was in a dispute between the United Leather Workers International Union (AFL) and the Southern Saddlery Co. of Chattanooga.

The union first demanded a pay raise of 30 cents an hour. Throughout a full year of bargaining, the company contended it was unable to raise wages. The union reduced its demand to an increase of 10 cents an hour.

Trial Examiner George A. Dowling said that though the company "admitted price increases and a consistent record for paying dividends, it nevertheless maintained adamantly that it was financially unable to grant any wage increases, but it refused to produce any information which would substantiate its position."

Doctors Here Could Create a Football Team

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

The medical profession here knew it had its full quota of good sports, but just how many distinguished themselves athletically was unknown.

Then the District Medical Society checked up to see if it had enough former athletes to round out a "Doctors in Sports" exhibit for the forthcoming twentieth annual scientific assembly, which opens Monday.

In football alone, the checker-uppers report they found enough star material to staff a strong gridiron threat—if only time could be rolled back at will.

They found that in 1914, Dr. William J. Cusack was named All-Southern end for his playing on the Georgetown University team; and that in 1929, Dr. Julius J. Radice was fullback for the University of Maryland eleven.

Later, between 1935 and 1938, Dr. Nicholas G. Pistolas was at right guard for Columbia University. And way back in 1904, records disclosed, a couple of Georgetown gridders were drawing the cheers, now Drs. Leon Martel and Edward Larkin.

The investigators found not only star footballers but former greats of basketball, baseball, track, skeet shooting, lacrosse, pingpong, or you name it. Their findings are now ready for the exhibit at Hotel Statler during assembly activities.

The evidence on hand will show that:

Dr. Paul E. Zehfuss was a member of the championship University of Pittsburgh basketball team in 1927. Dr. Andrew A. Marchetti was pitching star for Johns Hopkins U., in 1921-22. Dr. John L. Parks captained the Wisconsin eleven in 1929.

Dr. Claude Moore was tackle for the football squad of the University of Virginia, in 1915. Dr. Walter R. Stokes is a former world champion rifle shot and Olympic medal winner of 1924. Dr. Don Johnson has amassed trophies in skeet shooting.

Dr. Hayden Kirby-Smith won the Mexico Golf Association trophy in 1930. Dr. Charles B. Crawford coached the University of Virginia football team in 1910. Dr. William J. Evans is on the hole-in-one roster of the Congressional Country Club.

Czechs Vote Curbs On All Religions

Prague, Oct. 14 (AP).—Czechoslovakia's Communist-led government today steamrollered through parliament two laws clamping tight control over the Roman Catholic and other churches.

The laws become effective November 1. They were passed by a unanimous show of hands.

Communist Minister of Justice Alexei Cepicka warned:

"Anyone who resists these laws will be broken as an enemy of the state."

The new laws provide for:

1. Making clergymen of all chruches' civil servants,, paid by the the state, and giving the government control over all church appointments, finances and administrative affairs.

2. The appointment of a cabinet minister to rule over church questions.

The legislation climaxed a week in which the government also struck hard in several other directions.

Police rounded up thousands of businessmen and political suspects.

Legislation aiming toward collectivization of agriculture was passed, ordering the pooling of privately held farm machinery and storage facilities. A purge of "political unreliables" also spread through government ministries.

Rajk Death Sentence Is Confirmed

Budapest, Hungary, Oct 14 (U.P.).—The Court of Appeals today confirmed death sentences against former Foreign Minister Laszlo Rajk and two of the five convicted as accomplices in treason.

Prison sentences for three others tried with Rajk also were upheld.

Tibor Szonyi, found guilty as an "American spy" and Andras Szalas were doomed to die with Rajk. Former Yugoslav diplomat Lazar Brankov and Pal Justus were sentenced to life imprisonment, and Milan Ognyenovics was sentenced to nine years.

The decision is final, unless the court itself appeals to the Presidential Council for review.

East Germany Joins Forces With Russia

Berlin, Oct. 14 (U.P.).—The new Communist government of Eastern Germany formally linked itself with Russia tonight in a common "fight for peace."

A pledge of Russian-German cooperation was made by Wilhelm Pieck and Otto Grotewohl, president and premier in answer to a greeting from Premier Josef Stalin.

A high and reliable German source asserted that Russia had promised to conclude a separate peace treaty with the Eastern German regime within three months. He asserted it would fix the frontier between Germany and Poland along the Oder-Neisse Rivers line which Poland and Russia claim.

Adenauer Asks End To Plant Dismantling

Bonn, Germany, Oct. 14 (U.P.).—Konrad Adenauer, West German chancellor, appealed to the three-power Allied high commission today for an early end of plant dismantling in Western Germany.

Adenauer offered substitute reparation deliveries of machines and raw materials if dismantling is stopped.

Adenauer also pushed the German demand for inclusion of Berlin as a 12th state in the West German Republic.

Churchill Asks For Election Month at Least

London. Oct. 14 (AP)—Winston Churchill today urged that Britain's Labor government announce at least the month in which it intends to call an election to replace a Parliament that he said is "not only dead but decomposing."

"On party grounds alone," Churchill told the seventieth annual rally of the Conservatives, "We can surely afford to wait. . . . Whenever it comes, we are ready.

"It is inevitable that all our affairs, especially our trade, will be hampered every week and every day by the unrest of an impending election at which so much is at stake, which may pounce out upon us at some moment tactically selected by the Socialist Party," he said.

Prime Minister Attlee can hold his government in office until the end of its five-year term next July.

The Prime Minister met twice with his cabinet economic committee today to talk over ways of saving dollars.

The Conservative rally promised to call a halt to nationalization of industries. The Conservatives would keep the Socialized Medical Service, but try to reduce the costs.

Churchill said the four years of Laborite rule has been "from beginning to end, a rake's progress of unbridled expenditure."

House Passes Arms Aid Bill

Russia felt by the free nations of Europe is abundantly justified.

"A power vacuum in western Europe stands as an open invitation for would-be aggressors to attempt quick and cheap victory.

"On the other hand, with existing forces in western Europe given the arms essential to make them balanced fighting forces, a deterrent to aggression would exist, because aggression would involve a full-scale costly effort."

Webb said that without aid the free nations could not maintain so strong a will to resist.

Common Sense, He Says

"Since the United States would unquestionably be the ultimate target of any all-out aggression by a major power, the strengthening of our friends is not charity. It is common sense.

"The United States will be much more secure when its friends in the North Atlantic security areas are less tempting targets."

The bill is to provide actual cash for one year's operations of the new arms program, but the Appropriations Committee reported that the military assistance project is expected to continue for four or five years. It said costs in succeeding years would be lower but did not estimate them.

Recipients Put Up Money

Defense experts told the committee that for every dollar provided by this country approximately six dollars is being put up by the recipient nations.

The military chieftains of the Atlantic Pact countries already have set up the over-all organization which will direct use of the arms once they have been delivered. The financial phase will be administered by James Bruce, former Ambassador to Argentina.

Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the lawmakers the goal of the program is "reasonable" security for those nations banded together against Communist advances.

"The alternative — absolute security — is unattainable," Bradley added.

Webb warned the Congress against delay in the arms program.

"Cannot Afford to Temporize"

"We cannot afford to temporize with this dangerous situation," he said. "Delay strengthens the hand of those who work night and day for the collapse of the free peoples of the world.

"We and our allies are opposed to forces which know how to make the most of hesitation and indecision. We shall pay over and over again, in currency more dear than dollars, if we do not squarely face the hard facts of international life today.

"That is why the President has decided to ask you to act promptly to implement this problem."

Timing Emphasized

Stressing again that time is of the essence, Webb declared:

"Timing is also of crucial importance today. While time remains to do the job we must take full advantage of it."

He urged that nothing less than the full billion-dollar appropriation for the North Atlantic pact countries would alow their governments to fill in the gaps in their supplies so that they might achieve "effective, balanced fighting units."

The Undersecretary told the committee that the Council and Defense Committee formed under the North Atlantic Pact have made "very considerable progress" toward agreement on an integrated defense.

It was his own estimate, Webb declared, that the Council and Defense Committees will be ready for recommendations within this month or the next.

Basing Point Bill Compromise Passed by House

By The Associated Press

The House yesterday passed a compromise basing point bill intended to exempt uniform delivered pricing practices from the antitrust laws. The revised measure now goes to the Senate.

By a roll call vote of 178 to 138, it first refused to reject a Senate-House compromise, charging that it meant repeal of the antitrust laws.

Then, by another roll call vote of 200 to 104, the House agreed to conferees' recommendations for settling the differences between the bills passed by the two Houses.

French Reds Ask Labor to 'Wreck' Moch

Paris, Oct. 14 (U.P.).—The Communist Party tonight called on French labor to "wreck" Socialist Premier Jules Moch, who won National Assembly approval early today by only one vote.

The vote was 311 to 223. He needed 310 votes for approval.

The new Premier, fighting opposition from both the right and the left, was trying to form France's thirteenth coalition cabinet in five years from the middle-of-the road parties whose bickering destroyed the government of Henri Queuille nine days ago.

Premier Paul Reynaud attacked Moch's program as "inflationary."

Bus-Truck Crash Kills 3

Pierson, Mich., Oct. 14 (U.P.).—A panel truck crashed head-on into a crowded North Star Lines bus on a narrow twisting highway tonight, killing at least three persons and injuring "25 to 30," State police reported.

The Gallup Poll

Vast Majority Holds View Next War Will Be Won in Air

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 14—Although the average American voter is not well enough informed about military strategy to follow in detail the current row in the armed services between the sea officers and the aviators, he has one idea fixed firmly in his mind.

To him air power is all-important. He believes that if there is another war, the American Air Force would play a much more important part in winning it than either the Army or the Navy.

Whether this idea is sound from the military point of view is a matter which only experts can determine, but there is little doubt about the widespread admiration the American people feel for the air arm of our defenses.

It is shown clearly in the results of interviews with thousands of voters representing a balanced cross-section of all walks of life, who were asked:

"If the United States should get into another World War, which branch of the armed forces do you think would play the most important part in winning the war—the Army, the Navy or the Air Force?"

The vote:

|---|---|
| Air Force | 74% |
| Army | 6 |
| Navy | 4 |
| Qualified | 9 |
| No opinion | 7 |

In the group who gave qualified answers are those who named more than one branch as being important, or who said that all three are important.

Military leaders may be startled to note how extremely one-sided the vote is—how much the drama and color of the air force has fired the popular imagination. Consciously or unconsciously, the air force has apparently done a highly effective job of public relations.

The vote does not mean that only 6 percent think the Army is important; the question simply brings out the individual voter's impression, informed or uninformed, as to the relative contribution of the three services in a future war. Actually some military observers are saying today that Russian possession of the atom bomb may diminish the importance of air power and increase the importance of armies large enough to encompass the Russian land forces if they try to overrun Europe.

Faith of Long Standing

The popular faith in air power is of long standing. As far back as 1935 Institute surveys were finding bigger majorities for building a larger air force than for building a larger army or navy.

The great popular appeal of the air force affects all walks of life. Persons who have had college training feel the same way about the relative position of army, navy and air arm as those who have had only high school or grade school training.

Here is the vote by educational levels:

| | College | High School | Grade School |
|---|---|---|---|
| Air Force | 78% | 76% | 70% |
| Army | 7 | 6 | 5 |
| Navy | 3 | 3 | 6 |
| Qualified | 7 | 10 | 8 |
| No opinion | 5 | 5 | 11 |

Burgman Accused Of Record Making

A wartime German sound engineer yesterday testified in District Court that he supervised recordings made by Herbert Burgman for broadcast over the German radio.

Burgman, former State Department employe, is charged with 20 overt acts of treason in making the broadcasts over station "DEBUNK" under the alias "Joe Scanlon."

The witness, Paul Noback, now living at 1330 Park rd. nw. and presently employed at the United States Recording Co. here, said he was supervising engineer of the German Overseas Service recording department when Burgman made the recordings. Noback said he was formerly a member of the Nazi party.

The prosecution is expected to call other wartime technicians for the German radio when the trial resumes next week. It contends that the "DEBUNK" programs ostensibly originated in the United States Midwest but in reality were beamed from Berlin and were calculated to hinder the American war effort.

Burgman, 53, was chief clerk of the military attache's office of the United States Embassy in Berlin at war's outbreak but was not repatriated.

Nehru Views Asiatic Pact As Premature

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

Prime Minister Nehru of India yesterday counseled the American press and public to take a long-range view of changes in Asia.

Events in China, for example, must be viewed "in their context," he told a packed audience at a National Press Club luncheon.

"Distinctive and vital countries like India and China," he said, "are so deeply rooted in their ways and their philosophy of life that I don't think any changes will pull them out of their age-long patterns."

Answers Questions

This was the nearest he came to commenting directly on Communist victories in China, although he touched on a wide variety of political, philosophical and personal subjects in a half-hour's talk and in answers to half a dozen questions.

He answered one question with the assurance that India welcomed American investments, and that investors could expect "fair profit, an opportunity to take that profit away, and, generally speaking, fair treatment."

The Prime Minister said India would find ways to develop economically, with or without foreign capital, but the speed of her development would depend greatly on the extent of investments from abroad.

He replied to another question by saying that any talk of an Asiatic defense pact, similar to the North Atlantic Treaty, would be "entirely premature."

Such a pact would not mean very much in a military sense, he thought, since Asia was a vast continent with vastly different regional interests. He said the non-Communist countries of Asia had not even made much progress with the limited "consultations" provided by last January's conference on the Indonesian problem.

"Matter for Consideration"

Asked whether India favored a vote of the inhabitants to decide the future of Kashmir, the northern state now disputed between India and Pakistan, he recalled that his government had promised two years ago to let the people of Kashmir decide their own future. How it is to be done, he said, is "a matter for consideration."

The Prime Minister said his chief purpose in coming here was to get a better understanding of the United States, and incidentally, to meet American leaders. "Naturally," he said, "where there are avenues of cooperation I should like to explore them." But he insisted he had not come to make a "deal."

"All Sorts of People"

He said he was sorry his crowded three-week schedule would make it hard to have leisurely talks with every-day Americans in their homes and on their farms and to visit out-of-the-way parts of the country.

He long ago learned in India, he said, that he had to mix with "all sorts of people," especially in the villages, before he could begin to understand their problems.

He had much to say about the distinctive philosophy of India and its stubborn vitality in spite of repeated shocks throughout long centuries.

"It is neither possible nor pleasant," he declared, "for the world to become one drab and uniform culture without variety."

"The United States today, not very consciously but inevitably, has become the most powerful country in the world, and a large measure of leadership is thrust upon her," he went on. "India definitely does not want leadership in Asia or anywhere else.

"But we simply cannot draw back into our shell. India has to play a part in Asia and the larger world. We are intensely interested in what is happening in Indonesia, Indo-China and the rest of Asia."

To Visit Hyde Park

Yesterday, the last day of his Washington visit, the Prime Minister had interviews with Representative Celler (D., N. Y.), a champion of liberalized Indian immigration to the United States, and with Clarence Pickett of the American Friends Service Committee, which helped relieve suffering during the Bengal famine of 1943 and the Hindu-Moslem massacres of 1947.

This morning he plans to fly to New York for a crowded week of receptions. His only respite from the city will come Sunday when he will drive to Hyde Park, N. Y., to place a wreath on President Roosevelt's grave and to lunch quietly with Mrs. Roosevelt.

Russia Makes Greek Dispute Concessions

Lake Success, N. Y., Oct. 14 (U.P.) Russia has made its first significant concession on the Greek dispute and for the first time there appears a real possibility the United Nations may settle the issue, reliable sources revealed today.

The break, it was said, came yesterday when Soviet delegate Jacob A. Malik outlined important changes in the Russian stand. Western sources urged extreme caution and characterized the situation as "mildly" hopeful.

Malik reportedly dropped the Soviet demand for agreement on an amnesty for the guerillas and the holding of new U. N.-supervised elections.

In return, Malik is said to have insisted Greece formally drop its claims to the Epirus region of Albania and that there be rotation of chairmen of commissions that would act as watch-dogs on the borders between Greece, Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria.

Senators See Malmedy Case As Dangerous Pro-Nazi Plot

By The Associated Press

Senate investigators closed the books yesterday on the Malmedy massacre probe with a warning that powerful groups in Germany were exploiting the protests over United States handling of Nazi war crimes trials in an effort to revive German nationalism.

Declaring that this "presents dangerous possibilities" threatening future peace, they urged an immediate two-pronged inquiry by the Defense and Justice Departments to determine:

1. If this alleged move to rekindle the Nazis' nationalistic aims "is part of a larger plan to bring parts of Germany into closer relationship with the Soviet Union."

2. Whether or not activities are being carried on in this country which are of such a nature as to discredit and injure American prestige and our public interest in Germany . . ."

No Beatings, Torture Found

These were highlights of a 39-page report by a Senate Armed Services Subcommittee on its lengthy hearings here and abroad on the way the Army handled the Malmedy trial.

The three-man group made the investigation after Congress received protests that the military prosecutors and investigators used brutal methods to obtain confessions from the Nazi storm troopers accused of killing 350 unarmed American soldiers and 100 Belgian civilians during the Battle of the Bulge in December, 1944.

A military War Crimes Court convicted 73 German soldiers in this case, and 42 were given death sentences and the rest long prison terms. Lesser penalties, however, were imposed after a series of reviews of the trial.

Senator Baldwin (R., Conn.), chairman of the probers, said they found no credible evidence of "beatings, kickings, torture and other physical brutality" as some witnesses had charged at the hearings here. But, he said, they found some unethical methods had been used, such as preliminary "mock trials" which they sharply criticized.

Germans Believed Lies

The report laid special stress on the spreading of what it termed "obviously false charges" by persons in this country and in Germany.

"No matter what the facts were in the case," Baldwin said, "in the minds of a great many Americans and practically all Germans, the allegations were accepted as fact."

On this score the committee sharply criticized Judge Edward L. Van Roden of Pennsylvania, a former Army colonel who took part in one of the Malmedy review trials, and the National Council for the Prevention of War.

The report said most of the false charges had been widely publicized in this country and Germany "through the media of the publications and speeches of Judge Van Roden" and the anti-war organization.

Damaging to U. S.

As for the antiwar council, he said it had maintained a "constant correspondence with certain people in Germany" and that its "activities in this matter, which go far beyond the Malmedy case, have been most damaging to the national interests of our country, and to the cause of peace."

Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.), who previously had charged that the Armed Services Committee inquiry would result in "a whitewash of Army officials," asked numerous questions of Baldwin during the lengthy report on the Senate floor.

Besides Baldwin, committee members were Senators Kefauver (D., Tenn.) and Hunt (D., Wyo.).

the defendants guilty," she replied.

Silence gripped the courtroom. The defendants gave no show of emotion. Then the jury was polled. Each man and each woman confirmed the verdict, reached after 39 weeks of bitter argument.

The charge against the 11 defendants was conspiring to advocate the violent overthrow of the United States Government.

They are:

Eugene Dennis, 44, national secretary of the Communist Party in America.

Gus Hall, 39, Ohio State chairman.

Henry Winston, 35, Negro, national organizational secretary.

John Gates, 36, editor of the Daily Worker, Communist newspaper.

Benjamin J. Davis, jr., 46, Negro, New York councilman.

Carl Winter, 43, Michigan State chairman.

Jacob Stachel, 49, national educational director.

Robert Thompson, 34, New York State chairman.

Gilbert Green, 43, Illinois State chairman.

Judge Medina, 61-year-old Brooklyn-born judge, thanked the jury and warned its members against discussing the case.

Then, as the jury filed out, Judge Medina turned on the five attorneys and Dennis, who acted as his own lawyer. The patience that he had shown during the long, bitter trial still was with Judge Medina. But the resentment he had built up against the defense tactics was apparent.

He told the attorneys they deliberately had tried to cause "delay and confusion so as to make the trial impossible, to provoke an incident to result in a mistrial or to impair my health."

Then, one by one, he sentenced the men to jail. The lawyers and their sentences:

Harry Sacher of New York, six months. He defended Davis, Gates and Potash.

Richard Gladstein of San Francisco, six months. He acted for Thompson and Hall.

George W. Crockett, jr., Detroit, four months. He represented Stachel and Winter.

Louis McCabe of Philadelphia, 30 days. He acted for Winston.

Abraham Isserman of Newark, N. J., four months. He was the lawyer for Williamson and Green.

Dennis also got six months.

The sentencing, without any preliminaries, apparently surprised and stunned the defense attorneys.

"One even gives a rabbit a running chance," Sacher complained to Medina, "and we should have had that."

Then he compared the defense lawyers to Alexander Hamilton, Charles Evans Hughes, Clarence Darrow and Wendell Willkie.

Judge Medina, target of so many attacks in and out of court during the trial, told the lawyers:

"I have waited until today because it was the only time I could act."

When Sacher called his sentence a small price to pay "in the cause of liberty," Judge Medina interrupted:

"It is not the price of liberty but of misbehavior."

The other attorneys added their protest. They called the contempt sentences a blow to the American bar, a danger to civil liberties and called the trial itself "an infamous persecution."

The defendants sat quietly during these arguments. Some looked at the ceiling, one or two exchanged whispered remarks and smiled.

Handcuffed and in a closed van, the defendants later were taken to jail to await sentence.

About 600 curious or sympathetic bystanders watched them leave. The crowd shouted mixed boos and cheers for the Communists.

The United States district attorney, John F. X. McGohey, who drove home the case for the Government, left the courtroom with the comment that the verdict "speaks for itself."

It was perhaps his last case as a Government prosecutor. The 55-year-old attorney is in line for appointment as a Federal judge.

McGohey had called the historic, nine-month trial perhaps the longest Federal criminal case in history. It cost the Government about one million dollars and the defense about $500,000.

The 11 defendants were indicted in July, 1948, and brought to trial last January 17.

The Government charged that they recreated the Communist Party in 1945 as an instrument to advocate the violent overthrow of the Government. It placed in evidence many books on Communist strategy and tactics and demanded of the jury why these were used if the party's purposes were peaceful and purely political.

The defense called the trial a test of a man's freedom of thought and speech and press.

Judge Medina, however, in charging the jury yesterday said books were not on trial, nor was communism, capitalism "or any other isms."

The 11 defendants said they never sought power through revolution. Instead, they described themselves as politicians working within the framework of the American Constitution for a new socialistic nation of peace and plenty.

Czechs Give no Reply On Fields' Whereabouts

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 14 (U.P.) — The United States Embassy today said the Czech government has not answered a formal note asking the whereabouts of three Americans, Noel Field, his wife and brother, Hermann, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Charge d'Affaires James K. Penfield said the note was sent Wednesday.

The three Americans were last known to be either in Czechoslovakia or en route to Czechoslovakia. Hermann Field is believed to be in Poland. Noel Field was last heard from in May in Slovakia.

British Nations Plan Meetings On Asia Reds

London, (Saturday), Oct. 15 (AP) —Official sources early today reported some of the British Commonwealth's highest diplomatic and military planners will attend a special conference in Singapore early next month to consider, communism in the Orient.

They said purposes will be:

1. To discuss the situation in the Far East as a result of the Communist conquest of China.

2. To map measures for keeping Communism out of Britain's territories in the Orient—especially Hongkong.

3. To chart a course for future dealings with Chinese Reds.

British Government informants said Field Mashal Sir William Slim, chief of the Imperial General Staff, will be sent to the conference.

The Governments of India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Australia, New Zealand and the Malayan Federation may be represented, an informant said.

Recognition of the newly proclaimed Red China regime is a "matter of time only," one source said.

He added it is being held up mainly by Britain's pledge not to recognize the Communists before fully consulting the United States and other Atlantic Pact countries and the Commonwealth.

Britain is under pressure from India and Australia to move quickly.

India in particular wants to lose no time. The informants said Indian Prime Minister Nehru already has exchanged messages with Chou Enlai, Chinese Communist Premier, and other Peiping leaders.

Britain, according to the same informants, also has had some undisclosed form of diplomatic contact with the Communists since they proclaimed themselves rulers of all China.

The informants report the United States had expressed some annoyance at certain British actions on relations with the Reds.

presentation, and favored some changes in Pentagon policies and procedures. An informal, "off-the-record" survey of members' opinions seemed to bear out this contention, as of now.

Man Exonerated In Bank Guard's Traffic Death

A coroner's jury yesterday exonerated Nicholas J. Margaritis, 30, of 3649 Woodley rd. nw., of blame in the traffic death Wednesday of William C. Winstead, 70, of 4620 43d st. nw.

Winstead, a guard at the Washington Loan and Trust Co., was struck by a car driven by Margaritis when he stepped off a streetcar loading platform at 1 p. m. Wednesday in the 2400 block Wisconsin ave. nw. He died at 7 o'clock that night in Emergency Hospital. The jury ruled the death was accidental.

Rickenbacker Blasts Johnson Over Carrier

Copyright, 1949, N. Y. Herald Tribune

New York, Oct. 14—Capt. Eddie V. Rickenbacker, air ace of World War I and a vociferous backer of General Billy Mitchell in his crusade for air power, made a blistering attack Thursday against present politics of Defense Secretary Louis Johnson.

The cancellation of the Navy's 65,000-ton carrier project without a trial of the carrier's worth, Capt. Rickenbacker said, was an almost incredible act. He added that Soviet Russia "cannot be beaten in a future war exclusively with the Air Force's B-36 even if it turns out to be the greatest bomber that ever was built."

Captain Rickenbacker spoke at a luncheon forum of the Aviation Writers Association in the Hotel Shelbourne. His remarks were made spontaneously at the close of a prepared address on "The Impact of Jet-Propelled Transports on the Air Line Business."

Reds Cut Below Canton

Hongkong (Saturday) Oct. 15. (AP) — Chinese Communist troops have cut south of Canton, whose fate remains in doubt, and fighting rages only 60 miles north of here, late reports said today.

The reports said sharp fighting broke out just north of Skeklung, midway between Canton and Hongkong and 60 miles north of the border of this British crown colony.

The accounts said a strong Communist force attacked a fully loaded Nationalist train as it crossed a bridge.

Last dispatches said Red troops were resting just outside the former Chinese Nationalist capital while city officials arranged for a peaceful changeover, probably today.

A street-guard organization of the Communist underground sprang up to assume control.

There was no expectation of fighting, and looting had thus far been on a very minor scale.

Attlee's No

All the speculation about an imminent British election has been stilled by the announcement of Premier Attlee that the appeal to the people will not take place till due date next year. The rumor was based on the feeling that tactically the best time to have an election would be on the heels of the devaluation. There is now full employment in Britain, while prices on the whole are steady, not having reflected except in the case of bread the more expensive price in pounds of imported commodities. Mr. Attlee's decision is a demonstration of faith that the Labor government can hold the line on wages and prices so that the British can reap the advantages of devaluation.

Assuming Mr. Attlee's faith is soundly based, there is still a price to pay for delay. There will be an extended period of electioneering and perhaps a postponement of economy measures in the operations of government. Most of the speeches in the Commons debate on devaluation seemed to be tuned to the prospect of an early election. The result was that the real forum of the country were the newspaper columns of the so-called quality papers. It was in their pages rather than in the politicians' speeches that this complicated subject was threshed out. Moreover, any hope that might have been expected in Washington that government economies would be made by way of supporting devaluation in the new effort to earn dollars are sent glimmering by the Attlee government. Politics is said to be the art of the possible, and to expect a government to cut expenses on the eve of a general election is to expect the impossible.

Lobbying

The House has decided to investigate lobbying, and, simultaneously, The Washington Post embarked on a series of articles on lobbying. The first article appeared last Sunday from the pen of our Miss Mary Spargo. Lobbying, as we have hitherto been at pains to point out, is a legitimate occupation. It is a sort of extension of the right of petition, and, in the present complexity of affairs, no legislator can be briefed on the subjects he has to consider without the aid of lobbyists. The issue is not over the activity of lobbyists, but over the receptivity of Congressmen to them. The proper business of the legislator is to serve the public interest and pursue it. But the public interest, like truth, is a shadowy thing, and, clearly, it cannot be served simply by accepting without question the views presented by a lobby, which, in the nature of things, is partial and interested.

At present the lobbyists are numerous enough to make up what relatively to the population of Washington constitutes an army. Everything is in their favor in establishing influence. They have sizable expense accounts, so that they can show a newcomer with skimpy accommodation in the Southeast that there is an escape from the humdrum in the few hotels in our midst professing to be metropolitan. And they operate in an environment where a legislator's time is so taken up that on many subjects he has to dispense with intellectual effort and accept what he is told as gospel.

Take, for instance, the hue and cry against Leland Olds. Mr. Olds was up for renomination for a third time as member of the Federal Power Commission. His stewardship was open for judgment. Was he doing his job of administering the laws in his province satisfactorily? That was the criterion, not the charge that as a young man in the 20's he wrote radical doctrine. This is a slant on Mr. Olds that had been prepared by the lobby maintained by private utility interests. To be sure, Senators who had the task of passing on this renomination may be uneasy, in these jittery times, about what a man wrote in his youth, but, if this is the yardstick of judgment, the public service is going to get a low standard of administrator. The point in this case for the honest legislator is to know who put up this line of argument, and why it should be made a facade.

At home, foreign affairs may not ring a bell one way or the other, leaving the legislator a prey to foreign influences in Washington. One would think that he would at least attend to what he hears from persons who are the eyes and ears of his own Government abroad. Lobbyists, however, tell him these eyes, these ears, are suspect. In, what our officialdom says about, for instance, Nationalist China, in whose behalf more wine has flowed and more food has been eaten than in behalf of Franco's Spain, the Americanism of that officialdom is constantly being attacked by the Nationalist China lobby. The hint is broadcast that in reality the diplomats are representatives of the opposite camp, viz., the Chinese Communists. Some outline of such activity has already been given in this newspaper, and more in detail by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The American people deserve more sophistication from their representatives in a day when this country is a titan in the world and its Government has come to wield such economic power. The spotlight that the House will shed on lobbying will thus be salutary. The correction of the lobby business lies not in legislation, but in appreciating the situation, so as to aid the legislators in knowing what is what and who is who, so that they keep the data in mind when they are buttonholed.

Report On The AEC

The Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy has issued a notably illuminating report as the result of its long investigation of the Atomic Energy Commission. It provides not only a clear vindication of David E. Lilienthal and his colleagues but also a genuinely brilliant exposition of the complex problems involved in the atomic energy program.

No reasonable reader of this report can accept Senator Hickenlooper's shrill complaint that it is a whitewash. It deals seriatim and in detail with the extravagant charges—incredible mismanagement, misplaced emphasis, lax security, wasteful operation—made by Senator Hickenlooper last May. The joint committee studied these charges in 45 separate meetings, 24 in public, 21 in executive session. Not only was the sweeping nature of the indictment refuted by his own concession that the results achieved in the atomic energy program during the past 2½ years have been good, but even the specific evidence he presented did not seem substantial under critical scrutiny. The AEC undoubtedly made mistakes, some of them costly in money terms. But the record shows it unmistakably to have been scrupulous in its observance of the McMahon Act under which it operates, vigorous in its promotion of atomic energy production, and zealous in its protection of the national secret.

There is a section of the committee report outlining its standards of judgment which is deserving of the very highest praise. This section makes clear what everyone ought to understand in evaluating the difficult task of the AEC, that a delicate balance must be struck between "security by achievement" and "security by concealment." The report observes:

> The law's "paramount objective" of "assuring the common defense and security" has always placed greatest emphasis upon an affirmative task: protecting our country by keeping it far ahead of rivals in the sciences, in nuclear reactors, and in quality and quantity of bomb output . . . The correct use of secrecy as a technique of "assuring the common defense and security" furnishes us a measure of negative protection, in the sense that we avoid helping rival nations to manufacture the bomb, and hence contrasts with the positive protection afforded us through our own continuing progress . . . It is apparent that the defense of the United States calls for the striking of a sane and judicious balance between the two indispensable but competing types of security . . . Just where this balance should be struck in particular instances depends upon circumstances, and upon a weighing of the fact that, on the one hand, Russian success in achieving first a bomb and later a stockpile has always been a foregone conclusion and that, on the other hand, American secrecy slows the rate of foreign progress but may hamper our own progress as well.

Security by concealment can never be absolute. In some measure prudence dictates that it be compromised in the interest of security by achievement. Similarly, urgency in promoting production may dictate expenditures which would be considered excessive if speed were less imperative. It seems indisputable from the committee's investigation that the AEC has endeavored conscientiously, and on the whole with distinguished success, to strike the "sane and judicious balance" demanded for the defense of the United States. The American people are now well warranted in feeling confident that their atomic energy program is in able and resolute hands.

Nehru's Visit

Pandit Nehru seems to be an exception to a rule that a lifetime spent in conspiracy unfits a man for statesmanship when the need has gone for conspiracy. Mazzini remained at home in what has been called "masterly inactivity," that is to say, intrigue and indirectness in working toward a noble goal. Sun Yat-sen shrank from the spotlight of office, and, after an initial taste of it, returned to agitation. It has been noticeable since the war that many of the men of the resistance movements are temperamentally incapable of filling tasks of public responsibility because of their undercover habits. Nehru, as he has shown himself in Congress and to the press, does not seem to have become wedded to the devious ways which he must have contracted when he was leading his nation's struggle for independence. He looks and speaks without a trace of the rebelliousness of his background.

Mr. Nehru had many a word of wisdom in his address to Congress. There was a rule for the cold war that we all might ponder in his statement that "Even when preparing to resist aggression, the ultimate objective, the objective of peace and reconciliation, must never be lost sight of, and heart and mind must be attuned to this supreme aim, and not swayed or clouded by hatred or fear." So spoke our own Lincoln. The counsel has an appropriateness in the interservice argument over strategic bombing. Nehru is too understanding a man, his country too important and, as he put it, "pivotal," to make neutrality a policy. The Prime Minister had been said before he arrived here to have espoused neutrality. But, as he said to Congress categorically, "where freedom is menaced, or justice threatened, or where aggression takes place, we cannot be and shall not be neutral."

Mr. Nehru is now going to New York, where he may note some of the eccentricities in American life, and may be reminded of a modern Babylon. There he will stay seven days, when he will be whisked across the country, stopping off at one or two other centers. He would prefer to see America of the back country. Why, then, not put him down at, say, Blytheville, Ark., a county seat, which thrives on cotton? Here is an out-of-the-way place where he might find the spirit of America and which he says, regretfully, his crowded program will not permit him to see. America has nothing to hide from a distinguished visitor who comes from a country which has effected, as India did hundreds of years before, a synthesis of many different elements both of thoughts and peoples—and achieved the same unity and distinctiveness without, however, sacrificing a rich and rewarding diversity.

Close Shave In France

Judging from the majority of one with which the National Assembly gave Jules Moch a vote of confidence, the new Premier will not last long. However, the vagaries of French politics are notorious. When Moch's predecessor, Henri Queuille, came to power, the prognostication was that he would have a short lease of life, with most of the pundits insisting that De Gaulle was bound to displace him. Yet Queuille lasted thirteen months. This relatively long tenure of office could be chalked up in great part to the credit of the Marshall Plan, though Queuille himself played a notable role in his own survival. Queuille turned out to be, if not a strong man, a remarkably sage parliamentarian, with a hold over the Assembly stemming in part from his long experience as a Radical Socialist deputy and perhaps in part to his professional life as a country doctor. Maybe Moch will show in the premiership some unexpected gifts with which to consolidate his premiership.

At any rate, he has the advantage that he belonged to the same ministry that Queuille headed so successfully. He is a Socialist in politics, but a loyal coalitionist, and the Radical-Socialist-MRP group has been pursuing policies which in modern terminology would be called right-wing. That is to say, it has been an enemy of inflation, and is taking every opportunity to decontrol the country, so as to be in a better position—certainly than controlled Britain is—to pursue a European policy. Perhaps there will be some concessions (which Queuille refused to sponsor) on wages by way of offsetting in part the rise of prices consequent upon devaluation. But, judging from the harshness of left-wing opposition to Moch, they will not be substantial. What is gratifying is that more or less the same faces will reappear in the new ministry, Schuman, for instance, will doubtless stay at Foreign Affairs—one of the greatest of European personalities, and the man who above all others is best able to deal with West Germany. Europe and America as well as France have a great stake in the stability of French politics which the present upset does not altogether impair.

Steel Pensions

Philip Murray directed his verbal assaults against a very vulnerable spot in the defensive armor of the steel industry when he called attention to the huge noncontributory pensions granted to top steel executives. He points out that Enders M. Voorhees, chairman of the finance committee of U. S. Steel, one of the most eloquent opponents of a noncontributory pension system for rank and file employes, draws a salary of $175,000 per year, and on retirement at 65, will get a noncontributory pension of $50,000 a year. Mr. Olds, chairman of U. S. Steel's board of directors will also receive a $50,000 noncontributory annual pension on retirement. And both these executives will get additional lush pensions partly paid for by individual contributions. Mr. Fairless, president of U. S. Steel, will have a pension of more than $70,000 when he arrives at the age of 65, most of it on a noncontributory basis. And comparably high pensions will be paid to leading executives by other big steel companies.

We believe that the arguments against noncontributory pensions are absolutely sound, but they come with ill grace from pensioned individuals who are drawing huge salaries and are (or certainly should be) in a position to make more than ample provision for old age without aid from company stockholders. The industry's complaint that noncontributory pensions for the workers would be socialistic naturally does not carry weight with union members when they hear about the largesse handed out to top employes who claim that their pensions are no more than adequate compensation for their labors and a proper incentive to sustained effort. The system justifies Mr. Murray's bitter jibe that the industry apparently believes that socialism should start at $50,000 a year.

To our way of thinking the arguments against noncontributory pensions are just as forceful in case of high-salaried executives as in that of lower-paid workers. In fact, from the viewpoint of need, they are more forceful. If the industry is to win public support for its stand against the spread of noncontributory pension systems, it seems to us that it should adopt a consistent pension policy and hereafter put all its prospective pensioners on a contributory basis.

British Naval Aircraft

Your Associated Press story headlined "British Army, Navy Outgrew Feud Like War of U. S. Brass," published October 9, differs in a significant respect from the same A. P. report as published in the Washington Star. By the simple deletion of the sentence, "Britain has a fleet air arm separate from the Royal Air Force," The Washington Post article gives an erroneous impression. The implication is that the organization established at the end of World War I is still in existence and has, after a period of readjustment, proven militarily satisfactory. Such is a misrepresentation of facts.

After World War I an independent Royal Air Force was formed from air strength of the British army and navy.

In 1939 when Britain was faced with a possible war, she took realistic stock of her available forces. She found that the section of the RAF charged with the responsibility of protecting her fleet was inadequate in planes, pilots and training. A frantic effort was made to repair this weakness and an air arm independent of the RAF and under the command of the navy was returned to the navy.

The 20 years neglect of naval air power could not be remedied overnight. There was insufficient time to build suitable planes or train pilots for the precision work peculiar to carrier flying.

Pilots were sent to the United States to be trained. The United States provided the necessary Navy planes to equip her squadrons. British carriers were sent to the American fleet to train and study strategy, tactics and operations.

At the end of the war, the procurement of aircraft was removed from the RAF-dominated Ministry of Aircraft Production and placed under civilian control in order to assure the proper development of suitable naval and civilian prototypes as well as those of the RAF.

Some lessons can be learned from the British experience, but the most critical point to note is that neither the United States nor the world can afford for us to make a mistake. There possibly can be no ally capable of rendering us the help that we rendered Britain.

THELMA HOLLINGSWORTH.

'Constitution Distorted'

It was peculiarly appropriate that your October 5 issue should have carried both Herblock's cartoon on farm-price support legislation and George W. Williams' letter, "Constitution Distorted."

Mr. Williams says: "We are fast heading for a complete 'welfare state' and 'statism'" is therefore a living specter." The entire letter would have been pretty well covered if that sentence had been all he wrote, and that printed in 12-point blackface type.

As to the cartoon, I would suggest that it might possibly have aroused just a trifle more interest on the part of the smug, self-satisfied politicians on the Hill who have become convinced that the common, run-of-mine consumer goes his carefree way without ever a thought about what his rulers in Congress are doing. Congressmen might have been just a little more interested if the "consumer-taxpayer" had been depicted as being about seven times as large as the gentlemen engrossed in a deep study of the various farm bills, especially if, instead of a gentle finger-poke on the back, this large character had been wielding a baseball bat of proportionate size. ALBERT D. RUST.

"Our Political Economy"

As a regular subscriber I would like to commend you for providing your readers with a new and highly readable column, "Our Political Economy," by Ysabel and Robert Rennie.

The Rennie presentation of the issues involved in the current steel dispute forms the most lucid and thought-provoking analysis of that controversy that I have seen in the enormous amount of newspaper lineage devoted to the subject. In my opinion the Rennie column is the first completely dispassionate treatment of the present conflict between labor and management over the noncontributory pension system suggested by the President's fact-finding board. In their didactic piece on today's economic issues the Rennies do not neglect the interests of the perpetual "forgotten man" on the U. S. economic scene, the consumer.

Columns like "Our Political Economy" lead me to the conclu- that The Washington Post is the newspaper for people who think!

SIMON L. WEKER.
Washington.

School Despots

Congratulations on your October 9 reporting of the proceedings of the conference of educational associations meeting at the Mayflower Hotel.

The addresses of Dr. Ernest O. Melby and Dr. Kate V. Wofford point up the vital position occupied by our public school teachers as a bulwark of democracy, and put the finger on the spots of dry rot occasionally cropping up in our public school system, namely, the arbitrary, dictatorial attitude assumed by some principals in the relationship between teacher and pupil, and the discrimination so plainly shown at times in favor of children of the socially elite.

HARRY R. LEE.
Washington.

Special Interests

In his letter to the chairman of the Senate Committee, pleading for confirmation of his reappointment of Leland Olds, Mr. Truman said that Mr. Olds has "earnestly sought to protect the public against the narrow interests of special groups."

Is this just "double talk" or may we now hope that our President himself will live up to this ideal and protect the great, but unorganized, consuming public against the narrow interests of such special groups as the farm bloc, and labor unions?

Nehru's Influence For Peace

Pandit Nehru's visit to America is a political event of the first magnitude. The people of India hope that his talks with President Truman and other men of authority in America will help stabilize peace in the world, especially in parts of Asia where disruptive and antisocial forces are at work.

Being a firm believer in the principle of nonviolence, Pandit Nehru is a peace-loving man. All along, in his career as a nation builder, he has displayed a plastic sense of unity which has sought to mold differences and discords arising from a vast heterogeneous population into harmonious relationship. Few men understand the architectonics of peace better than he.

Apart from his intellectual talents, he possesses other qualities that are indispensable to the task of building up peaceful situations. He is above parochialism and free from all manner of bias; besides, in dealing with people, he has constantly revealed a tendency to leave ample margin for human failings. Pandit Nehru has never believed in eliminating disagreement by the use of open or veiled violence. On the contrary, he has a moral conviction that it is possible to resolve the most tangled disputes with a measure of goodwill and forbearance.

Differences between nations require to be brought out of local confines for settlement. They grow, pushing out new roots, in the hothouses of self-centered nationalism; yet how quickly they crumble when brought into the open air of human understanding!

Pandit Nehru's mind, gifted with a global outlook, outstrips the barriers of race, religion or nationality

In reality, what the world needs is not the obliteration of national distinctiveness and characteristics, but the removal of those racial and pseudo-patriotic prejudices that divide mankind into hostile groups and stand in the way of moral understanding between man and man. These prejudices promote international hatreds of the worst type; ultimately they give rise to a feeling of insecurity and fear, as exists at the present time, and seems to be gnawing at the very vitals of the human race.

Seized with fear, nations cower behind the iron curtain and with feverish hands forge the weapons of destruction. The world badly needs to be delivered from this accursed blight and restored to normal security. But this is a difficult and onerous task, that requires for its fulfillment leaders of high moral stature whose vision, untarnished by trivial considerations, spreads out and embraces all mankind.

It appears to me that Pandit Nehru is one of those few who answer to the description. He is a confirmed democrat, because he is convinced that in democracy alone lies the salvation of humanity. But he is poignantly aware of the difficult problems that confront it in the present day. Recently in a public speech he made mention of the food shortage that was staring us in the face. It is a serious economic problem of glaring urgency which it is not possible to ignore.

Pandit Nehru attaches great importance to this problem, that requires to be tackled with concentrated effort in the interest of peace and security; for the best way of circumventing communism is to banish want from the world and improve the position of the less fortunate sections of humanity. No structure of social peace can possibly be built unless and until this task is accomplished, however uncomfortable it be. Otherwise democracy will remain a dream; a handsome mythical theory, remote from the crying realities of human existence. For the famished millions of Asia, plunged in the chaos of want and hunger think only of their distress, and are in no mood to receive sermons on the blessings of peace. We have to feed and clothe their bodies before we think of attuning their minds to the high ideal of democracy.

B. P. SHINGLU.
Delhi, India.

Civil Defense 'Unity'

Scene—A meeting of the Association for Advancement.

Chairman—We have met to do something about civil defense. As you know, Congress begins hearings on this next week.

Mr. Dare—As president of Atomic Age Citizens, Inc., I move we recommend to Congress——

Mr. Stalactite—Wait! We can't get mixed up with Congress in this, and lose our identity. We must have our own civil defense unit.

Mrs. Montclair St. Vitus—And our own uniforms!

Mr. Parrott—We should appoint a committee to find out who gave away the atom bomb secret.

Mr. Dare—We should get rid of our atom bomb complex. There are other mass destruction weapons—germs, light rays, even ordinary bombs. We must unify our defense——

Mr. Bellwether—Mr. Chairman! I will NEVER stand for that! We must concentrate on the atom bomb. Didn't we spend two billion dollars for it?

Mr. Kingpin—I object! Germ warfare's the real menace. I will have nothing to do with any defense that doesn't concentrate on fighting germs.

Mr. Flash—You're all talking like a bunch of dodoes. Light rays are the weapon of tomorrow. I won't work with any defense unit that doesn't combat 'em!

MR. VANDERPUFFER—Just a minute! As chairman of the Status Quo Protective League, I speak for a lot of our members who will have nothing to do with any defense based against these new theoretical weapons. They are nothing but a lot of Red propaganda. What's the matter with the kind of bombs we used in the last war?

Mr. Glibb—I tell you! Let's set up a defense board on which these different views could be represented.

Mrs. March—If we have such a board women should be represented on it. In any modern war they'll play the major part in civilian defense.

Mr. Stalactite—Never! The red-blooded men of this country will never permit their womanhood to be mixed up in warfare.

Mr. Glibb—Wait now, we don't mean that we're trying to keep women out of defense. They would of course do many useful things, as nursing, cooking, cleaning up debris, running farms and factories——

Mr. Kingpin—Yes and even some fire fighting carpentry and masonry.

Mr. Bellwether—And digging bomb shelters.

Mrs. March—Then they should have representation in planning.

Mr. Stalactite—Now see here, this is a question of morale. It would hurt the morale of our red-blooded American men to have their womanhood seem too important in civilian defense.

MR. DARE—We're getting nowhere. Let's appoint a planning board——

Mr. Bellwether—I will have no traffic with any board. The morale of my group would be shot to pieces if it had to defend the country against anything but atom bombs.

Mr. Kingpin—I'm speaking for many of our members whose morale is rapidly deteriorating because defense against germ warfare's being crowded out.

Mr. Flare—If we don't go in for light ray defense, this association will go to pot.

Mr. Vanderpuffer—I'll move to Mexico or Canada before I'll get mixed up with any light ray defense. This Red plot to divert us from World War II bombs is shattering my morale.

Mr. Dare—Mr. Chairman, I move we send out and get some shots of patriotic morale for all our members.

Mrs. Dashbutton—I suggest we organize a drill team.

Mr. Bellweather—Me march with those upstarts in germ warfare defense!

Mr. Flash—Me march with those goosestepping atom bomb fossils!

Mr. Kingpin—I'll resign from the association—I almost said the Nation—before I'll be seen with those underhanded defense plotters——

Chorus—Do you mean me!

Chairman—Gentlemen please! Mrs. St. Vitus has a suggestion.

Mrs. St. Vitus—Mr. Chairman, I'm due this minute at three other defense meetings and four fashion shows but I do have an idea! Why not have a committee confer with some of our topflight designers as Pompanelli and Spanglebaum and work out some attractive defense designs in uniforms and medals for those who want to work against atom bombs, ordinary bombs, germs, or light rays and let the members look them over.

Mr. Glibb—Fine! Then we could have four different defense units.

Mr. Dare—I move we adjourn!

Sesquicentennial Rates

It was a pleasure to read in your issue of October 10 that 32 local hotels have given assurance that they will not raise their rates during the Sesquicentennial Freedom Fair. Now, if the railroads, the restaurants, the bus companies, barbers, all business establishments will agree not to raise prices during the celebration, they'll all make bigger money, and every American will be prouder of this great National Capital.

Son Dead in Dream Of Mother on Oct. 1

By John London
Post Reporter

Sometime in the early hours of Saturday morning, October 1, Mrs. Edith Maxey dreamed that she was back in the Veterans' Administration office where she works and was telling another clerk:

"I have nothing to live for now. My son is dead. He would have been 17 if he had lived."

A few hours after she awoke that Saturday morning, she told her son Robert, 15, to hurry up. It was 10:55 a. m. and he had an 11 a. m. appointment at Dr. Cassidy's office on Reno rd., to find out if he had sinus trouble.

Bobbie smiled and kissed his mother and said sure he'd get there all right—but he never did.

He vanished after he left the house. And last night they found him. The condition of his body indicated he had been dead about two weeks—probably shot the day of the dream.

Mrs. Maxey, in her 40s, with red retinted brown hair, told the story of the dream about her son by her second, divorced husband, in a calm voice. She remarked:

"Dreams are funny things. You know he was only 15 and I dreamed I was saying he would have been 17 if he had lived.

"Then there was another dream I had a long time ago that I found him and he was lying down somewhere and his glasses were broken. He was beaten up."

Her pretty blond daughter by her first marriage, who has the same first name as her mother but spells it Edythe, said she remembered her mother telling of both dreams about Bobbie.

Bobbie, a 6-foot-2, lanky blond who wore glasses, was "very shy, an intelligent introvert, but I always wondered why he never had even one date with a girl," said the sister, 25, whose husband, Eugene Clark, is a writer at the State Department.

The mother said her son was "a sweet little darling, and I never had any trouble with him, he was so obedient."

"We were real pals," she said. "We'd go out to dinner together, go to the movies together, play cards together . . . I don't know how Ill stand it. I guess I don't believe it yet.

"It must have been an accident." He was his usual pleasant self when he kissed me goodby to go to the doctor's—he always kissed me when he went out—and he didn't leave a note like people do when they commit suicide."

A few minutes after he left for the doctor's he phoned his mother to say he was going camping with a friend.

"But I told him not to be silly and go ahead to the doctor's and he said he would."

When he didn't show up by the next day, the mother called his best friend now at Hun Prep School. This boy said Bobbie had acquired a Luger gun, some 50 rounds of ammunition, and several weeks before had asked him to hitchhike with him to Mexico, getting odd jobs on the way. He said Bobbie had an itch to travel and was fed up with school, though a top student at Wilson.

Bobbie played hookey from school for about four days before he disappeared. Once he was at home alone when the school called and he identified himself as another member of the family and said Bobbie had the measles, the mother learned.

She hasn't been able to find out where he got the Luger automatic, she said, noting:

"Funny thing is he was up in Maine with his father during the summer and his father said he liked shooting rifles but was scared of pistols. . . ."

The mother said she thought he hid the gun and maybe some camping equipment in the woods back of the Chevy Chase Ice Palace, where he often played.

"The gun must have gone off accidentally," she said. "I found he took a toothbrush with him and he wouldn't do that if he intended to kill himself."

U. S. Rejects Red Plan for Atom Census

Lake Success, N. Y., Oct. 14 (UP)—The United States today rejected the Soviet proposal for an immediate count of atom bombs in the American and Soviet stockpiles and told the United Nations that Russia's entire disarmament policy is a "cruelty and a fraud."

Ambassador Warren R. Austin, said the persistent Kremlin effort to tie atomic control to nonatomic disarmament was an attempt to "muddy the waters" and conceal Russia's "complete opposition to any real plan of effective disarmament."

Austin challenged the Soviet Union to accept the majority-backed French plan for a census of conventional—or nonatomic—arms and armies subject to verification by U. N. inspection teams.

Austin said that if Russia really was interested in effective control of the atom, it should accept the majority-backed blueprint for an international control agency.

Austin emphasized that the people of the world should be careful not to be "deluded" by simple-sounding Soviet schemes for world disarmament.

Austin repeated American willingness to expose "to submit ourselves to . . . a system of inspection and checking . . . "

Other U. N. developments:

1. East and West joined forces today in a unanimous vote by the Assembly's economic committee recommending that an international conference be convened to set in motion the U. N.'s projected program of technical aid to underdeveloped areas.

2. The 21-nation sub-group screening conflicting proposals on the former Italian colonies voted to name a high commissioner and 10-member advisory council to help guide Libya to independence by January 1, 1952. Russia is not on the council.

No Change in Premium On GIs' Insurance

War veterans holding national service life insurance policies may expect to go right on paying premiums at the same old rate, big dividend or no dividend.

In answer to a query, Harold W. Breining, VA administrator for insurance, said there is "no likelihood at all" of a change in premium rate.

Many veterans have suggested that since the forthcoming $2,800,000,000 dividend on GI policies is the result of a surplus in the insurance fund, a reduction in premium might be expected.

"Any change in premium would have to be established by law," Breining said.

How Much Can We Count On Tito?

GERVASI

Is the Yugoslav dictator — as many here think —going our way? What sort of a goal has he set for his country, and what is life like there today?

In his first Sunday dispatch from Belgrade, Post correspondent Frank Gervasi graphically outlines the new concept of "Titoism" and tells you how it is working. Read his inside-the-borders report, tomorrow in Section II.

Missing Boy's Body Is Found

friends as saying that the boy had displayed the Luger and a box of 50 cartridges and told them he was headed for Mexico.

Police began a search for him and notified officers of Southern States to be on the lookout. Robert T. Rudy, 21, of 4419 35th st. nw., discovered the body shortly after 5 p. m. yesterday. Rudy, passing through the ravine area, went on a motorcycle to the Eighth Precinct.

They found the body clad exactly as Robert was when he disappeared. He was lying on his back, the right arm straight along the side and the left arm cradling the pistol which pointed toward the body. His legs were crossed. A wallet, containing identification papers and $33, apparently was undisturbed. A box of shells was lying nearby.

Told of the death of the boy who appeared to be her son, Mrs. Maxey accepted the identification immediately.

"The gun either went off and shot him," she said, "or someone shot him."

Then she became hysterical.

Officers last night refused to speculate on the possibility of murder, but pointed out that the bullet wound was through the right side of the head while the gun was cradled in the left elbow.

Marshall Sullivan and Mrs. Maxey told police that when Robert disappeared, he left home apparently to see a doctor. Later that day, they said—it was a Saturday—he telephoned his mother and said he was going camping. That was the last seen of him.

Sullivan, notified by his former wife of the son's disappearance, first flew to his summer camp in Maine where the boy had visited earlier in the summer. He did not find him there, and then he came to Washington.

Detective Sergt. Larry Hartnett of the homicide squad, said the body was found in deeply wooded area, but not far from a small stream which flows through the ravine, and also not far from a trail.

The terrain was so difficult that services of Pvts. V. C. Rautsaw, J. E. Dawn, jr., and J. Andrykovitch of the Eighth Precinct were necessary to struggle out with the body on a stretcher.

Detective Hartnett quoted neighbors as saying that Robert had frequently played with friends of his own age near where his body was found. The Smithsonian has an exhibit of Indian arrowheads reputed to have been made from flint deposits near where Robert died.

Robert, at 15, was 6 feet and 1 inch tall. He was a studious youth and was still wearing glasses when his body was discovered.

Besides his parents, he leaves a sister, Mrs. Eugene Clarke, 25, of Arlington.

Neglect Laid To $110-Week Father of Nine

Litchfield, Conn., Oct. 14 (U.P.)—George Bassett, 42-year-old factory worker charged by welfare authorities with neglecting his nine children and wife, was given six months today to prove he can provide adequately for his family.

Bassett appeared before Juvenile Court Judge Stanley P. Mead to answer charges his children were "uncared for and neglected." Welfare authorities sought permission to place the six Bassett children under 16 in foster homes.

The father works hard and is guilty "only of the crime of being poor," his attorney, Robert A. Wall, said. Wall said Bassett earns $70 a week working nights at a factory, and $40 a week as a daytime caretaker.

That would be considered ordinarily good pay, Wall said, "but not for a man with such a big family."

Welfare officials said seven children were sent to foster homes three years ago after a Bassett baby died. The family was reunited six months later.

The welfare department said Bassetts' 13-year-old daughter was committed on a petty thievery charge last summer.

Gromyko Pleads Helplessness in Korean Ship Case

By the United Press

Acting Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told the State Department yesterday that Russia is powerless to help the United States in getting Korean Communists to release an American-owned freighter seized in Korean waters "outside Russian jurisdiction."

Two American ECA officials were aboard.

The fate of ECA advisers Albert T. Meschter, Kinderhook, N. Y., and Albert Willis, New York City, has not been learned.

Gromyko suggested the United States make a direct appeal to the North Korean government. However, the United States has not recognized the North Korean government.

For Miscegenation

Suit Leads To Arrest For Couple

Valdosta, Ga., Oct. 14 (AP).—A couple was jailed today on charges of miscegenation after the mother had filed suit in Federal Court claiming their children were barred from county schools on grounds they had Negro blood.

In her $300,000 damage suit, Mrs. George White contended her ancestry is traceable to Cherokee Indians, not Negroes, and that her constitutional rights and those of her four children have been violated.

She named as defendants County School Superintendent James Dewar, six school board members and, as individuals, Mrs. Lillie Holderby, Murrell Holderby, C. C. Gay, W. J. Arnold, J. H. Duke and Eddie Shiver.

Sheriff J. L. Futch said Mr. and Mrs. White were arrested today on warrants charging "felony-miscegenation." Miscegenation is a marriage between a white person and a Negro. The sheriff said arrangements were being made for Mr. and Mrs. White to be released under $500 bonds.

Warrants against the couple were sworn to by Mrs. Holderby, one of the defendants in Mrs. White's damage suit.

The mother held that her children had been barred from the white school at Clyattsville after the Holderbys had presented a petition to the board, asserting Mrs. White had Negro blood.

Mrs. White charged the Holderbys were members of the Ku Klux Klan and that it was through their "malice" and desire to stir up "race hatred" that the petition to bar her children was drawn.

DP Vote Date Is Still Unset

the bill wil be close when it comes.

Senators Taft (R., Ohio) and Ferguson (R., Mich.) joined Administration forces in their fight to prevent sidetracking of the bill.

Senator Eastland (D., Miss.) and other Democratic opponents worked closely with Wherry and the GOP oposition.

"A Flood of Aliens"

Senator Morse (R., Oreg.) in a late-night session said the "Republican filibuster" against the bill was a great mistake and should be stopped immediately.

Senator McCarran (D., Nev.), now in Europe "investigating" the DP situation, made a speech in absentia saying there are relatively few real war displaced persons left in Europe and charging a "gigantic fraud" to let in "a flood of aliens."

McCarran's speech was read to the Senate by Senator Johnson (D., Colo.). McCarran charged 60 percent of certain categories of DPs have been admitted "on false and fraudulent papers." He said the House-passed bill would provide "another loophole for the infiltration of Communist agencies."

Denies "Fraud" Evidence

Ferguson took the floor in rebuttal of McCarran's speech, denying evidence of "fraud" or illegal DP entries. He said those admitted were carefully "screened" against Communists or Nazis by all interested agencies, including central intelligence and FBI.

Ferguson denied also that only a few war displaced persons remain in Europe. He cited IRO figures to show that more than 200,000 will still be in need of resettlement when the present act expires, June 30, 1950.

In rebuttal of McCarran's charge of an immigration "flood," Ferguson said the DPS admitted in two years would constitute less than a fifth of 1 percent of our total labor force.

T. W. S. Davis Sworn in As Commerce Official

Thomas W. S. Davis, 39-year-old native of Virginia, yesterday was sworn in as Assistant Secretary of Commerce.

An executive of the United Air Lines for the past six years, Davis will have supervision of the Civil Aeronautics Administration as one of his principal duties.

Davis was for one year secretary to James A. Farley when Farley was Postmaster General. He has worked for the National Democratic Committee for periods totaling eight years.

Born in Warrenton, Davis attended the Naval Academy at Annapolis, the University of Virginia and the Washington (D. C.), College of Law.

Kaiser-Frazer Plans 3d Work Suspension

Detroit, Oct. 14.—Kaiser-Frazer Corp. plans another temporary suspension of car production October 24.

It will be the third such suspension in recent weeks. The previous shutdowns were described as required for "inventory adjustmentments." The reason for the newest suspension was not specifically stated, but Edgar F. Kaiser, president, said it was not for a model change.

He said dealers' inventories now are "at abnormally low levels."

to bridge the gap between high school and college.

2. That this aid be accomplished by providing "sufficient accommodations to house, for the first two years, students entering the university from the high schools and preparatory schools."

3. That the enforcement of discipline by the student council is commendable, for it is the "most significant instance of participation by responsible students in both the intellectual and administrative affairs of the university."

4. That problems of postwar growth have been solved to a degree by approval of a plan to set up a lower and upper division of students in the college of arts and sciences.

5. That three million dollars worth of housing and students activities' building being constructed "will recapture some of the personal atmosphere that obtained within the university when its enrollment was much smaller."

If the experiment of having first and second year students live together is successful, Darden added, they may "with profit take up residence on the 'lawn' and the 'ranges,' or in the fraternities or houses bordering on the university, much as they do now."

2 Churches to Fete 40th Anniversaries

Two Washington Methodist churches will celebrate their 40th anniversaries this week with a series of special events.

They are Francis Asbury Methodist Church, 3146 16th st. nw., and Lincoln Road Methodist Church, Lincoln rd. and U sts. ne.

For Francis Asbury Church the anniversary week also marks the congregation's emergence from debt on the present church building and parsonage. The mortgage will be burned next Sunday at a historical pageant, "40 Years of Progress," at 7:30 p.m.

Bishop Charles Wesley Flint will speak at the anniversary service at 11 a.m. Sunday, and charter members of the church will be honored at the 8 p.m. service.

Former Pastors to Attend

Four former pastors of the church will be present for the Francis Asbury anniversary banquet at the Hotel 2400 on 16th st. nw. Tuesday. One, the Rev. Dr. Albert P. Shirkey, now minister of St. Paul's Methodist Church, Houston, Tex., will preach at Youth Night Thursday at 8 o'clock.

The Rev. Dr. J. J. Rives, another former pastor, now pastor of Court Street Church in Lynchburg, Va., will preach at 11 a. m. next Sunday. Pastor for the past four years has been the Rev. Dr. Otwald Bryan Langrall.

Francis Asbury Church was organized by 25 persons who met in the Post Office Hall, 1413 Park rd., in October, 1909. The first portion of the present church building was erected in 1916 and the second in 1927.

Dr. C. H. Corkran, retired former minister of Lincoln Road Church, will speak at 11 a. m. Sunday in the first of the church's anniversary events. Several former ministers will be present for the home-coming service at 8 p. m. at the church, when the Rev. Dr. Henry Wooding of Eckington Presbyterian Church will bring the greetings of the Bloomingdale Area Ministerial Association.

Wedded Couples Invited

Couples married in the church during its 40 years of service have been invited to be present in their wedding dress at a historical review at 8 p. m. Tuesday.

A birthday cake with 40 candles will be part of the church's birthday party at 8 p. m. Thursday. The Rev. Dr. Fred C. Reynolds, district superintendent, will speak at the 11 a. m. service next Sunday at the final event of the anniversary week.

Founded by 20 persons in the Old Mansion House, 3d st. and Rhode Island ave. nw., the church later built a temporary chapel on the present site. The present church building was consecrated in 1924 and in January, 1948, its mortagage was burned to signify its freedom from debt. The Rev. Robert K. Nevitt has been pastor of the church since 1947.

Church to Hold Cornerstone Rite

The cornerstone of the new $65,000 Arlington Seventh Day Adventist Church will be laid at 3 p. m. Sunday at the site of the structure, 3425 9th St. N., at Lincoln ave.

Elder Dan A. Ochs, president of the Columbia Union Conference of Seventh Day Adventists, will speak and Elder Howard J. Detwiler, president of the Potomac Conference, will officiate. Elder Andrew J. Robbins, pastor of the church, will be chairman of the program.

Ground for the church was broken August 17, and the foundation and walls up to the first floor are now complete. The present church of the congregation is at 1101 South Glebe rd., Arlington.

New Church Dedicated

Sunday CHURCH EVENTS

Eighty years of service on Capitol Hill will be marked by the Lutheran Church of the Reformation, 212 East Capitol st., at three services.

Dr. Fry

At 11 a. m. the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the United Lutheran Church in America and vice chairman of the central committee of the World Council of Churches, will preach.

Officers of the Brotherhood of Reformation Church will share with the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Oscar F. Blackwelder, in a service on the theme "Protestantism as a Lay Movement" at 8 p. m. "The Church's One Foundation" will be the sermon theme of the Rev. Arnold F. Keller, jr., at the 8:30 a. m. matin service.

A nine-week adult Bible study class for men and women will hold its first meeting at 9:45 a. m. in the parish hall of St. John's Episcopal Church, Lafayette sq.

The series will consider Testament texts. The first six lectures will be given by Mrs. Olive Dutcher Dogett, former professor of Old Testament at Wellesley College, and the last three by James L. Houghteling, former Chicago Daily News executive.

The Rev. R. H. Apeldoorn, pastor of the Netherlands Reformed Church in London will speak at a service at 11 a. m. in the third floor assembly room of the YWCA, 17th and K sts. Dr. van Apeldoorn is visiting the United States for six weeks to confer with religious leaders throughout the country.

"Wanted—A Liar" is the title of a sermon which will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. J. Warren Hastings at 10:50 a. m. at National City Christian Church, Thomas cir. nw.

"Two Unitarians on Noah's Ark" is the subject on which the Rev. Gilbert A. Phillips will preach at 11 a. m. at the Unitarian Church of Arlington, 4451 1st pl. S., Arlington, Va.

A church which had its beginnings at services in a woodshed on the grounds of the White House in 1795 this week will celebrate the anniversary of its establishment as national church of its denomination.

The church is the National Presbyterian Church, Connecticut ave. and N sts. nw., which was established as the national church at a service on October 19, 1947 at which President Truman presided.

Three special programs have been planned for the week. At 9 and 11 a. m. Sunday the Rev. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of the church, will preach on "Our Heritage and Destiny."

Thursday at 7 p. m. the Rev. Dr. William B. Pugh, stated clerk of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., will speak at a homecoming and anniversary banquet at the church.

Final event in the week will be the appearance at 8 p. m. October 23 of the Rev. Dr. Clifford Barbour, pastor of Second Presbyterian Church of Knoxville, Tenn., and moderator of the General Assembly. Sponsored jointly by the church and the Presbytery of Washington City, the service will be followed by a reception for Dr. Barbour.

Atom Committee In Closed Session

The Congressional Atomic Energy Committee met in closed session with the Joint Chiefs of Staff yesterday to discuss the implications of Russia's A-bomb.

Chairman Brien McMahon (D., Conn.) indicated afterward that no recommendations were made for immediate or drastic changes in the atomic program.

He pointed out that the United States program was laid out with the knowledge that Russia eventually would have atomic energy too.

"But we can't be complacent, we must keep the steam on," McMahon said.

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs, and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff, attended the meeting. Admiral Louis E. Denfield, Chief of Naval Operations, was represented by Rear Adm. A. D. Struble, and Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, now in Japan, was represented by Lieut. Gen. Wade H. Haislip.

Harrison Urges Steps To Strengthen U. N.

Representative Burr P. Harrison of the Seventh Virginia District has urged the House Foreign Affairs Committee to approve a resolution that would initiate action by the United States to strengthen the United Nations.

Harrison, one of a bipartisan group sponsoring the proposal, said in a statement to the committee Thursday the "known intransigence" of Soviet Russia is not a valid argument against exploring means of increasing the authority and enforcement powers of the U. N.

"The nations of the world that are devoted to freedom," Harrison said, "cannot afford to neglect what may be the last clear chance to avoid a catastrophe in which civilization itself would be in mortal danger."

'Voice of America' To Get More Funds

President Truman yesterday signed legislation providing for a louder "Voice of America."

The measure contains an extra $11,5000,000 for the State Department's "Voice" to help it overcome Russian jamming of overseas broadcasts.

State Department officials said recently that Soviet static-makers are blotting out 75 percent of U. S. broadcasts to the Soviet Union.

Dr. Tyms to Preach

Dr. J. D. Tyms of the school of religion of Howard University will preach at 11 a. m. Sunday at Hughes Memorial Methodist Church, 18 54th st. se.

ACTIVITY EXPANDER—The Metropolitan Police Boys Club last night had $17,000 toward expanding activities as this check was turned over to it at a meeting of the board of directors at Hotel Ambassador. The check represented the proceeds of last summer's Washington-New York Fire Departments baseball game and entertainment at Griffith Stadium. At left is David Songco, 9, of 326 S. Carolina ave. se., of Club No. 5, seated on lap of Robert C. Simmons, board president, while his brother, Pat, 14, hold on to check with Fire Chief Joseph A. Mayhew. In rear is Col. Hector Airing, vice chairman of the summer benefit

Welfare Unit Asks $1547 Aid In Arlington

The Arlington Welfare Department has appealed to the County Board to make up a $1547 deficit incurred in the first quarter of this fiscal year, it was disclosed yesterday.

County Welfare Director John Howell asked help from the board after a reduction in the State Welfare Department's matching funds, in a letter sent Tuesday to County Manager A. T. Lundberg.

The State cuts have been felt chiefly in two categories, general relief and foster care, Howell said.

He explained yesterday that despite a State law requiring the Virginia Welfare Department to match local welfare budget $1 for every 60 cents, the State department has failed to live up to this formula since slashes were made in its 1949-50 budget.

Howell said he was refused in August by State authorities when he attempted to get supplemental money from the $240,000 surplus fund frozen by the State. The surplus was accumulated in matching funds when some Virginia localities failed to spend the full amount budgeted for welfare, Howell explained.

Accentuating the county's welfare problems, is a growing relief load, Howell said, topped by a $10,500 cut made in this year's welfare budget.

Safety Council in Alexandria Gets Backing of City Solons

A comprehensive safety program for Alexandria, aimed at solving problems caused by the city's rapid growth, got underway last night.

Formation of a council to carry out the program was backed unanimously by the City Council, together with cooperation of city officials.

The plan was set on foot after Talbot Sinclair, vice president of the Alexandria Junior Chamber of Commerce, asked the council's indorsement of the program. The project, he said, "would be an utter failure" without the assistance and support of police and fire departments and other city agencies.

Talbot said the safety council will be drawn from citizens engaged in various pursuits. Once the Junior Chamber of Commerce has helped to form the council, he said, the chamber will step aside.

The safety council, Talbot said, will promote safety education at home, in schools, in industry, and in traffic. It also will make recommendations to the City Council when it feels corrective measures are necessary.

He termed the council "a fact-finding board." It should serve, Talbot said, to lift some of the load from "overburdened city officials and do things they are really not equipped to do."

One function would be eventually to do something about congested traffic conditions along King St., Talbot said. He also mentioned dissatisfaction with the present traffic light system, which, he explained, is under control of city's electrical inspector.

In other business, the city council:

Appropriated $9750 for construction of Commonwealth ave. from Walnut st. to Braddock rd.

3 Nominations Seem Certain

the United Nations General Assembly, has a long record of public service.

Four years ago, while serving as Solicitor General, he was all set for appointment to the United States Court of Appeals here, but there was a snarl over who would succeed him as Solicitor General. Before the matter was decided, President Roosevelt died and so did the appointment.

Fahy, 57 and a native of Rome, Ga., began his long period of Government service with the advent of the New Deal in 1933.

In June, 1946, he was appointed a legal adviser to the State Department, a post he retained for about a year. Since that time Fahy has been in private law practice here. He did, however, head a special committee named by President Truman to study the problem of race relations in the armed services.

Fahy won the Navy Cross as a naval flier during World War I.

Fahy, a Catholic, is married, lives at 5500 Chevy Chase pkwy. nw. and has four children. The children are Charles, jr., a sophomore at Notre Dame; his twin, Anne, who attends Trinity College with her sister, Sarah, and Agnes, who is at Georgetown Visitation Convent.

Washington, a collateral descendant of George Washington, is a bachelor and lives at 2500 Q st. nw. He was one of the Government assistants in the trial of the Nazi saboteurs.

Was Aid to Biddle

He is 41, a native of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, and has been in Government service since 1942 when he joined the Office of Emergency Management.

Washington was chief of the Lend-Lease mission to Iran and Iraq from the fall of 1942 to the fall of 1944. From 1944 to 1946 he was a special assistant to Attorney General Francis Biddle.

He was appointed Assistant Solicitor General in 1946 and from October, 1946, to July 1947, was Acting Solicitor General.

An Episcopalian, Washington has had several special assignments. He has served as legal adviser to representatives to the U. N. and was a member of the American delegation to the Geneva Conference on Freedom of the Press in 1948.

Bazelon, who is 39 and a native of Superior, Wis., practiced law in Chicago until 1935 when he was named Assistant United States Attorney for the Northern District of Illinois, responsible for all Federal income tax litigation in that district.

Bazelon resigned this post in 1940 and returned to private practice. He returned to Government service in May, 1946, as Assistant Attorney General.

Of Jewish faith, Bazelon is married, lives at 4704 Linnean ave. nw., and has two children, James, 7, and Richard Lee, 5.

Bastian, who is 57, is a life-long resident of the District and now lives at 2015 Plymouth st. nw. He was admitted to the District bar in 1913 after receiving his law degree at Georgetown.

Is Director of Bank

Bastian was treasurer of the District Bar Association for several years and was its president in 1936. He has been treasurer of the American Bar Association since 1945, and has been the District's delegate to the American Bar Association's house of delegates since 1936.

He has been a lecturer at the National University School of Law since 1918 and president of the university's board of trustees since 1943. He is director of the National Savings & Trust Co. as well as the Eastern Building & Loan Association.

Bastian is president of the Swartzell Methodist Home for Children and has been a trustee of the Hamline Methodist Church. He has two sons, Walter M., jr., and David.

Kirkland is 45 and a native of Delaware. He came to Washington as a child in 1905 when his father was appointed chief clerk in the office of the United States Marshal here.

For many years, Kirkland was professor of criminal law at George Washington University.

Kirkland handled criminal cases in private law practice. He collapsed in the courtroom from the strain of overwork in 1941 while defending John E. Eklund, sniper-killer of four persons.

He was chairman of the Washington Speakers Bureau for three war bond drives and was active in civilian defense during World War II.

He is a strong advocate of suffrage for the District and in 1946 was legal adviser to the committee that supervised the plebiscite in the District. In that same year he was chairman of the public utilities committee of the Board of Trade.

Was District Bar Official

He is a former vice president of the District Bar Association and an organizer and former president of the association's junior bar section. He is a member of the District chapter of the Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

Kirkland is married, lives at 1519 Underwood st. nw., and has three children, William, Carol Jean and Katherine. He is an Episcopalian.

McLaughlin is 62, a native of Lincoln, Neb., and was a member of the Nebraska delegation in the House of Representatives from 1935 to 1943.

He began private law practice in Omaha in 1910. He was master in chancery of Federal Court in Omaha in 1916 and 1917 and was a delegate to the Nebraska Constitutional Convention in 1919 and 1920. The Omaha Bar Association elected him its president in 1932.

He was a member of the American-Mexican Claims Commission from 1943 to 1947. He is a Catholic, married, lives at 2310 Connecticut ave. nw., and has two children, Edward and Mary.

Rail Commissioners Elect Georgia Man

Chicago, Oct. 14 (AP).—Walter R. McDonald, 57, a Georgia public service commissioner since 1923, and blind since he was 13, was elected today as solicitor general of the National Association of Railroad and Utility Commissioners.

He was named to the $12,500-a-year job by unanimous vote of the group's executive committee. He succeeds Frederick G. Hamley, who recently resigned to become a justice of the Supreme Court of the State of Washington.

Store Sales Continue Off; Heat Blamed

By S. Oliver Goodman

Unseasonably hot weather continued to play hob with Washington department store sales in the week ended October 9.

The misplaced heat wave drove dollar volume of local stores down 10 percent in the latest week, according to the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond. This followed declines of 17 percent and 6 percent in the two preceding weeks.

For the four weeks ended October 8, store sales here were reported 5 percent lower than in the same 1948 period.

The sales drops elsewhere in the Fifth Reserve District were even more noticeable. Baltimore reported a 21 percent slump for the week and other area cities showed an average decline of 16 percent.

Declines were shown in department store turnover in every Federal Reserve District, ranging from a 1 percent dip in San Francisco to a 17 percent drop in the Cleveland district.

Cooler weather Thursday and yesterday raised local merchants' hopes that shoppers again will become interested in fall and winter clothing, as well as cold weather accessories.

HECHT SALES: Combined sales of The Hecht Co.'s Washington and Silver Spring stores totaled $50,351,099 in the fiscal year ended July 31. This was an increase of 9.4 per cent over the $46,038,545 in the preceding 12 months, according to Charles B. Dulcan, sr., vice president and general manager of the two stores.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: Gordon C. Meek, former Cleveland public relations director of Alcoa and at one time labor editor of the Cleveland Press, has been assigned to the Washington office of Aluminum Co. of America as information contact for press and radio . . . William A. Gill, coordinator of civil defence planning of the National Security Resources Board, addressed business management student of American University this week . . . George C. Van Nostrand, an assistant vice president for American Airlines in Washington, has been elected vice president and general manager of American Airlines de Mexico, effective today . . . Donald Gordon, deputy governor of the Bank of Canada, will succeed R. C. Vaughan as chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, effective next January 1.

Meek

ODD LOTS: Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index this week slid to $5.57 from last week's $5.65 and hit a new low since October, 1946 (when the last OPA controls were removed from meats and livestock) . . . American Airlines, pioneer in the air freight cargo field, expects revenue of more than two million dollars from this source in the last quarter this year . . . A leading custom smelter yesterday slashed the price of lead ¼ of a cent to 13 cents a pound, New York . . . Kaiser-Frazer plans another temporary suspension of car production, commencing October 24, but an official denied it was for a model change . . . The 1609-mile Michigan-Wisconsin gas pipeline from Texas has been completed and gas will start to flow within two weeks.

HONOR: Something new in tributes will be received Monday night by George M. Fisher, president of the District of Columbia Bankers Association. At the regular fall meeting of the association in the Mayflower, Fisher will get a mahogany gavel from 11-year-old Cornelius Kelleher, member of the Washington Boys Club. The gavel was made in the club's workshop.

EXPANSION: National Airlines, Inc., observing its fifteenth anniversary today, announced an equipment expansion program and inauguration of a de luxe nonstop New York-Miami service at no fare increase. President G. T. Baker disclosed that National will buy two new Douglas DC-6s and is negotiating for the lease of several other four-engine planes. Beginning November 1, the airline will offer four-cents-a-mile "coach fares" from Washington to all its system points.

EARNINGS: Dow Chemical Co. reported net income of $5,957,148 or $1.04 a common share for the three months ended August 31, compared with $6,393,445 or $1.15 a share in the same 1948 period. Other earnings statements:

'Electronic Magnifier' In Westinghouse Video

New York, Oct. 14 (AP).—Westinghouse Electric Corp. today introduced its fall line of television sets featuring a built-in antenna and an "electronic magnifier."

The electronic magnifier is a development enabling the set to produce either a conventional rectangular picture or a circular enlargement of the central portion of the viewing tube.

Price starts at $199.95 for a table model with 10-inch tube.

Mattingly Passes Hoyas to 21-6 Win Over N.Y.U.

'Ez' Charles Knocks Out Valentino In 8th Round

Cow Palace, San Francisco, Oct. 14 (AP).—Ezzard Charles knocked out Pat Valentino in the eighth round of their scheduled 15-round bout tonight to successfully defend his National Boxing Association heavyweight title.

The bout ended with surprising suddenness only 35 seconds into the round.

Charles entered the ring as the 1 to 5 favorite. He justified the one-sided favoritism by flattening his latest challenger with a swift right to the jaw as they sparred around to open the eighth.

Valentino went down. He was groggy as he tried to get to his feet but fell back while Referee Jack Downey counted him out.

Charles, landing punishing left hooks and driving over rights to the jaw, had control of the battle after the third round. He took Valentino's hardest punches to the body, the challenger's best offense, and cooly outboxed him most of the way.

The San Franciscan, forcing the pace in the early part, had an edge in the second and third rounds. Charles was out in front the rest of the time.

Valentino began tiring in the fifth round as the Cincinnati Negro speared him with left jabs and made his head bob with right uppercuts. Ed moved in and out to evade the challenger's wild swings.

Looping Swings

Charles weighed 182 pounds and Valentino 188½. The champion's speed and ring skill were too much for his rival, who missed looping swings or landed them on the shoulders. Clinches were infrequent because Charles ducked in and out while landing punishing blows.

The San Franciscan's only chance to score an upset rested in his ability to crowd Charles. He rarely succeeded because the champ presented a swiftly moving target.

Valentino, however, brought loud cheers from his supporters early. He rushed in to land rights and lefts to Charles' body in the second and third sessions. Charles doubled up under the blows in the second and was behind in the next round as Valentino continued to set the pace.

The fourth round sounded the beginning of the end for Valentino. Charles drove over a vicious right to his rival's nose that started the blood to trickle.

Air Attack Revives G.U.; Billy Conn Scores Two

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Frank Mattingly picked up a Georgetown team that was down and passed it to a 21-6 victory over stubborn New York U. last night before 5032 at Griffith Stadium.

Completing 8 of 16 attempts, for 180 yards, the slender, pinch-faced sophomore quarterback supplied nearly all the Hoyas' offense.

And how they needed it.

Mattingly passed to Billy Conn for the first touchdown midway in the second quarter, a 13-yard affair. Two long tosses covered 70 yards and he fittingly carried over the second on a quarterback sneak in the third period.

Races 60 Yards to Score

N. Y. U. struck like lightning on a lightning-like 60-yard run by Billy Payne, Negro speedster, in the final session. Payne crashed into the secondary and, with perfect downfield blocking, went all the way.

What appeared to be an important extra-point try was missed by Guard Russ Giralamo. It went wide and Georgetown led, 14-6, with eight minutes left.

Billy Conn added one for good measure with two and a half minutes left when he burst off tackle for a spectacular 23-yard scoring jaunt.

in the second period. End Joe Pallotta finally touched off the action by intercepting a pass by Jerry Eisenman on his 39.

That's when Mattingly went to work. He tossed a 9-yard pass to big Bob Noppinger. Then, with second and one, he threw a long one that Noppinger caught on the NYU 28 and carried to the 10 on the 42-yard play.

Apparently stalled, Mattingly faded on fourth down and threw a bullet pass that Billy Conn took on the five and carried over.

Midway in the third period, the former Charlotte Hall ace, started pitching again. He threw one to Lou Surman that was good for 35 yards to the NYU 36

Losh Rolls Into End Zone

Another long one was grabbed by End Dick Losh, a soph, on the NYU 19. Losh sprinted goalward with no NYU player within 10 yards of him.

Unaccountably, Dick slipped, rolling into the end zone. The referee placed the ball on the one so Mattingly sneaked over for the six pointer.

Conn made up for a rough night when he went on his touchdown run. He bulled his way through the line and fought away from the secondary for a well-earned 23-yard trip.

Army Rated 18 Points Over Harvard

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Boston, Oct. 14.—Army's football team today moves against Harvard in Soldier's Field tomorrow to solidify its newly won claims to national honors since upsetting Michigan.

Col. Earl Blaik's forces three-touchdown favorites to beat the winless Harvards, are at peak strength for the contest save for a thigh injury to Fullback Gil Stephenson, who may yet get in the game.

Blaik had his Cadets in the Harvard Stadium today for a light workout and a heavy lecture. He warned them that upsets could happen in football, and refreshed their memories by recalling last year's game when Harvard held them 7-7 at the half before losing 21-7.

A sell-out crowd of 52,000 is expected, despite Harvard's lack of a victory and the prospect that for the first time in its 72-year fotball history the Crimson will take its fourth beating in a row.

For Blaik's Cadets it is their third successive week that they will be facing a single-wing team—Penn State, Michigan and now Harvard. In Harvard, coached by Arthur Valpey, the Cadets will again encounter a Michigan-style attack, but hardly in the Michigan manner.

Andy Galiffa, headed for All-American honors, and biggest man in the West Point backfield, will have with him at the outset Vic Pollock at left halfback; Frank Fiscal at right halfback, and Karl Kuckhan doing the heavy duty at fullback.

Harvard will be relying chiefly on the passes of Jim Noonan and Charley Roche. Valpey's team suffered a hard blow in the injury of half Moffie, its best ball carrier, who is sidelined indefinitely, but Crimson is stacking up stronger in the line with the return of Howie Houston, its captain and ace tackle.

Blaik is prepared to keep his first team in action as long as the issue is in doubt, but if the Cadets acquire a comfortable lead he will wheel in his second offensive platoon comprised of his own son, Bobby Blaik at quarterback; Jim Cain and Jack Martin, halfbacks, and Stephenson at full.

Navy Plays At Wisconsin

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Madison, Wis., Oct. 14.—Navy sails into Wisconsin here tomorrow and indications are that the voyage will be anything but smooth.

Licked by California 35-20 last week, the big bad Badgers are in a vindictive mood and are confident they can take the wind out of Navy's sails.

The optimism of Head Coach Ivy Williamson, in his first year at Wisconsin, and his squad became so contagious today that even the sportswriters and other "experts" switched from their original choice and have now made Wisconsin a 6-point favorite.

Before Navy's arrival at noon, it was the other way around. Certainly nothing done at practice could have effected the sudden change because Coach Sauer's Middies did little more than flex their muscles after the five-hour plane ride from Washington, D. C.

Sauer didn't intend for the practice to be a calisthenics session but he was forced to restrict it to that. Hundreds of Wisconsin students, who live in a dormitory adjoining Camp Randall Stadium, poured out on the field to watch what Sauer had hoped would be a "secret" practice.

Tulane, N. D. May Decide U. S. Title

New York, Oct. 14 (AP).—Tulane and Notre Dame will smack each other around in the top game on a crowded college football program tomorrow and the winner can start trying on the national crown for size.

Although several other unbeaten powers will be involved in games with important bearing on major conference races, the intersectional struggle at South Bend, Ind., shapes up as one of the best of the year.

Notre Dame, undefeated although twice tied in 31 games dating back to the 1946 opener, currently is accepted as the Nation's No. 1 outfit and will enter this contest as a two-touchdown favorite.

Tulane has won 12 in a row since losing its first game of 1948, three of them this season. Now ranked fourth in the Nation, the Green Wave is bent on avenging the 59-6 licking it absorbed from the Irish in their last meeting two years ago.

Whatever happens tomorrow, the winner at South Bend will have the gridiron world by the tail with a downhill pull. The Irish, by winning, not only would preserve their long defeatless streak but surely would justify their lofty ranking.

West Virginia Routed, 52-20

Boston, Oct. 14 (AP).—Boston University, sparked by its brilliant Sophomore Quarterback Harry Aggains, jumped another notch in its quest for national football recognition by overwhelming West Virginia, 52-20, before an 18,034 crowd tonight at Fenway Park.

Agganis, a former schoolboy star from nearby Lynn, making his first college start before New England fans, sent the Boston Terriers into a big lead before retiring for the night early in the third period.

The southpaw-slinging ace duplicated his brilliant performance against Colgate last week by pitching three touchdown passes and going over once himself.

Score by periods:

G. W. Tangles With V. P. I.

A courageous Washington and Lee team that could be troublesome meets Virginia at Charlottesville today in the headliner of a trio of Old Dominion homecoming games involving area teams.

Luckless George Washington will find its first victory quest more difficult against a VPI squad at Blacksburg that will be hopped up by the presence of the old grads.

Bridgewater, fielding its first football team since 1937, expects 2000 for its reunion day battle with Gallaudet.

In the big out-of-state game involving a Virginia team, William and Mary takes on Michigan State's powerhouse at East Lansing. It's going to be interesting to see how the Indians, also a 20-point underdog, fare against the team Maryland battled so valiantly.

Falls Church Scores, 20-0

Fort Royal, Va., Oct. 14—Falls Church High School scored two quick touchdowns in the first period and went on whip Warren County, 20-0, in a Virginia Group II game before 1500 fans at Municipal Park here tonight.

Georgia Wins From LSU, 7-0

Athens, Ga., Oct. 14 (AP).—Georgia, a tired battler virtually without a running punch, got its passing game working late tonight to defeat Louisiana State University, 7-0. Attendance was estimated at 22,000.

The winning touchdown was scored by Halfback Billy Mixon on a one-yard smash over right tackle. Quarterback Ray Prosperi's high 34-yard pass to End Bob Walston four plays earlier set up the scoring chance.

Purdue Beats Miami, 14 to 0

Miami, Fla., Oct. 14 (AP).—Purdue University tasted victory for the first time this season when it defeated the stubborn University of Miami Hurricanes, 14 to 0, tonight in the Orange Bowl stadium before 47,835 football fans—a new record attendance for a regular season game in Miami.

Purdue's visit to the Orange Bowl Stadium marked the first time a Big Ten Conference team has played in Florida.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Purdue | 7 | 7 | 0 | 0 | —14 |
| Miami | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | —0 |

Villanova Upset by Tulsa, 21-19

Philadelphia, Oct. 14 (AP).—An amazing Tulsa University eleven blasted Villanova College from football's undefeated tonight in one of the year's major upsets. Led by 165-pound Dub Graves, Tulsa built up first half lead and withstood a stirring rally to win, 21 to 19.

With Tulsa leading 7-6 in the dying moments of the first half, Graves caught a punt on his own 30, lost control of the pigskin but grabbed it on the bounce and outlegged the Villanova defenders for the score that gave Tulsa a 14 to 6 edge.

A moment lated he brought the crowd of 12,363 to its feet with one of the most electrifying runs of this or any other season.

Paul Barry took a handoff from Quarterback Pete Annex on his 31, found himself stopped on the Villanova 42 and pitched a lateral to Graves who was zooming down the sidelines.

Without breaking stride, Graves took the ball and danced past one tackle after another before he was stopped on the Villanova seven. Barry sprinted around end for the third Tulsa touchdown on the next play.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Tulsa | 0 | 14 | 7 | 0 | —21 |
| Villanova | 0 | 6 | 6 | 7 | —19 |

Tulsa: Touchdowns—Barry (2), Graves. Points after touchdown—Boucher (3). Villanova: Touchdowns—D'Alonzo, Pasquariello, Rogers. Point after touchdown—Clavin.

Cards to Open Home Season

Catholic University opens its home season today at Brookland against Randolph-Macon in a Mason-Dixon Conference test starting at 2:30 p. m.

The game marks the home debut of Coach Jan Jankowski on the field where he earned collegiate playing honors. The Cardinals are anxious to make it a winning one for Jankowski.

They lost their opener to Patuxent Naval Air Base, 26-0, but upset hopes are spurred by the return of Passer Joe Dunne. Helping Dunne out will be Bucky Ennis, Bill Holl, Whitey Hubert and Bill DeYoung round out the starting backfield.

The visiting Virginians are looking for their first victory in five starts. Playing out of its class, Randolph-Macon lost decisions to Richmond, 27-0; Newport News Apprentice School, 14-7; Waynesburg, 38-6, and Guilford, 36-12.

Gavilan Wins Over Beau Jack

Chicago, Oct. 14 (AP).—Kid Gavilan, Cuba's aspirant to the world's welterweight championship, tonight administered a decisive defeat to Beau Jack, former lightweight titleholder, in a blistering 10-round battle in Chicago Stadium.

Twelfth St. Y. M. C. A. Ring Team Wins, 5-0

One knock out topped the card as the 12th st. YMCA defeated Alexandria House, 5-0, last night at the Y. Willie Troy K. O.'d Clayborn Robinson after 1:12 of the second round.

B. C. Holds Ole Miss to 25-All Tie

Boston, Oct. 14 (AP).—Favored Mississippi had to roll for three fourth-period touchdowns and then fight off a terrific last-minute aerial barrage to gain a 25-25 tie with Boston College tonight before a 20,103 crowd at Braves Field. Time ended with the Eagles on Ole Miss 10-yard line.

The home forces, trounced 32-13 by the Southerners a year ago, spotted them an early touchdown and then stormed back to build up a 19-6 lead as Al Cannava raced almost at will and snatched four of Butch Songin's passes for wide gains during the third session.

Just as the Eagles appeared to have an upset victory in their talons Ole Miss' Red Jenkins, Billy Mustin and Johnny Dottley intervened to give their forces a 25-19 margin with five minutes to go.

Thereupon the sharp-shooting Songin came up with his longest throw of the night, a 50-yarder to Cannava that enabled the former to resume his pitching from Mississippi's 25-yard marker.

After Cannava was dragged down on the 1-yard line, Ed Petela smashed through to deadlock matters. With a minute remaining, Boston College stopped a drive on Mississippi's 45-yard line. Songin sandwiched a 10-yard run between passes to Canava and Joe Diminick to move the ball to a point 10 yards short of a winning touchdown just before time expired.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Mississippi | 6 | 0 | 0 | 19 | —25 |
| Boston College | 0 | 12 | 7 | 6 | —25 |

Mississippi: Touchdowns—Jenkins (2), Dottley, Mustin. Point after touchdown—Blanchard. Boston College: Touchdowns—Diminick (2), Cannava, Petela. Point after touchdown—Stautner.

Connie Mack Once Said:

'Wish I Had 9 Men Named Simmons'

By Red Smith

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (NYHT). There came a summer when July found the Philadelphia Athletics in the first division. They were a dreadful ball club and had no right to be that high—they hadn't been that high as late as July in years and years—but they'd been playing well for several weeks and Philadelphia was excited about them. On an off day a reporter asked Connie Mack: "If you had to pick one player who has been more responsible for this success than any other, which one would you name as the key man?"

Connie was silent a while, looking at a picture on his desk. It was an action photograph of a hitter, cut out in outline and mounted on wood so that it stood up on a little wooden pedestal. It was the only picture of a ball player in the old man's office. When Connie answered, he didn't mention one of his players at all; he mentioned instead the guy who was coaching for him at third base. "I wish," he said, "I had nine men named Al Simmons." And he went on to talk of the greatest clutch hitter he had ever known, and to tell how much a fellow like that could mean to a ball club, with his will to win and his alert intelligence and his gift for fanning the spark in others. Even when he wasn't playing, but only coaching at third base.

There came a night when the Athletics were riding East from their California training camp and some guys sat up late on the train and Al Simmons was talking.

"I WAS A GOOD ball player," he said, "as long as I was hungry. Pitchers—I hated pitchers. I wanted 'em dead. Those dirty slobs were trying to take the bread and butter out of my mouth."

Another night the A's, playing in Washington, got a five-run lead early for their pitcher, little Jesse Flores. But the Nats chewed at the lead and chewed at it and finally won the game. Simmons was cursing when he got into a taxi for the Shoreham Hotel.

"Blankety-Blank," he said, sitting in the back seat and talking into the darkness. "Blankety-blank, five adjectival runs and they blow it and that Flores just stands out there and throws and don't even try anything. Never even tries to move a blankety hitter back or loosen him up. Just stands out there and throws the Anglo-Saxon ball and lets 'em take a five-run lead away from him."

George Binks had made a couple of important hits for Washington. Simmons had nothing against Binks, hadn't in fact, ever met the guy.

"And that blank Binks. . ." Al said, "A blank, blink, filthy, stinking rookie. How do you know what he'll do if you loosen him up a couple times? Maybe he'll knock the next pitch down your throat. But a stinking, lousy rookie. . . . Holy, jumping Judas priest, you find out what he'll do, don't you? You don't just stand there and let a lousy rookie take your ball game away from you and never try to fight back, Judas priest."

"THAT FLORES," Al said. "Suppose he was sitting in the Shoreham tonight and that Binks walked up and tried to take a piece of bread off his plate. What would he do? He'd get up and fight, wouldn't he? Well, for the blinkety-blank blink."

THERE WAS A WINTER meeting in Chicago when Simmons dropped down from his home in Milwaukee for a chat with Connie Mack, and Connie told him there'd always be a job for him in Philadelphia as long as he wanted it.

"That's great," Simmons said, "thanks, but——"

He would have stopped there but Connie wouldn't let him, so hesitantly he went on: "Well, er—that is, ah—well, you're not

Bums Ship Rackley to Cincinnati

Brooklyn, Oct. 14 (AP).—Continuing to unload their second rate performers at the rate of two a day, the Brooklyn Dodgers today announced the sale of Marvin Rackley to the Cincinnati Reds and Dick Whitman to the Philadelphia Phils. Both are outfielders.

"No other players were involved," a Dodger official said in making the announcement. "We received cash."

It was believed the Dodgers collected $50,000 for the 28-year-old Rackley and $25,000 for Whitman, who reaches his twenty-ninth birthday next month. The Brooks were reported to have received $100,000 from the Chicago Cubs yesterday for Pitcher Paul Minner and First Baseman Preston Ward.

Neither Rackley nor Whitman played a large part in the Dodgers climb to the 1949 pennant. Rackley batted .303 but aappeared in only 74 games, many as a pinch hitter. He began the season with Brooklyn, was sold to Pittsburgh in May, and was returned to the Dodgers when it was discovered he had developed a sore arm.

Yanks Release Casey

New York, Oct. 14 (AP).—Hugh Casey, veteran relief pitcher, got a thirty-sixth birthday present today—his unconditional release from the World Champion New York Yankees.

The Yanks cut loose Casey and sent Reliefer Ralph Buxton to Kansas City in a "deal" by which Paul Hinrichs, righthanded bonus pitcher, moves from the Blues to the parent club.

20,000 to See Classic Here

After day-long festivities, Hampton meets Tuskegee at 8:30 o'clock tonight at Griffith Stadium in the second annual National Classic that's expected to draw upward of 20,000.

A parade beginning at 11 a. m. will announce the game. With more than 80 units, the marchers will assemble on 19th st. between Florida and Wyoming aves. The parade will wind its way to 5th and T sts. by way of U st. and Florida ave.

Tuskegee's explosive back is Jimmy Bryson, 160-pounder who's touted as one of the best Negro backs in the country.

Mary Ann Downey Beats Mrs. Glick For Golf Crown

Baltimore, Oct. 14 (AP).—Mary Ann Downey, 23-year-old Baltimore golfer, won the Middle Atlantic Women's golf championship today by defeating Mrs. Maurice Glick, 3 and 1, at the Country Club of Maryland.

The match ended on the seventeenth where Mrs. Glick, after watching Miss Downey put the ball nicely on the green, hooked her ball, then took two to get on the carpet. She conceded Miss Downey a seven-foot putt for a deuce.

In the consolation match, Mrs. Charles M. Nes, jr., of Green Spring, trounced Mrs. Cameron C. Barr of the host club, 7 and 6.

McDougal, Murphy Pace Attack

By West McLean
Post Reporter

Central's Vikings rolled over a green Bell Vocational team, 66-0, yesterday at Central and moved into a tie with McKinley Tech for the Northern Division lead in the Interhigh School Series.

Roy Nelson opened the Central scoring parade on the end of a 38-yard pass play from Jimmy Sullivan; Jerry Murphy went 36 yards around left end for the second score and then took the pigskin 6 yards over left tackle for the third tally.

In the second period, Pat McDougal went 7 yards over right tackle and three yards over center for two scores.

A Sullivan pass to Franny Gleason for 11 yards was good for the first score of the third quarter, Ronnie Sheppard plunged two yards through the center for another score and Wayne August went over right guard three yards for another tally.

The final period saw an Arnold Scribner pass to Conrad Wine god for 16 yards and a score and another Scribner pass to Joe Loewe for the final score. Lynn Leathery added six conversions, two by running and four by placement.

Bethesda Upset, 21-12, By St. Albans

By Bill McKaye

St. Albans trimmed Bethesda-Chevy Chase, 21-12, in one of yesterday's big high school football upsets. It was played at B-CC.

The outcome was in doubt until the last quarter when St. Albans' Bill Leach plunged for a one-yard touchdown with eight minutes left.

St. Albans' other touchdowns were scored by Johnny Broome on a 10-yard run, and by Bo Bohart on a one-yard line buck.

B-CC's touchdowns were scored by Johnny Buell on a 20-yard end dash and by Wally Young on an 8-yard pass from Dick Onslow.

Landon Triumphs Over N. T. S., 6 to 0

A third period 66-yard pass play, Lanny Banfield to Bill Browner, gave Landon a 6 to 0 victory over the National Training School yesterday on the N.T.S. field.

Battling it out in the mud, both teams were held to small gains for the entire first half, until Landon Back Browner snagged a 15-yard pass and sprinted the remaining 51 for the deciding score. An attempt to run over the extra point failed.

Attention Mark Wins by Length at Laurel

Kinsman 3d; Triple For Strange

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Laurel, Md., Oct. 14.—Going a distance for the first time in his career, Bobanet Stable's Attention Mark qualified nicely for next Wednesday's Spalding Lowe Jenkins here today. The 2-year-old colt won the Stagehand, featuring the Friday program by a length margin.

G. M. Cohen's Jess Linthicum was second after setting most of the pace. He was three lengths in advance of Mrs. Jack Corson's Kinsman in the field of five juveniles untested before today at over a mile.

Attention Mark, handled by Jockey James Lynch, was clocked in 1.47 for the mile and a sixteenth over a fast track. The winner paid $5.60 and was the favorite by only a slight margin over Jess Linthicum, the pair drawing a total win betting of $14,909 and $14,297, respectively.

Riding honors went to Bobbie Strange, the Texan booting three winners to move within one of Robert Martin who tops the saddle artists with 16.

Strange had a hand in producing an $82.20 pay-off on the daily double combination of 10 and 5. He brought Clarence Burns' Linda A home ahead of 11 rivals in the second race, the filly paying $11 80. The first race had been won by Mrs. R. H. Heighe's Creel, returning $17 and carrying jockey Jack Robertson.

Strange's second winner came in the fifth event. He was aboard Bobanet Stable's Mystagogue and brought the favorite to the wire in excellent style, the backers of the Alaking colt collecting $4.60.

His third winner was in the seventh. Strange was up on W. A. Sehlhorst's Harmony Hope, paying $1.20.

Howard Faces Morgan Today

Unbeaten Morgan, perennial CIAA football power, meets Howard University, 2 p. m. today at Griffith Stadium.

Morgan, cofavored with West Virginia State to win its thirteenth title since 1932, rolled over its first two opponents.

Howard humbled Bluefield Teachers, 27-0, but succumbed to strong West Virginia State, 27-6, and then bounced back to defeat Virginia Union, 19-13.

Congressional Event Won By Mrs. Myers

Mrs. John F. Myers shot a 92—17 for a two down to par to win the class A honors in ladies' day play yesterday at Congressional Country Club. Mrs. Howard J. Klossner won the class B laurels in the match play against par tournament with a 92—22 to go one up to par. Mrs. Jay A. Mount was best in class C with a 107—31 to go one down.

Mrs. R. E. Burks won the low putting prize, using her putter only 31 times.

Mrs. Young, Brister Tie at Washington

Mrs. R. D. Young, 93-18—75, and Mrs. R. L. Brister, 94-19—75, tied for the top spot in the Mrs. Frank Mirth ladies tournament at Washington Country Club yesterday.

Mrs. George Bailey, 84-7—77, and Mrs. Henry Riley, 88-11—77, shared the third place while Mrs. E. X. Murphy, 103-23—80, Mrs. A. M. Ferry, 106-26—80, Mrs. Franz Richey, 110-30—80, and Mrs. D. M. Monsee, 98-18—80, tied for fifth.

Ann York Wins Army-Navy Golf

Miss Ann York, 83 with five fours, won the 4-5-6 ladies' day tournament at Army-Navy Country Club yesterday. Mrs. M. J. Torlinski, 86 with 10 fives and Mrs. Patrick Stevens, 104 with nine sixes were the other winners.

Mrs. F. G. Erskine, 56, defeated Mrs. L. K. McIntyre, 57, one up, in the first flight finals for the nine-hole championship. Mrs. Charles W. Nuendorf, 70, downed Mrs. H. P. Van Ormer, 72, 2 and 1, to win the second flight title.

AT LAUREL

DEAR FOLKS: Former Jockey Danny Scocca, now a trainer, arrived from Wheeling with his horses. Danny, a Washington boy who was schooled in the saddle by Sonny Workman, says he will resume riding next year. Apparently he won't have any weight problems because he now tips the beam at 114 despite a year's absence. Scocca, who learned to drive trotting horses at Laurel Raceway last summer, says he may go in for the carriage trade sport sometime in the future, "perhaps when I get a little age on me." Big weekend program here topped by the $15,000 added Washington handicap. See you on the rail.—BILL.

Hearing Set For Monday On Proposed Rights Unit

District Committee Of Senate Acts To Get Views On Both Sides

A public hearing at 10 a. m. Monday on the proposed Human Rights Commission for Washington was ordered yesterday by the Senate District Committee.

The plan for hearing was approved by the committee in an executive session at the request of Chairman Neely (D., W. Va.). The Monday meeting will be in the District Committee Room.

Neely undertook to sponsor the legislation for the Human Rights Commission after it was proposed during the recent round-table conferences he had with spokesmen for Washington organizations.

Would Apply Golden Rule

Neely sponsored a similar plan when he was Governor of West Virginia.

His bill calls for a 25-member commission to be appointed by the President subject to Senate confirmation.

The commission's primary assignment would be to apply the Golden Rule to District racial problems. Among detailed assignments would be protection of civil rights, investigation of complaints about violation of civil rights, and preparation of reports and recommendations for legislation.

The hearings were suggested by Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.) after Neely hinted the committee might send his bill to the floor for action.

"Easier Sledding"

McCarthy said the bill was a good one, but that it probably would have "easier sledding" if presented to the Senate after hearings.

Neely said he could not conceive of any objection to the bill, but agreed on the hearings to give those for and against the plan an opportunity to testify.

Committee aides pointed out there would be no time to notify witnesses individually of the hearing time.

Suspects Win Chase No. 1, Lose Second

Two men who led police a chase after an alleged attempt to steal a woman's purse yesterday were charged with attempted robbery and held for grand jury action under $10,000 bond each.

The two are Manuel Duff, 25, who gave police his address as Falls Church, Va., and Charles Jones, 23, who said he lives at 28 Hanover st. nw. Detective Sergt. Murray Kutner, of the robbery squad, said both are on parole from District Jail, Duff on a forgery charge and Jones on a robbery count.

The men were found allegedly stealing from Mrs. Patricia D. Kemp, 4322 N. Fairfax dr., Fairfax, Va., on a streetcar on F st. nw. near 11th. Carl E. Neuman, a Washington Terminal policeman, attempted to capture them, but lost out. Pvt. P. J. Mangum of the Traffic Division finally made the two arrests.

2 Fulbright Act Awards Won by Howard Teachers

Two Howard University teachers were among 40 American scholars to receive awards under the Fullbright Act, the State Department announced yesterday.

They are Dr. Frank Martin Snowden, jr., 1227 Girard st. ne., chairman of the university's Department of Classics, and Mrs. Margaret Just Wormley Butcher, 1944 3d st. nw., assistant professor of English.

Dr. Snowden will undertake research in archeology in Italy. Mrs. Butcher will teach American literature at the Universities of Grenoble and Lyon, France.

More Counties Claim U. S. Aid for Schools

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

Montgomery County loses more than two million dollars in school taxes annually because of Federal ownership of "some of the most valuable land" in the county, School Superintendent Edwin W. Broome yesterday, told a House Labor and Education Subcommittee.

Dr. Broome cited Federal ownership of taxable land as one reason why the Federal Government should aid communities such as Montgomery in meeting pressing school problems.

Three other Maryland school superintendents appeared before the committee to second Dr. Broome's contention that local communities have the right to look to the Federal Government for help.

On Thursday, committee members heard the same view expressed by school officials from Arlington, and Fairfax Counties and from the cities of Alexandria and Falls Church. They, too, blamed the Federal Government for crowded schoolrooms.

Werdel Sees Agreement

Representative Thomas H. Werdel (R., Calif.), after hearing the witnesses, said he thought every member of Congress will agree that "we have an obligation to provide immediate help for those areas where the problem of school overcrowding exists because of Federal activities."

Appearing briefly before the committee as a witness, Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer (D., Md.), whose district covers Prince Georges and Anne Arundel Counties, said "Government should help what it has created."

The committee will leave the end of this month for a Nation-wide tour studying school conditions in other communities where there is a large concentration of Federal employes.

Dr. Broome estimated 40 percent of the school enrollment in Montgomery County can be attributed directly to Federal operations in the county and in Washington. Rapid growth of school population from 8902 in 1930 to 24,132 this year parallels increase in Federal activity. The Federal Government, while attracting additional residents to the area, has removed land from the tax rolls, he said.

Dr. Broome cited as examples the Naval Hospital at Bethesda, the National Institute of Health, Army Map Service, David Taylor Model Basin, Walter Reed Hospital Annex and the White Oak Naval Laboratory. Land and improvements on these properties are valued at more than 173 million dollars and would bring in school taxes of $2,314,200 a year if privately owned, Dr. Broome said.

Planned expansion of the National Institute of Health will bring 2000 additional children into the county within the next 10 years, the school official stated. Adequate school facilities for these children will cost a minimum of three million dollars, he said.

School Superintendent G. Gardner Shugart of Prince Georges said that county has just about reached the limit it can go in bonded indebtedness for schools before its credit suffers. The county has been financing school construction with a $5,950,000 bond issue.

Despite the school building program, Prince Georges, which has added 6136 children in the past two years, has had to resort to makeshift classrooms and class sizes "beyond what good practice dictates."

Shugart said the Federal Government owns more than 50,000 acres of land in the county and he recommended that the Government pay the cost of educating children whose parents live on these tax-free lands.

Charles W. Willis, superintendent of schools in Harford County, testified classes there are meeting in garages, churches, basement rooms, offices and abandoned dormitories. The school budget has increased 250 percent from $240,500 in 1940 to $840,000 now. Influx of military personnel and civilian workers with their families at Edgewood Arsenal and Aberdeen Proving Grounds has overtaxed the schools, he said. The Government owns a sixth of county property including valuable Chesapeake Bay waterfront lands, it was brought out.

David S. Jenkins, Anne Arundel superintendent, said the county is spending more than $58,000 a year to educate 416 children living on nontaxable Federal land. The county takes in the Naval Academy and Fort Meade. Jenkins said the Federal Government should pay for the schooling of these children and suggested that an additional 10 percent be added to help pay for new school construction.

Jacobs Calls For Limit on Union Power

Representative Andrew Jacobs (D., Ind.) declared last night that the bargaining power of labor unions should be limited to small local groups which could deal with specific problems.

Congressman Jacobs took this stand in a five-man panel debating at a meeting of the District Young Democratic Club at the United Nations Club, 1710 19th st. nw.

Others in the panel were Tony Alfino and Edward A. McCabe of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Thomas Harris of the CIO-PAC and Peter Henle of the American Federation of Labor. Prof. Francis E. Jones, jr., of National University Law School, was moderator.

Around 300 persons attended.

Auto Hurts 11 Students At Howard

Accident Reveals School's Protest Charging Failure To Install Lights

Eleven Howard University students were struck down and injured by an automobile last night, police said, as they were parading on 4th st. nw., adjacent to the university campus, during a football rally. None was injured seriously.

Lewis Garrett, 26, of 1229 1st st. nw., driver of the auto, was arrested and charged with failure to give full attention to driving, disregarding an officer's signal, and failure to wear proper glasses. Bond was set at $500.

The accident brought out that Dr. Mordecai Johnson president of Howard University, protested two weeks ago that the District government had failed to keep an agreement with the university to install traffic lights in the area where the accident occurred.

Injured Are Listed

The accident, officers said, was between Howard pl. and College pl. The car plowed into the paraders, they reported, at a speed the driver said was between 20 and 25 miles an hour.

Joseph Bryant, 23, of 1421 12th st. nw., was admitted to Freedmen's Hospital with head injuries. Ten others were treated for cuts and bruises and released.

They were: Margaret Sharpe, 18, Howard University dormitory; Katherine McClure, 17, Howard; Morris Butler, 21, 2407 S. 2d st., Arlington; Karl Henry, 753 Columbia rd. nw.; Earl Anthony, 22, Howard; Robert Hopkins, 23, of 627 Fairmont st. nw.; Reginald McKenzie, 18, Howard; Cynthia Garvin, 17, Howard; Esther Cook, 21, Howard, and William Hughes, 20, Howard.

Detective Harold Gipe, who placed the charges against Garrett, said the driver told him his regular glasses were being repaired. Gipe said a traffic officer was rerouting vehicles on 4th st. during the rally, but Garrett's car passed him and plowed into the students.

Dr. Johnson's protest letter, dated September 30, was addressed to Brig. Gen. Gordon Young, Engineer Commissioner. It said that in 1946, Howard University transferred property to the District for widening of 4th st. nw., and in return, the city agreed to install traffic lights at the east entrance to the campus and also at 4th and Bryant sts., and to consider one at 4th and College pl.

The street has been widened, but no controls have been placed, the letter said.

"We find," Dr. Johnson wrote, "that neither the Highway Department nor the Traffic Bureau has received orders or information on the installation. Howard University students are, therefore, now being subjected to life hazards which were not contemplated when the agreement was made and when, in good faith, Howard promptly discharged its part of the agreement."

Dr. Johnson pointed out that division of the campus meant that students have to walk across 4th st. and that "injury and accidental death are real possibilities every day."

2 Held for Jury In Arlington for Housebreaking

Two Washington men were ordered held for the grand jury yesterday in Arlington County Court when they pleaded guilty to charges of breaking into a Safeway store at Kenmore and Wilson blvd., Arlington, last Tuesday.

They are Chester Lee Turner, 18, of 2403 Pennsylvania ave. nw. and Edward F. Howard, 26, of 2211 H st. nw.

A third defendant in the same case, James R. Kelly, 25, of 819 5th st. nw., also is being held for the grand jury. Charges of participating in three other housebreakings were dropped against Kelly and an 18-year-old Washington girl, Margaret Caton, of 805 1st st. nw.

Kindler Estate Value Placed At $180,000

Dr. Hans Kindler, former conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra, left an estate of more than $180,000, probate papers filed yesterday in District Court disclosed.

Not included in the probate petition were a house he owned in Senlis, France, bonds, a joint bank account, and insurance policies payable to his survivors.

Dr. Kindler died August 30 at his summer home in Rhode Island.

His will filed last month in the court asked forgiveness for his sins, "humbly recommended" his soul to the god of music and divided the bulk of his estate among his family.

It includes his widow, Mrs. Persis Fyers Kindler; two sons, Don and Jan, both of Jessups, Md.; a daughter, Mrs. Helen Behrens of Paris, France, and two grandchildren.

The probate petitionists stocks and bonds valued at $157,500, a library and musical instruments valued at $8000 and cash.

Debts were listed at $10,000.

A codicil to the will executed nine days before Dr. Kindler's death, canceled a $20,000 bequest to his former wife, Mrs. Alice Riddle Kindler. According to the codicil, she receives jointly held property and the income from an endowment policy.

Over $750,000 Value Set on Upson Estate

Dennis A. Upson, 88, at one time a well known marksman, left an estate of more than $750,000, according to probate papers filed yesterday in District Court.

He had lived here since 1914, and died October 6 at his home, 2401 S st. nw.

The will provides for the care of a daughter, Miss Elizabeth H. Upson. According to the petition, she has been adjudged of unsound mind, and is now at Sheppard & Enoch Pratt Hospital, Towson, Md.

After Miss Upsons death, a trust arangement is decreed with the income from the bulk of the estate going to Associated Charities, University Hospitals, Charity Hospital, St. Luke's Hospital, Huron Road Hospital, and St. Alexis Hospital, all of Cleveland, Ohio.

Bequests ranging from $500 to $5000 are made to servants and friends.

At the turn of the century, he was renowned for his marksmanship in shooting both live and clay pigeons.

A native of Unionville, Conn., Mr. Upson helped operate a nut and bolt factory founded by his father, which later was moved to Cleveland.

Fall Proves Fatal to Butcher

Quinon W. Waters, 38, a butcher, died last night at Gallinger Hospital from a fractured skull suffered in a fall Thursday night from the second story window of his apartment at 1308 Massachusetts ave nw.

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald is investigating the case.

City Workers' Chest Drive Is Launched

District Government field workers for the Community Chest drive yesterday set out to collect $105,000 from 18,000 city employes after a pep talk from Chest officials.

About 200 workers were briefed on their job at a kick-off meeting in the District Building board room addressed by Secretary of Labor Tobin, head of the Government division of the campaign; Frank J. Luchs, general chairman of the campaign, and William Gilks, manager of the Government unit of the Chest.

"Touch Hearts a Little Bit"

"Whatever is given should come from the heart," Tobin told the group, "but you can touch their hearts a little bit." He observed that many District residents come from other parts of the country, have no family here, and can turn only to Chest agencies when in distress.

Luchs pointed out the campaign's goal, $3,991,000, is $550,000 more than was raised last year, even though actual needs are $4,355,000. "We felt we should set an attainable goal," he said.

Failure of Chest drives to meet quotas in previous years, Luchs said, has meant that buildings went without needed repairs and agencies were forced to draw on "modest endowments."

Yardstick Agreed On

A suggested yardstick for giving agreed on by the Community Chest Federation, Luchs reminded workers, is one day's take-home pay for persons earning up to $5000 and 1 percent of gross income for those in higher brackets.

Gilks told workers to stress installment pledges and explained that persons may designate to which of the 102 Chest agencies they want their money to go.

First report meeting will be November 2, Gilks said.

4 More Cases Of Polio Raise Total to 203

Four more polio cases were reported yesterday, two in the District and two in Montgomery County, bringing to 203 the total number of area cases reported this year.

New cases in the District were those of a one-year-old boy of the 1100 block of South Carolina ave., se., who was admitted to Gallinger Hospital Wednesday; and a nine-year-old girl of the 1800 block of Wisconsin ave., who was taken to Children's Hospital Tuesday.

Those from Montgomery County include a 13-year-old girl of the 8400 block of Linwood pl., Chevy Chase, who was admitted to Children's Hospital October 8; and a 30-year-old woman of the 660 block of Hillandale rd., Chevy Chase.

There follows a breakdown of polio cases reported this year:

District, 89.
Prince Georges County, 46.
Montgomery County, 28.
Arlington County, 16.
Fairfax County, 16.
Alexandria, 8.

2 Policemen Fined for Drunkenness

Two Metropolitan policemen pleaded guilty before a departmental trial board yesterday to charges they were under influence of alcohol while on duty, and were fined.

One was Pvt. Joseph E. Slattery, 30, a motorcycle officer attached to the traffic division. He was suspended Sunday morning by Lieut. Charles T. Williams of the Seventh Precinct when he arrived there to report off duty. He was fined $100.

Pvt. Ralph W. Harper, 26, of the Twelfth Precinct, was suspended by Lieut. George E. Cooper when he reported off duty, Tuesday. He was fined $75.

Two charges against Pvt. George M. Nelson of the Seventh Precinct were taken under advisement by the board.

One, to which he pleaded not guilty, was conduct prejudicial to good order of the department. Testimony showed Nelson, on August 27, while off duty, became involved in a discussion with two motorists who had an accident at 12th st., and Maine ave. When Pvts. William Pacini and William J. Noonan of the 4th precinct arrived in response to the call, they placed Nelson in their scout car, they testified. In the process, a car window was broken. When Nelson subsequently identified himself as an officer, they released him but reported the case.

Nelson pleaded guilty to a charge of failing on September 22, to communicate with his station through a patrol box system.

D. C. Tightens 'No-License' Driver Rules

A new police department order to tighten up on cases of persons arrested for driving without District permits or after permit revocation was issued yesterday to all policemen.

It was intended to plug a loophole in previous enforcement procedure, officers said, whereby persons picked up for driving without a permit sometimes hastened to obtain one before the Board of Revocation and Restoration of operators permits could act.

Under the new procedure ordered yesterday, a policeman must notify the board immediately of such arrests.

In addition, new reporting forms have been provided so that a permanent, written record of the arrest will be on file as soon as possible both in the precinct where the arrest was made, and with the Board of Revocation and Restoration.

The order also directs care in ened up on procedure by policemen in serving orders of suspension or revocation on individual motorists. Officers are directed to obtain, wherever possible, a signed receipt from the individual for the suspension or revocation order.

"In all instances," the order said, "the officer will carefully observe persons upon whom service is made, particularly those who refuse to sign such forms, so that he will be able to identify those persons at a later time if necessary."

The order also special care in tracing and locating persons for whom suspension or revocation orders are issued. The order was signed by Inspector Floyd A. Truscott, assistant superintendent of police, for Maj. Robert J. Barrett, superintendent.

Star's Meningitis Attack Cancels Episcopal Game

The St. Paul's of Baltimore-Episcopal High football game scheduled for this afternoon at Alexandria, has been canceled because Episcopal's star quarterback, Fred Boxley, suffered an attack of spinal meningitis early this week.

Boxley is confined to the Episcopal infirmary, and was feeling better last night. However, as a precaution against spreading of the illness, it was decided to call off today's game.

Fred's home town is Roanoke, Va. His brother, Buck, is tackle and cocaptain of the team.

Back Pay Bill Signed; Checks Due On Tuesday

House Approves Sum to Construct Census Building In Suitland, Md.

President Truman gave 18,000 District employes a long-awaited back pay raise yesterday by signing the first supplemental appropriations bill.

District officials said pay checks probably will be ready Tuesday. The payment represents a retroactive $330 salary boost for the fiscal year that started July, 1948.

To cover the cost of the payment, the money bill carries more than four million dollars in District funds.

Other Funds Granted

It granted also three million dollars for the National Capital Sesquicentennial celebration here next year; $100,000 for the District Child Day-Care Center program to run through next June 30; $225,000 for improvements to the Ball Vocational School, and other District funds.

Earlier, the House voted $3,500,000 to build a new Census Office building in Suitland, Md. It approved $50,000 for the Commission on Renovation of the Executive Mansion.

These amounts were included in a second supplemental appropriation bill, which passed the House by a voice vote and went on to the Senate.

Before the House received the bill, its Appropriation Committee refused a request for $175,000 for a new swimming pool in Fort Stanton Park in Southeast Washington.

Finds No Authority

The swimming pool funds had been requested by the National Park Service. The committee said there was no authorization in law for the money.

Unless such authority is on the books, the committee said existing law "expressly prohibits the construction or erection of facilities of this nature in the District. Furthermore, it would appear that any such recreational facilities should be financed by the District." The proposed fund would have come from the Federal Treasury.

In recommending the new Census Building, the Appropriations Committee reported it would provide space for 5500 employes. The new building was recommended as a substitute for a Census Bureau proposal to move the 5500 into quarters now used by the Veterans' Administration in Philadelphia.

The Philadelphia plan would have cost more than $1,500,000, the committee said, while the new building will last 40 years and pay for itself in 10.

"The building will meet the needs of the Census Bureau for approximately an 18-month period (during processing of the 1950 census)," the committee said. "Then it will be available for subsequent office use or storage purposes."

Before the money bill cleared the House, Representative Keefe (R., Wis.) proposd it be sent back to the committee, but his motion was turned down by a 68-27 standing vote.

Watson, Guard At Postoffice, Kills Himself

James S. Watson, 63, a guard at the City Postoffice here, ended his life with a shotgun Thursday, while visiting in Webbville, Ky., the Associated Press reported yesterday.

Watson and his wife, Ruby of 1610 D st. ne., were visiting a daughter, Mrs. U. G. Pennington. Lawrence County Coroner Henry S. Young said that Watson held the shotgun against his temple and tripped the trigger with his foot.

He had been on sick leave from the Postoffice since last July, a spokesman there said. He had worked for the Postoffice since transferring from National Park Service March 1, 1938.

Also surviving are another daughter and five sons.

Plans for School and Convent Announced

ALREADY UNDER WAY—Plans for the new school, parish hall and convent at Mount Calvary Catholic Church, 7520 Marlboro pike, Forestville, Md., were announced in detail yesterday by the Rev. Peter R. Rakowski, pastor. Construction was started in August. The school will have eight bright classrooms, principal's office, student health center. At rear will be a large playground. Built on two levels, the parish hall includes a lower hall with kitchen facilities and an upper hall to be used as an auditorium, later as a gymnasium seating 600. Until a new church is built, religious services will held in the auditorium. The convent will contain rooms for 12 sisters, a chapel, community room, dining room, kitchen and two parlors. Exteriors will be sand-faced, red Carolina brick, with limestone trim. August, 1950, is the expected completion date

Party Heads Assail Virginia Vote Plan

Proposed suffrage amendments to the Virginia constitution yesterday drew strong objections from the Alexandria Democratic and Republican Committees.

Bernard M. Fagelson, Democratic Committee chairman, termed the proposed voting law changes and the plan for nonpartisan city council elections "joker amendments." Both issues will be voted on in the general elections November 8.

Nathan J. Paulson, Republican Committee chairman, found the suffrage amendments objectionable on the same grounds as the Democrats. He discerned "an attempt by the Virginia machine to keep its tight grip on the voters."

The amendments would abolish the $1.50 poll tax and introduce other changes in Virginia election law. They would set up annual voter registration, close registration books 120 days before an election, and, at the discretion of the General Assembly, permit levy of a yearly school tax. The assembly also could prescribe literacy tests.

Fagelson said the proposals "threaten to impose even greater restrictions on voting in Virginia," and "gives the Legislature unlimited authority to alter voting requirements at will."

The Alexandria Republican Committee favors nonpartisan elections on a local basis, Paulson said.

End of Search

Mason Boy's Burial Today In Colesville

Little 6-year-old Otis T. Mason, whose body was found in a Montgomery County stream Thursday after a two-day search, will be laid to rest in a plot in the cemetery of Andrews Methodist Chapel, Colesville, today.

Funeral services will conducted by the family pastor, the Rev. Paul H. Groseclose, the chapel's minister, at the Deal Funeral Home, 4812 Georgia ave. nw. at 2 p.m. The family have attended the chapel since moving to Montgomery County last year.

A cordon of the same Montgomery County police who searched diligently for the boy from dusk Tuesday until Thursday afternoon will escort the funeral procession from the District Line to the cemetery. Four schoolboys, friends of the younger sister, will act as pallbearers.

The child's father, Le Roy W. Mason, a plumbing and heating contractor who more than a year ago bought the spacious new home, Paint Branch Farms, near Colesville, said yesterday: "We are very fond of this home," he said, "and we will not leave despite the great sadness which befell us here."

Living with their parents at the four-acre estate are six other children: Le Roy, jr., 23; William B., 21; Barbara, 18; Hannah, 14; Marabel, 11, and Roger, 4.

Mason said he did not think much could be done to eliminate the dangers of the several deep pools in the rippling stream which claimed his son. He said cattle often use them as drinking spots and to dry them up would probably necessitate blocking off the entire stream.

Several of his neighbors had agreed with him a short time ago that the wide artificial pool behind the Colesville School should be fenced in or drained to remove the danger of a child falling in, he said.

"But that pool's gone now," he said, "and isn't dangerous any more."

The pool was drained Wednesday by the Bethesda-Chevy Chase Rescue Squad in a fruitless search for the blond-haired boy.

Pro's Wife Leaves Government to Catch Up on Golf

Mrs. George Diffenbaugh, wife of the Kenwood Country Club golf professional, plans to stop being a "shoemaker's daughter" about her golf game, beginning Monday.

She is retiring after 32 years' service with the Government and hopes to "be able to play down to my handicap of 16" with the available spare time.

Mrs. Diffenbaugh began working for the Government in the Office of the Quartermaster General. In 1922 she became a stenographer in the Office of the Chief of Finance. She was appointed administrative assistant in the Civilian Personnel branch of that office in 1942, a job she has held since. Her retirement becomes effective November 4, after a three-week leave.

The Diffenbaughs live at 7611 Georgia ave. nw.

Bill Approved For New Lights, Heat on 'Hill'

The House yesterday approved and sent to the Senate a bill to authorize a 16-million-dollar modernization of the heating, lighting, and air conditioning systems for Capitol Hill buildings.

Electricity would be changed from 25 cycle direct current generated at the Capitol Power Plant to 60 cycle alternating current bought from PEPCO.

Heating facilities would be modernized, air conditioning facilities expanded, and a new tunnel built for the steam and water pipes.

AVC Honors Herblock as Exhibit Opens

"Anybody can do it."

That was the comment of Herbert Block, known as Herblock on the editorial page of The Washington Post, to one of about 500 visitors who extended a well-wishing hand to the cartoonist yesterday at the American Veterans Committee clubhouse, 1751 New Hampshire ave. nw.

Herblock wasn't talking about his editorial cartoons, worth a Pulitzer Prize and a batch of other awards. He referred to his fortieth birthday, which the AVC celebrated with a reception opening its annual exhibition of art and culture.

Besides the surprise birthday party, the reception featured an exhibit of 25 Herblock originals as a preview to a display at the Corcoran Art Gallery January 12.

Among a number of newspapermen and Government officials on hand for the affair was Clifford Berryman, veteran editorial cartoonist of the Evening Star, who pointed to a Herblock drawing and remarked:

"Why, Herb, that's a good likeness of him!"

1949 Cat Show To Be Today And Sunday

Washington's 1949 Cat Show will open today at 10 a. m. at the Odd Fellows Temple, 419 Seventh st. nw., with 164 cats and kittens entered from all over the country, Mrs. Louise Heron, show manager, announced yesterday.

This year's show will be in two parts: An all-breed show, judged by Mrs. Margerite Saxby-Mabie, of Sharon, Mass., and, concurrently, a solid-color specialty show, judged by Mrs. J. M. Revington of Bristol, Tenn.

The show will be for two days only—today and Sunday—from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. After being judged, the kittens will be taken out of the show by exhibitors, but all other entries will be benched for the entire show.

6 Plead Innocent Of Gambling Charges

Six persons, indicted last May by the Prince Georges County grand jury on gambling charges, pleaded innocent yesterday in Circuit Court at Upper Marlboro.

Judge Charles C. Marbury set no date for the trial.

J. W. Fahrney Dies; Judge In Frederick

Frederick, Md., Oct. 14 (AP).—Judge J. Welty Fahrney, a leader of Republican politics in Frederick County for many years, died last night. He was 75.

Judge Fahrney had been on the county Orphan's Court bench since 1942. He suffered a heart attack yesterday morning. Death came in the Frederick Memorial Hospital, of which he was the last member of the original board.

The judge was a native of Keedysville, Washington County. He moved here many years ago. He took an active part in the affairs of the Frederick Evangelical and Reformed Church.

Judge Fahrney is survived by his widow, three sons and a sister, Miss Lora Fahrney of Hagerstown.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon.

Rule Bill Petition Signed by 30 in House; 218 Needed

Sponsors of the Washington home rule bill yesterday reported some 30 House members had signed the petition to bring it to a decision in the House.

The petition, filed by Representative John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.) would take the Senate-approved bill out of the District Committee and present it to the House, if it is signed by 218 members.

The District Committee tabled the measure in August.

Firemen Will Work With Sesqui Planners

Fire Chief Joseph A. Mayhew yesterday named a five-man committee to work with the Sesquicentennial Commission in arranging for adequate fire protection at celebration activities.

Battalion Chief Fred Litteral will be committee chairman and will be assisted by Battalion Chief Nelson E. Bowen, Capt. A. J. Patrick, Lieut. Charles Laschalt and J. Vincent Marean. The group will recommend location of necessary fire stations, alarm boxes and hydrants.

Deaths Reported

The following deaths were reported yesterday by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the District Health Department. (Figure in parentheses is date of death):

S. A. Tucker, D. C. Reporter, Dead at 55

Samuel A. Tucker, 55, Washington correspondent for a number of Midwestern newspapers, died yesterday in Newton D. Baker Veterans Hospital, Martinsburg, W. Va., after a lengthy illness.

At the bedside were two sons, John, a student at the University of Illinois, and Samuel (Jed), jr.

Mr. Tucker represented the Decatur Herald and Review, the East St. Louis Journal, Kewanee Star Courier, Waukegan News-Sun, Carbondale Free Press, Murphysboro Independent, Herrin Daily Journal, all in Illinois, and the Cedar Rapids Gazette and Davenport Daily Times in Iowa.

Before coming to Washington he worked in Decatur and Springfield, Ill., and in other cities. In the early 1930s he was closely associated with former Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois.

Tentative plans are for burial in Arlington National Cemetery, probably on Monday.

Women Voters In Montgomery to Have New Units

The Montgomery County League of Women Voters yesterday was called upon to organize additional league neighborhood unit groups by its president, Mrs. James V. Bennett.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Robert Hantoon, the units comprise 15 or 20 persons who meet twice a month to learn more about the league's activities and procedure. Currently, there are units in Rockville, Takoma Park, Silver Spring and Bethesda-Chevy Chase.

Holding its first fall meeting at the Rock Creek Shelter House, Chevy Chase, the league deferred action on national issues of the National League's program for 1949-1950 until next week when the board of directors will consider several resolutions.

85 Parking Spaces Reserved at Center

The action was taken on recommendation of a parking space committee headed by Francis L. Timmons, chief clerk in the Engineer's Department.

The remainder of the 450 car spaces available in the area bounded by Indiana ave., 6th and C sts. nw. will be offered for lease shortly.

Mme. Somary Funeral Rites Set Monday

Funeral services for Mme. May Somary, 49, wife of the internationally known financier, Dr. Felix Somary, who died Wednesday after suffering a heart attack at her suite at the Shoreham Hotel, will be held Monday at 10 a. m. in St. Thomas the Apostle Church, 27th st. and Woodley rd. nw. Burial will be private.

Mme. Somary recently returned here with her children after passing the summer at her home in Zurich, Switzerland. Dr. Somary was delayed, but was en route here last night by plane.

Dr. Somary is head of the Blankart and Co. banking firm, with offices in Geneva and Zurich. He came to Washington in 1939 to represent the Swiss government in a trade treaty with the United States, and took charge of the economic negotiations between the two countries the next year.

Mme. Somary was born Countess Demblin in Austria, but spent most of her life in Switzerland. She married Dr. Somary 19 years ago. She had maintained a suite at the Shoreham since coming here in 1940.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Maria Theresa Somary, who is in college in New York, and two sons, Hannes F. Somary, a student at St. Albans' School for Boys, and Wolfgang F. Somary, a student at Sidwell Friends School.

Lucyle Green, Culpeper, Va., Editor Dies

Culpeper, Va., Oct. 14.—Mrs. Lucyle Dove Green, 75, owner and publisher of the Culpeper Exponent since her husband's death three years ago, died at her home early this morning after an illness of two months.

A native of Rappahannock County, Mrs. Green moved to Culpeper at an early age. Her husband, Raleigh T. Green, took over publication of the Exponent in 1897, 16 years after its founding by his brother, James W. Green.

Mrs. Green was known to readers for many years through her column in the paper, written under the pen name of "Dorcas."

The newspaper will continue to be published by the family, with Mrs. Anne Green Strother, a daughter of Mrs. Green, as editor, and John Buckner Green, a son, as business manager.

Mrs. Green is also survived by two sons in Washington, Raleigh Travers Green, a member of the Times-Herald staff, and George Mason Green, of 1503 N. Fillmore st., Arlington, a newspaperman for 10 years and now a realtor.

She leaves another daughter, Mrs. Stanley R. Rowland, of Falls Church, and five grandchildren. A granddaughter, Lucyle Dove Humphries, a student at Longwood College, was crowned "Queen Culpeper" in the recent bicentenniel celebration here.

UNDERSECRETARY of State James Edwin Webb congratulates the four women members of yesterday's graduating class of the Foreign Service Institute of the State Department on their world-wide assignments. Mrs. Corey Sanderson (left) will go to Bombay. Miss Patricia Byrne (second from left) is headed for Athens. Miss Lucille McHenry goes to London and Miss Louise Kirby (next to the Undersecretary) is asigned to Antwerp

Following Arduous Tests

4 Women Named to Foreign Posts

By Sonia Stein

THE 17-hour written examination they took to qualify for the State Department's Foreign Service Institute was "primarily on everything, general and specific" according to one of yesterday's women graduates.

But she, and the three other girls in the class of 26 who were commissioned in the Foreign Service yesterday afternoon in the State Department Auditorium, think their new assignments are worth all the trouble.

The four who made history by being the largest contingent of women ever commissioned at the same time, will be scattered to exciting places.

Mrs. Corey Sanderson who delivered yesterday's valedictory address, is going to Bombay where her 6-year-old son is sure he will ride an elephant to school every day.

Miss Louise Kirby, Miss Patricia Byrne and Miss Lucille McHenry go respectively to Antwerp, Athens and London.

The feminine foreign service officers and their 22 male colleagues were all over 21 and under 31 two years ago when they took the grueling written exam. The 20-minute-to-2-hour oral exam came later.

And still later, they found out they were eligible for the service and that there were openings in the school where they studied for the past 14 weeks such subjects as consular practices, cultural anthropology and government.

In languages, they are reasonably proficient. Most of them know snatches of several languages and might be said to be "fluent in one combined" as Miss Byrne says.

The girls (who must resign if they marry) will get $4000 a year plus allowances depending on the cost of living at their post. Naturally, they are all immersed in shopping for their two year assignments, as well as writing a paper "in dispatch form" on the country to which they've been assigned.

The class received its commissions from Undersecretary of State James Edwin Webb, who counselled the new foreign service officers to "Just listen and use your own good judgment." He told them about the "good backstopping" they'd get from other members of the Department and advised them to learn patience for those problems they couldn't meet because "there just isn't a solution for every problem that exists in the world today."

Others participating in the exercises included former Ambassador Joseph Grew who is on the advisory committee; Dr. William P. Maddox, director of the Foreign Service Institute; Robert F. Hale, supervisor of this class, and Richard P. Butrick, director general of the Foreign Service.

Consumers, Grocers, Trade Ideas in Clinic

By Lucia Brown

THE grocery store eat . . . the long waiting line at the cash register . . . inconveniently made packages . . .

These are three things customers want eliminated from the grocery store scene, according to Dr. Ruth W. Ayers of New York, managing director of the National Consumer-Retailer Council.

Dr. Ayers was in Washington yesterday to speak for the consumer at the annual meeting of the National Association of Food Chains at Hotel Statler. She had a whole kit bag full of housewives' ideas for improving food store service, gleaned from "consumer-retailer clinics" held in various cities over the country. Her council is extremely interested in these clinics, organized on a local basis, believes they can do much to help both the buyer and seller of groceries and create better understanding between the two.

Though a good majority of the women said "nix" to the grocer's feline friends, they were even more emphatic about the bottleneck at the check-out counter, says Dr. Ayers. Their views—expressed at the first "clinic" at Wilkes-Barre a year ago and in subsequent meetings—has given impetus to various improvements. Sliding or revolving counters to speed groceries along to the cash register are among them.

As to packaging, one thing consumers didn't particularly approve was the jelly glass with nipped-in top, making it hard to slide out the jelly unbroken. Another was boxes you can't get your hand into and spoon easily for measuring purposes. Packages that are hard to fit on cabinet shelves came in for a bit of criticism, too.

Consumer-retailer clinics, Dr. Ayers explained, are attended by local grocers, representatives of civic organizations and school groups, housewives, and others in the community. Consumers tell the grocer what they'd like. He tells them whether it's practical and if not, why not.

By Tom Kelley—The Washington Post

THERE'S less waste from handling when lettuce, carrots and other vegetables come wrapped in cellophane, points out Dr. Ruth W. Ayers, consumer expert who spoke at the National Association of Food Chains meeting yesterday. Costs are thus cut, and the produce is fresher and more sanitary, too

Fight Reds With U. S. Gospel, Pearl Buck Urges

By Genevieve Reynolds

BOMBS and militarism alone will not win the battle against communism. It has spread too widely to be stamped out by mere force. Our best method of counteracting communism is to permeate the world with American thinking and feeling.

These were the observations of Pearl Buck, author of "The Good Earth" and other novels depicting Chinese life, in a speech last night at the opening meeting of the Washington Chapter, East-West Association, at the China Doll.

"America has a great potential influence in the world because of what its liberties, freedom and spirit stand for," Miss Buck explained. "But this potentiality is not being utilized."

'Set Fire to Hearts'

TO ACCOMPLISH this she believes that we must "set fire to people's hearts" to have the same type of country as the United States.

"If we could persuade other peoples that our civilization would give them independence, freedom, happiness and comfort," she said, "then they would start dreaming of creating a like civilization."

Miss Buck asserted that the United States must show other peoples how they can have freedom and independence in their own countries. This can be done, she believes, by scattering carefully selected Americans throughout the world. Those selected should be carefully trained to "win friends and influence people."

The author said that Americans should live and work in other countries, "not as rulers but fitting in wherever they are."

"This would be the cleverest and most subtle form of selling American spirit and feeling to the world and undermining communism," she added.

Throughout her talk, Miss Buck emphasized that personal contact is the only way of spreading the true spirit of this Nation.

Mme. Lagarde Honored

BARRISTERS, judges, educators and women of the professions turned out last night to meet Mme. Charlotte Bequignon Lagarde, first and only woman member of the French Supreme Court (Cour de Cassation). The Washington branch joined with its mother organization—the American Association of University Women—to honor the visiting jurist. Scene of the gala reception was the AAUW clubhouse, 1634 I st. nw.

Receiving with Mme. Lagarde were Dr. Kathryn McHale, national director of the AAUW; Mrs. A. J. Brumbaugh, president of the Washington branch, AAUW, and Judge Lucy Howorth, member of the national AAUW board.

From Capitol Hill came Senator Warren G. Magnuson and Representative Katharine St. George.

Among the large representation from local judicial and legal circles were the Solicitor General, Philip Perlman; Judge and Mrs. Matthew F. McGuire, Judge Alexander Holtzoff, Judge and Mrs. David A. Pine, Judge and Mrs. Edward A. Tamm, Judge Ellen Raedy, Judge Edith Cockrill, Judge Nadine Gallagher, Mrs. Grace Stewart, executive assistant to the U. S. District Attorney; the president of the D. C. Federal Bar Association James E. Palmer and Mrs. Palmer.

Still others were Mrs. Olive G. Faircloth, president, D. C. Women's Bar Association, and Miss Frieda Miller, chief of the Women's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor.

1812 Daughters Pick Capital

WASHINGTON will be the scene of the 1950 conclave of the National Society, United States Daughters of 1812. It will be the Associate Council's fifty-eighth gathering. Headquarters will be the Shoreham Hotel, according to a decision made yesterday at the Daughters' national board of directors' meeting held at 1461 Rhode Island ave. nw.

Several gifts were received and acknowledged during the board meeting. Among them were a gold French antique clock presented by Mrs. John Harsah and Mrs. William C. Johnson, and a silver vase presented by the Officer's National Club in honor of their founder and first president, Mrs. Robert J. Johnston.

Mrs. Charles Henry Plotner presented a genealogical book, "A List of Organization in the War of 1812," which was compiled by the late Frank J. Metcalf of the National Archives.

Plans were formulated to limit the president's term of office to six years. In addition it was ruled that a chapter president could not serve as a national officer simultaneously. Final decision on the proposals will be made at the convention, April, 1950. At that time action also will be taken on national defense and world governments.

Mrs. Fdererick Brewster Ingram came from her home in Dallas, Tex., to preside at the directors' meeting

By Marie McNair

PANDIT NEHRU, Prime Minister of India, in fitted black tunic and white puttees, moved with an Oriental grace through the wide rooms at the Indian Embassy yesterday.

With President and Mrs. Truman as guests at the last of official parties for the great Indian leader, a receiving line was an impossibility. Instead, the President and First Lady greeted friends in the big drawing room, and Mme. Pandit, Indian Ambassador, took Pandit Nehru, her brother, to the foyer, to take up a stand as guests streamed by.

But it wasn't for long. The Prime Minister would have no such formalities. He was found time after time surounded by eager-eared groups, as he moved through the assemblage.

Colorful Group

This was a colorful party, the ladies of the embassy staff in magnificent saris, contributing pictorially to the scene, the men—only a few—in bright twisted turbans, adding extra accent of color.

Mme. Pandit's soft gray hair was matched to her sari which was bordered in silver. Mrs. Indira Ghandi, Prime Minister Nehru's daughter, wore a graceful striped sari in shades of green.

And in contrast, Mrs. Truman topped her black frock with a hip-length mink cape, had fastened a halo of tiny black flowers to her closely bound coiffure. Traffic was slowed for blocks as an almost imperceptible drizzle fell in the streets. Policemen and the Secret Service were stationed every few feet, directing the flow of cars up the hill, and keeping an eye on the crowd. The broad terrace which takes in the entire side of the big embassy had been roofed with canvas for the convenience of the guests. A buffet table had been drawing room, a third in th dining room. On all were pitchers of fruit set up outside, another in the juice only—for liquor is prohibited in India.

Officials turned out by the dozens to do honor to the hope of India's millions.

Round and about I heard the questions, "Is the Soviet Ambassador here," and "Where is Dean Acheson?" Both gentlemen were absent as far as I could tell.

But the Secretary of the Treasury, John W. Snyder, and Mrs. Snyder in a new silver blue mink cape, were there, and the British Ambassador, Sir Oliver Franks, and Lady Franks, who stopped to chat with Mrs. Truman.

The dean of the Diplomatic Corps — Norwegian Ambassador Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstierne, with Mme Morgenstierne, made the circuit. So did Chile's Ambassador, Felix Nieto del Rio, the Nicaraguan Ambassador, Guillermo Sevilla-Sacasa, and the Philippine Ambassador, Joaquin Elizalde.

Services Represented

The Army and the Navy and the Air Force put up a good front with Gen. and Mrs. Wade Haislip, Gen. and Mrs. Lauris Norstad, Deputy Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral William M. Fechteler, and Mrs. Fechteler, and the Exeutive Secretary of the Office of the Secretary of Defense, Gen. Leven Allen and Mrs. Allen.

Senator Theodore Green made his way cautiously through the throng; the Ecuador Ambassador and Senora de Dillon, and Representative and Mrs. John Vorys were enjoying this pleasant party and I spotted Drew Dudley of the International Bank with India's newest member of the bank—B. K. Nehru, a cousin of the Prime Minister.

Supper Club Dance

THE FIRST of a series of Friday evening supper club dances was held last night at the Sulgrave Club with Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Buchanan and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Guy among those entertaining at dinner beforehand.

Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan's guests included Mr. and Mrs. Francis Almirall, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hight, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Huidekóper, Mr. and Mrs. McCullough Darlington, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Orme and Dr. and Mrs. Floyd Rogers.

Mrs. Simmons Feted

Mrs. John George Simmons, who is here for a visit to her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Clark, was entertained at dinner last evening by Miss Katherine Judge.

Mrs. Simmons, who now makes her home in Miami Beach, will leave today for New York to spend a fortnight before returning to Florida. Capt. and Mrs. John P. Jackson gave a cocktail party Thursday in honor of Mrs. Simmons.

Octogenarian Honored

Mrs. Harriet Heyl of Marshall, Va., near Warrenton, celebrated her eighty-third birthday on Saturday, October 8. Her daughter, Mrs. De Witt Lievsay of Washington gave a luncheon party in her honor, to which her many friends were invited. The luncheon was buffet, served on the lawn of Mrs. Heyl's country house.

Octogenarian friends of the honoree included Mrs. Howard Hulfish, Mrs. Joseph Lawler, Mrs. Harvey Payne and Willy Moffett.

Gimpel Heard at Embassy

Guests at the Polish Embassy last evening were treated to a program of Chopin music, by the noted pianist, Jakob Gimpel. The concert and reception were given by the Polish Ambassador and Mme. Winiewicz in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the death of the famous composer.

Guests were received in the drawing room by the Ambassador and Mme. Winiewicz at 8:30 p. m. The hostess wore a black chiffon gown, and her only jewelry was a pendant bearing a dove of peace motif.

Among those who attended were the Norwegian Ambassador Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstierne; the French Ambassador and Mme. Bonnet; the Mexican Ambassador and Senora de la Colina; the Ambassador of Nicargua and Senora de Sevilla Sacasa; the Iranian Ambassador, Hussein Ala; the Charge d'Affaires of Bulgaria and Mme. Voutov; the Romanian Minister and Mrs. Gagheru, and the Soviet Counselor, Vladimir Bazykin, and Mrs. Bazykin.

Others were Senator Warren G. Magnuson, Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, Representative and Mrs. Schuyler Otis Bland, Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Willard Thorp, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Reinhardt, Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Evans, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. J. K. Stacy, and Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Szymczak.

Miss Douglas to Assist

Miss Jean Taft Douglas, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Paul H. Douglas of Illinois, will be guest of honor today at the Hotel Raleigh luncheon-fashion show, and she will assist Mrs. Gladstone Williams with her fashion commentary.

She is the former Miss Patricia Anne Arnold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conway Hillyer Arnold 3d. Mr. Rainey is the son of Mrs. Lizzette H. Mathews of Washington and Miami, Fla., and Charles R. Rainey of Montgomery and Cullman, Ala. Miss Carolyn Kelly, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and Bolling Byrd Flood was best man. A reception was held at the Washington Club. After a wedding trip to Florida and Cuba, the couple will live in Arlington

Bachrach

MRS. KENNETH CHIACHE SZE, whose marriage took place October 1 at St. Bartholomew's Church in New York City, is the former Miss Denise Pei. She is the daughter of the head of the Chinese Technical Mission to the United States and Mrs. Tsuyee Pei of New York. The bridegroom, a surgeon at the Glenn Dale (Md.) Sanatorium, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Philip Sze of Shanghai, China. The couple will reside in Washington

Ryon—Van Deventer

Miss Jean Graham Van Deventer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lee Van Deventer of Hamilton, Va., became the bride October 9 of Howard Melvin Ryon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Delaney Ryon of Leesburg, Va. The Rev. Henry L. Willis performed the ceremony at the Van Deventer home.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white flannel suit and carried an orchid and stephanotis. Miss Margaret Spring was her cousin's maid of honor, and Frank Delaney Ryon, jr., was best man for his brother. They will reside in Arlington.

MRS. JOHN WILLIAM HARWOOD, before her marriage October 1 at the Arlington Forest Methodist Church was Miss Genevieve Fisher, daughter of Lawrence Fisher of Superior, Nebr., and the late Mrs. Fisher. Mr. Harwood is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Harwood of Washington. Following the reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Harwood, the couple left for a Niagara Falls honeymoon.

Ackad

MRS. JAMES R. TAPSCOTT was Miss Ruth A. Miller before her marriage September 30 at Columbia Heights Christian Church. She is the daughter of Mrs. Jake Miller of Washington and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Cora D. Martin of St. Petersburg, Fla. On return from their honeymoon in Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Tapscott will live in Washington

White

MRS. JAMES DANIEL NOONAN, before her marriage October 1 at the Church of the Nativity, was Miss Juanita Ruth Marshall, daughter of Mrs. Lillie Marshall of Glenmont Forest, Silver Spring, Md. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Noonan of Takoma Park, Md. Wearing white satin and lace, the bride was given in marriage by her brother, Roy Marshall.

With the State Societies

New York Unit to Hold Agriculture Dept. Ball

By Nicha Soure

THE AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT is next on the list of Government department groups to be honored by the New York State Society.

The "Agriculture Department Night Ball" will be held 9:30 p. m., Saturday, October 22, at the Shoreham Hotel. Plans are being made to have an exhibit and moving pictures outside the ballroom prior to the dancing session which will be from 10 p. m. to 1 a. m.

The intermission program will be in charge of Harold B. Barnett, the Empire State society president.

ILLINOIS STATE SOCIETY will hold a dance tonight at the Shoreham Hotel. This dance, the first of the season, will be from 9:30 p. m. to 1 a. m.

The dances this year are being planned primarily for Illinoisians and the home-town folk. Information about the dance and the society can be obtained from Miss Mary Fox, secretary, at Republic 0265.

On the entertainment program will be Miss Martha Madison and her accordion.

WHAT WITH a Vice President and a Chief Justice to honor at receptions this season, the Kentucky Society of Washington has a full schedule of fall and winter activities.

Chief Justice Vinson and other Kentucky members of the Judiciary in Washington will be honored at the December 9 party at the Shoreham. Vice President Barkley will be guest of honor on February 24.

The first affair of the season will be held on November 11 when Grandpa Jones will be featured in a square dance party.

South Trimble, jr., is president of the Kentucky group. Paul Keen is vice president, and honorary officers include Justice Vinson, Vice President Barkley, Senator Virgil Chapman, Senator Garrett Withers, and former Senator John Sherman Cooper, now United States representative to the United Nations.

Membership applications are being accepted by Miss Laura Barron, 205 Senate Office Building, while Miss Christine Johnson, 505 House Office Building, is chairman of the membership committee.

"IS IT TRUE what they say about Dixie?"

New members of the Mississippi State Society will find out for themselves tonight when the first ball of the season gets under way in the new ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel, 9 p. m. to 1 a. m.

Musically and socially the emphasis will be on Dixie, according to the president, Holden Rhymes, who will greet the guests. Mr. Rhymes tells us that every Memphis State dance opens to the strains of "Dixie."

Mrs. John Stennis, wife of the Senator from Mississippi, is the chairman of the hospitality committee assisted by other members of the Mississippi congressional delegation and their wives.

For further information about the Society or the dance, call Miss Susan Burress, secretary, at REpublic 4085.

THE Texas State Society is planning a get-together on October 22 that will interest everyone.

Not only will there be dancing when the Society gathers at Gadsby's Tavern in Alexandria but checkers, canasta and other games as well.

General chairman for the dance will be Mrs. Walter Hornaday, Glebe 4987.

TALK about unusual parties!

The Florida State Society held an Orange Juice Party (Florida oranges, of course) yesterday in the Senate Caucus Room. The party was a farewell fete to the Florida congressional delegation.

Notes to a Teen

Off you go to that party, looking very pretty, feeling wonderful . . . in a rustling rayon taffeta frock with whirling corded skirt and rhinestone glitter buttons. Green, navy, red. Teen sizes 10-16. $8.93

W&L—Teen Age Apparel, Fourth Floor

THE STRIDE RITE SHOE

This is the shoe that takes care of growing feet . . . Stride Rite gives gentle support, holds the foot firm and straight, allows plenty of "growing room" ahead of the toes. And they are built so strongly, too . . . like this 2-buckle monk-type in brown elkskin.

8½ to 12, $5.95; 12½-3, $6.95; 4 to 9, $7.95

W&L—Children's Shoes, Second Floor

Ox-Cord Corduroy zip-jackets, slacks—"strong as an ox"

For boys of all ages . . . this is a specially warm, long-lasting, hard-wearing cotton corduroy. Washable . . . of close construction . . . made water repellent by Cravenette process. Only at our Boys' Department in Washington.

Junior Sizes, left—wool-lined zip jacket with knit bottom and wrists. Navy, brown, green, gray. Sizes 6 to 12 ..... $8.95

Junior Longies, regular or boxer, $5.95

Prep Sizes, right—wool-lined zip jacket, in the same colors. Sizes 14 to 20 ..... $8.95

Oxford Prep Slacks in navy, brown, green, gray, covert. 26-32 ..... $7.95

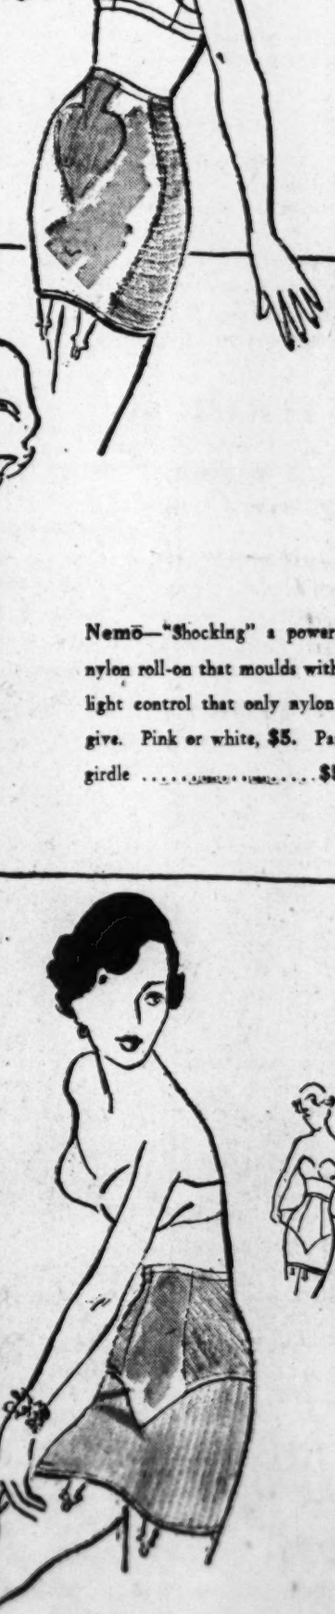
For Active-figure Control . . .

Little Roll-on Girdles

If you are always hoarding minutes . . . dashing off to town, or countryside, or classes cross-campus . . . these little girdles are for you. Easy to "roll on" with no closings at all, light of weight . . . but with plenty-plenty firm control just where you need it.

Munsingwear—"Tissuette" elastic yarn tissue-weight girdle with waistband and leg band control of non-roll elastic. Tearose or White. Sizes 25, 27, 29, 31 ..... $3.50

Pantie-girdle to match, $4



Simone—designs a spade, down-stretch satin panel for firm tummy control. Power net nylon. White, blue. Small, medium or large, $5

Nemo—"Shocking" a power net nylon roll-on that moulds with the light control that only nylon can give. Pink or white, $5. Pantie-girdle ..... $5.95

Flexnit—"Shur Set" satin front panel to hold the tummy flat, and special adjustment waistband for added control. Rayon-cotton in white or flesh. Small, medium and large ..... $3.95

Where to Buy Beer Stein Covers

Is there a firm in the Washington area which will sell and attach pewter hinged covers to beer steins? The steins were originally drilled for the purpose of attaching the tops, but were never completed. A. C.

I have not found a shop which sells and attaches new beer stein covers. It seems your best chance of getting covers is to visit shops which carry old china and glassware. Sometimes they have beer stein lids from steins which have been broken or damaged. If you can find the covers in this way, there are two firms, at least, listed under "China and Glassware—Repairing" in the yellow pages of the telephone book which can attach them for you. The same firms would make lids to order, but this would be expensive—about $7 or $8 a stein.

Do you know where I might obtain information on a recipe book for an "ulcer" victim. I have just run out of new dishes to prepare for my son. He has stomach ulcers and the doctor has prescribed the types of food, but I would like to change to some new dish for him as he is quite tired of the ones I now prepare. N. M.

There is a book "Understand Your Ulcer" written by Dr. Burrill B. Crahn (pub. Sheridan House) which is written in lay language for the patient. In the appendix of the book you will find methods for preparing all food for ulcer patients and specific recipes for making foods such as desserts, salads, and salad dressings and so forth. I'm sure you will find help with your dietary problem in this book. It can be purchased at most book stores.

Can you give me the average rate of earnings of a Washington dressmaker? Not a professional tailor, but the usual home dressmaker. How much for: Suit, separate coat, dress, slip, alterations like changing hems? E. H.

The amount charged for each item would be determined somewhat by the type of garment, the material used in it, etc.

However, here are some approximate figures given me by a woman in the trade. She said they should be considered as minimum; suit $30, separate coat $20, dress $10, slip $2.50, and hems $1.50 to $2.

We have a number of glass pepper and salts whose tops are too corroded to use. Do you know where we could buy plastic or metal replacements for the tops? M. G. C.

I'm sorry I do not know any place in the city where salt and pepper replacement tops can be purchased. If these are highly prized shakers you could probably have new ones made to order by firms listed under "platers" in the yellow pages of the telephone book which do metal repair work. This, of course, would be an expensive process.

Here's another idea, if the corrosion is not too deep on the present tops, these same firms listed under "platers" might be able to remove the corrosion and mechanically buff them to look like new.

Our waffle iron is blackened from grease, which should not have been used on it. Can you suggest how I may remove the coating of carbon without injuring the iron? M. G. C.

The only way to remove the carbon coating completely and restore the original new appearance is to have it done by a metal repair man. If you wish simply to remove loose portions of carbon and smooth the surface, you can do this by wetting a paper towel with household ammonia, laying it between the grids and then closing the iron. Leave the grids shut for several hours to give the ammonia a chance to soften the deposit and then brush the grids with a stiff brush. This will not remove the discoloration, but should remove surface carbon. It may take several treatments to complete the job.

Do you know where I can purchase a hand tool for attaching to leather and cloth the type of grippers used on gloves and small purses? And do you know where I can find such grippers? M. G. C.

By grippers for leather and cloth, do you mean snaps? If you do, you can purchase these with the tool for inserting them at a leather shop on 14th st. If you do not mean snaps, they have other types of fasteners and are certain to have the one you want. To reach the store call them at Executive 0961.

We recently moved into an apartment that has a living room painted light green with a cream ceiling and a bedroom with light green ceiling and beige walls. Would you please advise what colors should be used for slipcovers, rug, drapes and lamp shades in these rooms? E. A.

Here is a living-room color scheme which will go nicely with light green walls: A medium green tone-on-tone rug and figured slip covers in two shades of green with a corn-yellow accent and off-white background. If you have three pieces to slip cover, do two of them in the figure and the third and smallest piece in plain corn yellow. Drapes could be an interesting weave in off white, and the lamp shades pale yellow.

In the bedroom you could use beige or deep brown scatter rugs. With these use floral or striped drapes with green, brown and shell pink in the design. The bedspread could be a warm beige or brown and the lampshades and other accents shell pink.

PETUNIA!

The bill I got this morning
Would make King Midas moan.
From here on in, I make a list
Before I touch the phone!

Good idea, Petunia! Jot down the important things you want to say on a long-distance phone call, and it will prevent all that hemming and hawing that costs money!

BLUE, for a Blue Monday business ensemble. Our model is wearing (and looking quite pleased about it, too) a well tailored silver blue venetian covert topcoat with slash pockets, peak lapels . . . tops it off with a homburg, cane and mocha gloves. His suit is also blue and with it he wears a colorful panel tie. From The Young Men's Shop, the outfit is one of several which will be displayed at the fashion show Sunday, at 4 p. m., at the Home Show Exposition at the National Guard Armory.

Men to Throw Fashion Show At Armory

Not to be outdone by the women with their craze for fashion shows, the men are staging one of their own. With the help of the ladies, of course.

Male styles will be a feature of Sunday's fashion review at the Home Show Exposition at the National Guard Armory. Starting at 4 p. m., the review will be staged jointly for men and women, with fashions from the Young Men's Shop. Mrs. Alvin Ehrlich and Eddie Gallaher, of radio's Moondial fame, will be commentators.

Special attraction will be a display of complementary costumes for husband and wife, mother and daughter, and father and son. Theme of the show is "Clothes Keyed to Modern Living."

The home show, presented annually by the Home Builders Association of Washington, features hundreds of displays depicting the latest in home construction, furniture and decoration, and equipment. It closes at 10 p. m. Sunday.

One on the Aisle—

You Feel as Though You Are in Tokyo

By Richard L. Coe

THE WARNER'S "Tokyo Joe" is a goodish melodrama with a novel setting and Humphrey Bogart as the star.

Considerable care seems to have gone into processed shots of present-day Tokyo, which adds much to the atmosphere and suspense of the picture. Fine attention to interiors, furnishings and flower arrangement do the same.

The story concerns the return to Tokyo of an American who had run a gambling joint before the war and who loved the atmosphere of the city. Thus, the process shots that take actors from a Hollywood studio into contemporary Japan serve a plot as well as an atmospheric purpose.

Bogart is the Yank who comes back to find his Japanese one-time partner shy of presuming on their old friendship. More important, he finds that the White Russian wife he thought was dead is still alive. But, alas, she's divorced him and married to a top American administrator. Because his military permit allows him only 60 days in the country, Bogart ties up as a front man for a suave, inscrutable Baron Kimura, played by that oldtime favorite of Hollywood's silent days, Sessue Hayakawa.

Being a melodrama, "Tokyo Joe" now slides into those complex convolutions of plot that requires a 16-page summary of modern cinematic melodramas. Characters compete with Fate to set obstcles in Bogy's path: the wife's present husband is a smart understanding gentleman (nicely underplayed by Alexander Knox); the Baron is the nadir of Oriental trickery; servants are the stool pigeons of evil; daggers lurk in the darkness and the hero discovers, with the speed of a snail, that he has a seven-year-old daughter.

Though one may get out of sympathy with the turns of plot, it's closely dovetailed. And there is always something interesting about Americans fond of living abroad without in any way reflecting on their affection for our homeland. That the atmosphere of a place can bring on this dual allegiance accounts for the faraway look when Americans who've lived abroad speak of their foreign haunts. It is this quality which is so well captured in "Tokyo Joe" and lends the melodrama a credibility extraneous from its plot.

Neatly done is the strained first meeting of Bogart with his one-time partner. Not until they go in for some playful jui-jitsu do they recapture their friendship. The film is careful to point out that there are good and bad Japanese, a point which you may have forgotten as totally as I had.

Florence Marly, of the high cheekbones, is the lady in the case and several times you hear her singing "Those Foolish Things," that haunting little song which runs through the film. While this adventure of Bogy's is no "Casablanca," the man's certainly getting around the globe.

SENATORS Eastland (D., Miss.) and Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) have put the spokes in Senator Douglas' efforts to get Government heating at cost into the Belasco Theater for use by the congressionally chartered ANTA . . . The plan would have been the same as that used in heating the Red Cross and the DAR buildings . . . Senator Eastland made his name opposing the President's civil rights program and Senator Hickenlooper added to his by his unsubstantiated attack on David E. Lilienthal . . . It's a blow to ANTA's effort, but not fatal.

ANOTHER NEW THEATER is promised by Samuel F. Roth, who recently announced the coming Plaza Theater on New York ave., off 14th st. . . . This newest in the Roth chain will be the Embassy at Mozart pl. and Columbia rd., just off 16th st. . . . The deal has been hanging fire for some time, but it's hoped to start work shortly for a spring opening . . . This latest of the neighborhood movie houses will seat about 700 . . . The Virginia impressario is making quite a splash, working into the Ambassador's long-held territory.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY'S "Thank You, Just Looking" made its New York bow under George Abbott's banner as "Touch and Go" and the aisle-sitters' returns have begun to come in . . . Several are raves including the World-Telegram's William Hawkins, who find it "up to the minute with its spoofing" . . . Richard Watts, jr., in the Post finds it "a pleasant, lively and good-looking show with some admirable things about it" . . . The Sun's Ward Morehouse was unaccountably absent, that first-nighter's chair being taken by Herrick Brown who felt that "'Lend An Ear' does it better" . . . More on this next week.

50,000 Flock To Center at Shirlington

Intermittent rains yesterday failed to dampen perceptibly interest in Shirlington Shopping Center's anniversary celebration on its fifth day. An estimated 50,000 persons flocked through the community's 48 stores until 9 p. m. last night, Milton Elsberg, president of the Shirlington Business Men's Association, reported.

Today will see the climax of the week-long celebration which has featured birthday sales, fashion shows. This evening at 6 p. m. prizes will be awarded, including a new Ford.

More than 200,000 persons have visited the center in the past five days, Elsberg estimated, with today expected to be tops in attendance.

Blood Proves Orphan Isn't Kidnaped Boy

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 14 (AP). Laboratory blood tests showed conclusively today that an abandoned 6-year-old waif here is not the kidnaped son of a Dayton, Ohio, couple

For two days the parentage of 6-year-old William Thomas O'Neill had been in question.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thompson had come to Michigan, hoping Tommy would prove to be their son, Ronald, kidnaped five years ago from their Dayton home.

Clarence Ramsay, director of the Michigan Children's Institute, said Tommy will be placed up for adoption later.

The Thompsons won't be allowed to adopt him, Ramsay said. They have two younger children, and it is against institute policy to allow an adopted child to become the oldest in the family

Mrs. Thompson was stunned for several minutes. Then she broke into tears.

Chicago Man Named By Ophthalmologists

Chicago, Oct. 14 (AP). — Dr. Derrick T. Vail, Chicago, today was named president-elect of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryncology.

Dr. J. MacKenzie Brown, of Los Angeles, chosen president-elect a year ago, became president at the closing today of the fifty-fourth annual session of the academy.

Editor Says World Curbs On Press Up

Orono, Me., Oct. 14 (U.P.).—Barriers to free information in the world have grown higher as the political climate of the world has grown worse, Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, said today.

Speaking at a Maine Newspaper Day observance, Canham said the drive for free information has had "very indifferent success."

The editor who served at the United Nations Conference on Freedom of Information in Geneva as United States delegate last year, suggested a four-point program to break down the barriers stemming a free flow of information:

1. The American press should rededicate itself to the task of doing a more responsible job of informing the American people.

2. American newspapermen should undertake a cooperative effort to raise newspapers in other countries into the same place in the community that they enjoy in the United States.

3. Private media of information should be used to spread the American story abroad to the fullest possible extent.

4. Americans must awaken to the fact that the great struggle of the time is a war of ideas, and they must reactivate the ideas by which they live.

Hayden Will Head Prosecution Staff In A. & P. Case

J. Francis Hayden, chief of the New York office of the Justice Department Antitrust Division, will assume charge October 17 of the trial staff handling the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. case, Attorney General McGrath said yesterday.

Hayden is being relieved of his duties as chief of the New York yesterday.

Hayden is being relieved of his duties as chief of the New York office to devote full time to the case, McGrath said in a statement.

Melville C. Williams, chief of the Midwest office of the Antitrust Division, Chicago, was designated as chief of the New York office and Willis L. Hotchkiss, now assistant chief of the Midwest office, will move up to head it.

Rodolfo A. Correa of New York, was designated supervisor of the Antitrust Division field offices; Stanley E. Disney, now chief of the Middle Atlantic office, Philadelphia, as chief of the new San Francisco office, and George W. Jansen as new chief of the Middle Atlantic office.

Keep in Trim

Overweight Is Frequently Sign of Malnutrition

By Ida Jean Kain

This is the first of a series of three articles on balanced menus for overweights.

PARADOXICAL as it seems on the surface, overweight is very often a sign of malnutrition. What—with all that padding?

Well of course not all overweights are poorly nourished. But if you overeat on the foods that contribute calories galore, and shy away from the foods that furnish the necessary nutrients, you are not well fed, appearances to the contrary.

See if these meals fit. You don't care for breakfast, just a sweet roll or toast and coffee. Lunch is generally a sandwich and coffee—well, perhaps you will have a piece of French pastry, since you don't feel quite satisfied. Dinner is meat and potatoes, maybe a little gravy, sometimes a vegetable . . . oh, yes, a roll, plus dessert and coffee. And what's wrong with that way of eating, you demand—it's what you like.

That food pattern provides plenty of calories and to spare. But if you skip milk and cheese and don't bother with an egg at breakfast, it is quite likely you are not getting enough protein, certainly not enough calcium and phosphorus. If you care little for vegetables and don't get around to eating fruit, then the menus are lacking in needed vitamins as well as minerals. Oh, well, what's the difference, you may shrug—I'd still rather eat what I like.

The difference? If you knew that a change in your food habits would put a roar of power in your motor and bring your weight to normal, make you fun to live with and glad to be alive, would you be interested? You would . . . good!

Give it a whirl this fall. Naturally you'll start with a good breakfast, because that meal starts the motor purring sweetly. Just get into the habit of having a citrus fruit or juice, either fresh, canned or frozen; an egg, or have cereal with a full glass of milk; plus a slice of toast and coffee. That breakfast is not calorie heavy, but it provides all the material needed for a good morning's work.

If your job calls for heavy thinking in the afternoon, then eat a light lunch. If you're a working girl, it is a good plan to order some protective food not apt to be included at dinner. If you don't like to cook fresh vegetables at home, have them at lunch.

Plan the daily meals around these keeping-young foods: milk (or skim milk or buttermilk), 2 glasses; 1 or 2 eggs; a serving of lean meat, fish or fowl; 2 or 3 vegetables and 2 or 3 fruits. The amount of bread and buttter and cereal depends on your weight.

To help you plan balanced menus within your calorie requirements, see tomorrow's vegetable and fruit classification.

My Wife Wants—

—the city to install a contraption underground, running parallel with the pedestrian zone, which would come out of the ground 6 or 8 inches with the change of traffic lights so that the autos would find it rough going. It also would put an end to people running lights it's a shame that such a fine home doesn't have an owner. We feel the same way about it and are most anxious that this be corrected. A rambler, brick construction, 4 bedrooms, of course a bath—tile, a huge studio-living room, dining room, and an equipped kit. Basement, plus recreation room all this on a quarter of an acre in Virginia Forest. Priced to sell at $19,750.

THEY SAY

WE THINK

this is a modest home at a modest price. $13,500, total price. $2500 cash required, the monthly terms to suit you. Now here's what you get: A brick Cape Cod, living room with fireplace, separate dining room, equipped kitchen, 2 bedrooms and bath, and stairway to second floor expansion, with dormers already in. Matter of fact, the heating is already roughed in. One of the finest landscaped lots that we have seen and a great big full basement with loads of space. # O'Donnell's Holdup Gets Waiter 2 Years

A stickupman without a gun was sentenced yesterday to serve from two to six years in prison for the $174 holdup robbery of O'Donnell's Sea Food Grill.

The sentence was imposed by Judge Richmond B. Keech of Municipal Court on Bernard F. Toomey, 38, an unemployed waiter who lived at 511 4th st. nw.

Toomey was arrested after the restaurant at 1221 E st. nw. was robbed. He admitted putting his hand in his pocket as if he had a gun in taking the money from a woman cashier.

Also sentenced yesterday was Nathaniel Foster, 26, listed on court papers as residing at 136 R st. ne. He received a three-to-nine-year term for housebreaking. Judge Matthew F. McGuire noted that Foster had a criminal record.

Senate-House Group Agrees on Minimum Wage

A Senate-House conference committee yesterday agreed on terms of legislation to increase the minimum wage from the present 40 cents an hour to 75 cents.

There was no dispute over the amount of the increase in the separate bills passed by the two Houses. The main issue was the number of workers to be excluded from coverage by the law.

The present law covers about 22,600,000 workers. The House bill would have reduced that figure by about 1,005,000 workers. The Senate measure would have excluded about 200,000.

Senator Elbert Thomas (D., Utah) said there is no way of estimating the number excluded under the compromise approved until the new provision has been tested in the courts. He said that might take years.

Senator Pepper (D., Fla.) said that from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 workers would get pay increases under the compromise. He figured that the higher minimum wage would cost employes about 300 million dollars a year.

Europe Group to Meet

Paris, Oct. 14 (AP).—The European Council's Ministerial Committee will meet here November 3, followed four days later by the permanent committee of the council's consultative assembly, it was announced today.

Man Saves Life By Pushing Severed Legs Into Fire

Olustee, Okla., Oct. 14 (AP).—A farmer was alive today because, his doctor said, he had the courage to push his bleeding and amputated legs into a fire.

Thirty-three-year-old C. B. Hughes lost both legs yesterday when he tried to free his arm pinned in a hay baler.

He attracted his wife's attention two hours later by setting a fire to a bale of hay.

Doctors described his condition last night as "fair." They said his arm will be amputated later.

Hughes' wife said he pushed his legs—severed below the knees—into the flame to stop their bleeding and relieve pain.

Hillside Civic Group Elects H. D. Wesley

Henry D. Wesley, mail carrier, of 1421 Bangor st. se., last night was reelected president of Hillsdale Civic Association.

Others elected at the meeting in the Birney School, Nichols ave. and Howard rd. se., were the Rev. Samuel Guiles, pastor of Campbell A. M. E. Church, vice president; Mrs. Margaret McMillan, recording secretary, and Miss Althea Howard, corresponding secretary.

Dilemma, Dilemma!

Chicago, Oct. 14 (AP).—Howard Khansen of Chicago got a notice today to serve on the jury that will try him on burglary charges.

New Piston Quartet Handsome

By Paul Hume

The Budapest String Quartet headlined a new American quartet last night in their second program at the Library of Congress.

The native composition was the work of Walter Piston, distinguished chairman of the music division of Harvard University and one of our country's principal musicians. It is his third quartet, composed in 1947 but not published until this year. Last night was its Washington premiere.

It is a handsome piece, concise but not lacking in those qualities of lyricism and structural interest often missing in the economical writing of today's writers. Of its three movements, the first and last move with a jocosity indicated by the composer's marking, "capriciously."

These retain their rhythmic verve at all times, and are often enhanced by sweeping sustained lines in one of the four instruments. The middle movement is an eloquent dialogue between viola and cello, with the violins commenting obliquely from time to time.

The cello's part in this section is especially moving. It was wonderfully handled by Mischa Schneider who was also outstanding in the marvelous bouncing lines given the cello in the Mozart A Major quartet which opened the concert.

This miracle of poetry is the only mature quartet by Mozart in A Major, a key uniquely gracious for the four strings. It is the fifth of the set dedicated to Haydn and must be one of the chief reasons for the older composer's high tribute to the genius of Mozart. It was played to perfection in every way. The Budapest Quartet is more than usually felicitous in Mozart.

Their concluding quartet in B Flat was the final work in this form by Brahms, written just before his first symphony.

Mrs. Simpson, Marquess Sail To Wed in D.C.

London, Oct. 14 (UP)—Mrs. Romaine Pierce Simpson, 26-year-old Washington divorcee, and her fiance, the Marquess of Milford Haven, left today for the United States where they will be married late in November.

Mrs. Simpson was wearing a huge engagement ring, a brilliant ruby, flanked by 20 diamonds.

"We only bought it yesterday," she said.

They boarded the Queen Elizabeth, due in New York, Oct. 19.

The Russian-born marchioness of Milford Haven, mother of the prospective bridegroom, accompanied the engaged couple.

Mrs. Simpson said the exact date for the wedding, to be held at her mother's home in Washington, D. C., had not yet been set, but it probably would be next month.

Milford Haven, 30, said he would go on a five-week tour of the United States, "selling radiators," before he marries Mrs. Simpson.

Opera Guild to Hold Adult Auditions Today

The Opera Guild of Washington will hold auditions today for places in the adult section of its chorale group for "all who love to sing," it was announced yesterday.

Professional singers will direct the group, but nonprofessional singers are invited to appear, according to Miss Dorothy Remington, director. The group will be trained for a concert to be given in the spring.

Auditions will be held at 7:30 p. m. at the United Nations Club, 19th and R sts. nw.

The Family Scrapbook

By Dr. Ernest G. Osborne

News Via the Family Bulletin Board

When we were visiting Chinese universities a couple of years ago, we were very much interested in seeing that most of the national and international news as well as that of local interest was posted on big wall boards. Here in America we are fortunate in having newspapers and news magazines available to practically everyone.

But there's an interesting idea for the family coming out of these news wall boards. Items that one member of the family thinks others would like to read or should read can be posted. The family bulletin board, which may have carried messages from Mom to the children or vice versa when the family was younger, can be used for a news board.

If each person keeps in mind the idea that it might be interesting to get the reactions of the rest of the family to a recent speech made by the town mayor or to the current labor controversy, there can be a good bit of grist for conversation during and after dinner

Nor nned all the items be serious ones. Cartoons that are especially good are fun to share with the family.

NAPOLEON

WE'VE GOT TO GET THERE BEFORE THE EXHIBIT OPENS, WILLIE. IT'S NOT HONEST. WE'VE GOT TO TELL THEM NAPOLEON PAINTED THOSE PICTURES WITH HIS TAIL. I WAS A FOOL EVER TO LET OLD CAPTAIN FLOURISH GET ME INTO THIS!

STOP! STOP EVERYTHING! THERE'S SOMETHING YOU SHOULD KNOW!
LATER. LATER, OLD MAN. WE'RE TOO BUSY TO TALK NOW. THE EXHIBIT OPENS IN THIRTY MINUTES.

The Best in Me

I gather up the yesteryears . . . And weigh them one by one . . . My actual accomplishments . . . And what I might have done . . . I wonder where I would have gone . . . And what I would have gained . . . If I had turned the other way . . . And never once complained . . . If I had never longed to rise . . . Above the common life . . . With all the heavy burden of . . . Its struggle and its strife . . . I might have had a brighter world . . . With happiness supreme . . . And then again it might have been . . . A most unpleasant dream . . . But in the end I tell myself . . . Whatever else might be . . . At least my humble heart has tried . . . To give the best in me.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

In This Case, the Law Is On the Side of the Out-of-Stater

J. B. Blackistone of 3816 Hayes st. ne. poses a question which has probably troubled other motorists. He asks:

"What protection does a District resident have against out-of-State drivers who come here, inflict damage on our property, and then skip back home?"

District Liner Blackistone refers specifically to a visitor who rammed into his car, caused $25 worth of damage, and then showed no interest whatever in making amends.

I took the matter to F. L. D., who writes our interesting "What's The Verdict" feature. Here's the gist of his opinion:

Many States have laws which provide that a visiting motorist automatically "appoints" an official there to act as his agent for the service of legal papers. Usually, the traffic director or highway director is the designated agent.

If the motorist becomes involved in a legal action, papers can be served on him by delivering them to the "agent," who usually tries to contact the visitor at his last known address, if any.

Ordinarily, the out-of-Stater doesn't show up for the court hearing, and the plaintiff wins by default. But winning the case and collecting damages are two different things.

Either you've got to record your judgement in the culprit's home State, and then try to attach property he may own there; or you've got to wait until he returns to the District, and grab him here. What's more important, grab his car—which can be ordered sold, to satisfy the judgment.

But in a $25 case, you lose even when you win. The expense of going through all these legal steps makes it advisable to forget the whole thing.

It doesn't seem right—but that's the way it is.

THE SIMPLE LIFE

Have you ever heard the story of the farmer who came to New York to visit his successful son?

The son was busy at the office all day, so he suggested that Pop amuse himself as best he could until evening.

That night the son inquired how the old man had fared, and was told that he had spent a delightful day looking at the shop windows on 5th ave.

"You enjoyed walking around all day just looking at the shop windows," asked the sophisticated New Yorker.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Lovely yellow male kitten, 10 weeks old; high I.Q. and very cute." (Alexandria 4721.)

SPELLBOUND

Mrs. George M. Dove of 3503 Jefferson st., Hyattsville, Md., may have the answer to a problem which has troubled me for a number of years.

Every parent has occasion to examine school papers and other compositions written by his children; and even the most casual of us is bound to notice the spelling—or lack of it.

Many times I have recoiled in horror at some orthographic monstrosity and asked, "Don't they teach spelling at Knothead College, son?" But I am always dismissed airily with: "That's not one of our spelling words this year."

Mrs. Dove thinks that the reason we oldsters are having so much trouble with this sort of thing is that, in our day, we were taught the sounds of letters before we were taught to spell. But the modern technique is quite different — so we're just out of step with the times.

Maybe so. But I'm a guy who spends so much time proofreading on the job that I involuntarily proofread every written word I see.

However, after a brief exposure to what passes for spelling these days, I find that I can't spell, either. Look at a word long enough, and you'll begin to doubt your ability to spell it. Look at a misspelled word long enough and you're completely lost.

HUNCH

The fellow who won $17,000 on the Laurel daily double Thursday reminds me of the only time I ever cashed a double ticket.

After the first horse won and paid $12.80, friends in my party started making me offers for my ticket.

My choice in the second race looked like he had a good chance to win, and the bidding finally got up to $30, at which point I closed the auction with the pronouncement:

"AS THE TWIG IS BENT"

I'm shocked by the number of letters I get telling of wanton cruelty to animals.

My files bulge with reports that "boys in the neighborhood" kill birds, cats and all sorts of creatures — for no apparent reason.

Some letters add: "The parents of these children encourage these practices." That seems hard to believe.

I've known people who became very annoyed with neighbors who permitted cats or dogs to run loose, and trespass on the property of others. In some cases, such pets were deliberately poisoned.

Perhaps there's a legal basis for such defense of one's property rights, but the practice can hardly be justified on moral grounds. And I think it's particularly deplorable when children are permitted to absorb this callous attitude.

At an early age, a child does not differentiate too clearly between humans and animals.

Through the ownership of a pet, he can learn kindness, consideration, responsibility and cooperation—qualities he will carry over into his relationships with humans.

But he can also learn cruelty, irresponsibility and selfishness if he's permitted to abuse dumb animals.

And it's the parent's job to see that he doesn't.

CURRENT NEWS

George A. Koplow of 3111 Patterson pl. nw. notes that our television listings recently included the WOIC program note:

"Westinghouse Electric Co. presents 'The Light That Failed.'"

Maybe it was about one of their competitors' products.

Justice Clark Honored

President Truman's weekly Cabinet meeting yesterday was devoted to honoring Tom C. Clark, new associate justice of the Supreme Court.

Clark went to the White House to meet again with the Cabinet officials with whom he sat as Attorney General. They presented him with a chronometer—a ship's clock—and a barometer for use in his new offices

Johnson Able to Make Decisions

By Drew Pearson

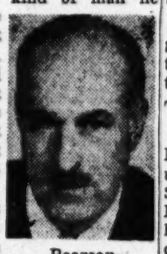
In view of the B-36 probe, a lot of people are asking questions about Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson—what kind of man he is, how does he operate, what makes him tick.



Pearson

A thumbnail answer is that Johnson fancies himself a great politician, but is one of the world's worst. He considers himself a smoothie when it comes to personal relations, though actually he's a bungler. It was Johnson who neglected his personal relations with Chairman Carl Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee, while the admirals were buttering him up.

But, as Secretary of Defense, Johnson has one quality absolutely essential to running the armed services of the United States. He can make decisions. He isn't always tactful about them, but when the brass hats have finished talking to Johnson they at least know where they stand.

Prior to Johnson's assumption of office, the Joint Chiefs of Staff never came to decisions. Now they do.

Defense Meetings

The Joint Chiefs of Staff consist of Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman; Admiral Louis Denfield, Chief of Naval Operations; Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Chief of Staff for Air, and Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Chief of Staff for the Army. The three Secretaries—Stuart Symington for Air, Francis Matthews for the Navy and Gordon Grey for the Army—sit with Johnson and the Joint Chiefs every Tuesday.

When they leave the conference table there is nearly always either a definite decision on policy or a command to get more information in order to make the decision. In the latter case, Johnson will always set a date when the information must be on his desk. Sometimes—if told the information will take six months to collect—he replies: "Make it three."

In addition to the Tuesday meetings of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Johnson meets on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays with the Joint Chiefs and his own staff. This consists of Undersecretary Steve Early, the Assistant Secretaries for Defense, the Joint Chiefs and the research and development branch.

Johnson goes the rounds of the services, calls on the Army, Navy and Air Force; and, if any conflicts develop, they are decided on the spot. The Secretary of Defense listens carefully to both sides, then says:

"We'll do it this way, gentlemen."

Admiral Halsey in Reverse

In making his decisions, Johnson shows a tremendous knowledge of the three services. Part of this was gained when he was Assistant Secretary of the Army in the Roosevelt Administration, but part obviously was gained from a great deal of personal study.

Johnson's decisions in favor of economy are now what have got him in so much trouble with the Navy, which had found a more sympathetic listener in James Forrestal, its former boss. However, Forrestal, harassed, tired and anxious to please, frequently postponed making decisions in his latter years.

This may have been what prompted Admiral "Bull" Halsey to testify at the secret hearings of the Richardson Board on Unification:

"I am probably one of the lone naval officers in favor of a single department (of National Defense). In other words, I believe in unity. I want a department headed up by someone who could tell them (the brass hats) to do this, do that."

However, when Admiral Halsey got a Secretray of Defense who told the brass hats to do this, do that, he squawked to high heaven.

Tieless Kentucky Senator

Homespun, easygoing Garrett Lee Withers is probably the most unaffected man in the United States Senate. The Kentucky Democrat takes his job, but not himself, seriously. If it's more comfortable to work in his office without a tie—off comes the tie.

The same applies to his shoes—if he isn't talking to visitors.

Withers was sitting thus comfortably dressed when the Senate bell rang, announcing a quorum call. Quickly, the Senator slid into his shoes, but forgot his tie. And with his neck thus unadorned he rushed onto the floor of the dignified Senate.

Finally, Senate Special Officer Bill Brennan, who also hails from the Blue Grass country, beckoned Withers into an anteroom.

"Senator, do you know that you aren't wearing a tie?" he asked.

"My goodness!" exclaimed Withers, feeling his neck, "you're right. What am I going to do?"

Brennan solved the "crisis" by slipping off his own necktie, a snappy, multitoned job, and looped it on the Senator, who then answered his name on the quorum roll call.

NEW YORK.—On the piano in Arthur Rubinstein's home is a rare photo showing him with his unruly hair plastered down. He plastered his hair because of the other man in the photograph—Albert Einstein, whose hair is wilder than the pianist's . . . A few weeks ago Rubinstein plastered his hair down for the second time. It was for the Northwestern University ceremonies where he and Heifetz and Piatigorsky were receiving honorary degrees. The mortarboard he was to wear with the academic gown was too small to cage his wild hair. Mrs. Rubinstein wet his unruly locks, brushed them down, and even then she had to slit the back of the cap to make it fit. "Don't touch it," she warned, then sat down and watched him trying to get it back on again—for the ceremonies opened with the playing of the national anthem.

In the rear of the home where Aly Khan and Rita Hayworth live in the south of France is a railroad track so near the house that the conditions are not unlike the tremors portrayed in the Linda Darnel shack in a "Letter to Three Wives." Some of the engineers and conductors on the train, who perhaps resent the fact that Aly violated their dreams by marrying their adored screen star, toot the whistle each time their train passes the house, and its piercing wail constitutes their personal revenge at regular intervals throughout the night . . . So accustomed is Aly to the shattering rumble of the nearby speeding train that when he and Rita visited the Darryl Zanucks at Palm Springs, he continued shaving throughout an earthquake, and later said, "I just thought it was your local train."
